First Radio Picture Of Assassinated Monarch

The body of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, lying in the prefecture of police in Marseilles, France, to which he was brought, and where he died, after an assassin had fired on the king and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, of France, inflicting wounds from which both died. The assassin himself was shot to death. This picture was rushed from France by way of London via telephoto, radio and thence by aeroplane to the Edmonton Bulletin.

VOTERS' LISTS TO GET START NEXT MONDAY

Army of 283 Checkers Will Canvass Edmonton Ridings

Throughout the dominion a miniature army of enumerators will start compiling Canada's first permanent list of electors on Monday, October 15. In east and west Edmonton ridings 283 persons will make a house-to-house canvass gathering names of those entitled to vote.

It is estimated that when the enumeration is completed on Saturday evening, October 20, there will be approximately 46,000 names on the lists in the two ridings; 22,700 in east, and 23,000 in west Edmonton.

The lists compiled at this enumeration will establish a permanent continuous elector's list which will be brought up-to-date by regular annual revisions and will be always ready and available for an election whenever it might be called.

Formerly lists of electors were made for each election and when the election for which they had

LAMSON GETS ANOTHER TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13—The California supreme court today granted David A. Lamson, former Stanford press executive, a new trial for murder of his wife, Allene, for which he had been convicted and sentenced to hang.

The supreme court declared evidence produced in the trial at San Jose was no stronger than mere suspicion.

Watchman Kills Self At Provost

PROVOST, Oct. 13.—John A. Nelson, 66, watchman at the C.N.R. gravel pit at Bodo, committed suicide in his bunk house early Thursday, shooting himself through the head. He was believed despondent over financial troubles. He leaves a wife at Graham Beach, Manitoba, and a brother at Brandon.

Slayings Are Laid To Beauty

PARIS, Oct. 13. — A beautiful young woman police described as the "Gun Girl" for the assassin of King Alexander of Yugo-Slavia was sought near Aix-en-Provence last night as police in France and over Europe trailed an international terror ring.

Believing the gang, with headquarters in Hungary, seeks the death of all Europe's rulers, the French people formally charged Zvonemer Pospechil, Yugoslav expatriate and fugitive from justice, with complicity in the Marseilles murders.

Advices from Geneva said Yugoslav delegates to the League of Nations had reports from persons present at Annemasse Friday when Pospechil and Ivan Rajtich, his fellow suspect, were grilled, that the latter confessed he went to Paris to await orders for Alexander's slaying.

FOURTH SUSPECT

A fourth suspect, one Quiqueran Delauzen of Austria, who was taken Friday near Chambery as he attempted to cross the border into Italy through an Alpine pass, was released last night after he convinced police his presence at Aix-en-Provence was innocent.

The hunt for the "gun girl" — the young woman police believe brought the pistols to Petrus Kalemen, the assassin, who also stayed at Aix—was being pushed vigorously last night.

HAD VISITORS

Police said she reached Aix Sunday night with four valises, one of which police believed contained the death-dealing guns Kalemen used. Three persons were known to have visited her, and the description of one of them resembled that of Egon Kramer, Kalemen's companion.

The girl's name, police said, was given as Marie Vjoudroch. She was said to be 24 years old, Czechoslovakian and of great beauty.

Eden Arrives

SINISTER GANG POWER BEHIND KING'S KILLING

Terrorists Known As "Utasha" Accused by French Surete

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Copyright, 1934, by Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 13—The terrorist band "Utasha" which Yugoslavia accuses Hungary of harboring, was identified by the French Surete Nationale today as the sinister power behind the assassinations of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Louis Barthou of France at Marseilles Tuesday.

Two suspects held in Annemasse and two men who escaped the police hunt for accomplices of Petrus Kalemen, the actual assassin, were identified from photographs as members of the Yugoslav refugee organization Utasha which is alleged to be headed by a man named V. E. Paverich.

It was this organization, said the police, which sent a pretty-brown-haired woman to carry the gang's guns to France. The "Gun Moll's" name was Mari Vjoudroch, the police said. The girl escaped capture.

The other two fugitives are Sylvester Chalny, alias Malny, and Egon Kramer, their photographs were identified as those of Zilni and Egon Kvaternik, Jugoslav terrorists.

A sailor, Antoine Olan, was arrested in Marseilles where the Surete Nationale immediately began grilling him as a suspected accomplice of the Mysterious Nikomir Nalis who police believed to be a member of the same band.

RIOTS FLARE IN MEXICO

MEXICO, D.F., Oct. 13.—Outbursts of anti-government rioting resulted in injuries to 10 persons Friday. An earlier report of witnesses that a woman was killed was denied by authorities.

Male Milk Goat

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—A male milk goat was discovered today in the Pomeranian village of Vehlingsdorf. The he-goat is six years old and yields about a pint of milk daily.

MYSTERY ENVELOPS FATE OF WOMAN KIDNAP VICTIM

CANUCK WOMAN EFFECTS ARREST OF BOLD CROOK

SAUSALITO, Calif., Oct. 13.—Lucius Albert Parmalee, the so-called "Santa Claus forger," long sought by Canadian and United States police, came to the end of his notorious trail here Friday when the wife of a Canadian bank clerk clutched him firmly about the neck on a downtown street and shouted for police.

The woman, Mrs. Charles W. Wilson, flung her arms around the 44-year-old Parmalee's neck after her war-wounded husband, a teller of the Canadián Bank of Commerce branch in nearby San Francisco, pointed him out.

Wilson, who lost a leg in the Great War, said he recognized Parmalee as the man who passed a $3,500 forged cheque at the San Francisco bank recently.

Parmalee, in the cleric garb he used so often to gain the confidence of unsuspecting bank workers, made no effort to break away and police quoted him as saying:

"I'm glad it's all over."

He reportedly told the authorities the wide success he enjoyed as a forger in many parts of Canada and the United States was due to the fact that he learned the ways of bank business while working in one in Montreal many years ago.

Inspector Arthur McQuade said Parmalee admitted he had cashed

NORTH RUSHES TO ASSISTANCE NEEDY FAMILY

Bulletin's Story of Fire-Ridden Man and Wife Meets Response

The hospitality of the north is traditional, but there are just as big hearts beating beneath the tailored clothes of the dwellers in the big cities, as there are under the buckskin jackets of the men of the bush.

Within a few hours The Bulletin carrying a story of the plight of Ciril Fredericks, 65, and his aged wife, 55, at Calling Lake as a result of fire wiping out their humble home while they were haying in a meadow, Bulletin readers rallied with offers to help for the homeless aged couple, facing the approaching winter in a weather-beaten tent lent them by neighbors as hard up as themselves, and without clothing, furniture or bedding.

Two bundles of clothing have already been received at the Bulletin office, sent in by kind-hearted

U.S. BAD BOYS STILL HUNTED

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 13—The southwest's two most notorious outlaws—Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, and his companion, Adam Richetti—were hunted by posses in central and eastern Missouri last night, after the elusive killers, reported sighted in at least three communities, had dodged police-traps during the day.

A National Guard airplane, equipped with two-way wireless communication and carrying a machine gun, was ordered from St. Louis to aid state, county and city peace officers in the manhunt for the desperadoes named by the department of justice as two of the three "trigger men" who had killed four officers and a convict at the Kansas City Union station, June 17, 1933.

GERMANY TO NULLIFY PACT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. — The economically harrassed German government today made a drastic move to clarify its involved economic and financial relations with the United States by announcing its intention of terminating its unconditional most-favored-nation commercial treaty with this country on Oct. 14, 1935.

President Refuses To See Tardy Millionaire Caller

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. — Rudolph Spreckels, millionaire California sugar man, stepped breezily into the White House at 11:45 a.m. today for an 11:30 o'clock appointment with President Roosevelt.

With a confident smile, Speckels presented his card.

A moment later one of the president's aides returned and informed Spreckles the president was tied up on other matters and could not receive the 15-minute-late guest.

Spreckles smile vanished. Asked if he would return later, he said:

PARIS CABINET SHAKE-UP ON

PARIS, Oct. 13—A shake-up in the French cabinet, precipitated by the assassination of King Alexander of Jugoslavia on French soil, was set for today.

Faced with the task of filling gaps in his ministry, Premier Gaston Doumergue convoked a cabinet meeting, to take place immediately after the funeral of Louis Barthou, who was killed by one of the assassin's wild shots.

Announcement was awaited as to the successors to Barthou and also Albert Sarraut, minister of interior, who tendered his resignation in accepting his department's responsibility for the Marseilles assassinations.

REFUND LOAN OVER BIDDEN

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—Over-subscription of the 1934 Dominion refunding loan by almost $33,000,000 necessitating a heavy scaling down of the larger cash subscriptions was announced by Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes. The total subscribed for the $250,000,000 flotation was almost $283,000,000.

All cash subscriptions were received subject to allotment and they will be cut, while holders of maturing victory bonds re-investing the new loan will receive the full amount of their subscriptions.

"With an over-subscription of about $33,000,000," said Mr. Rhodes, "the loan may be regarded as an outstanding success and a fitting culmination to the series of refunding issues which have been made at lower interest rates since 1931."

Scotland Yard Detective Sniffs Envelope When Called to Ocean Liner

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

PARIS, Oct. 13.—I have learned how the mystery of the disappearance of a $500,000 diamond necklace from the safe of a giant ocean liner was solved by a mere sniff on the part of Mr. George Slothwell, detective of Scotland Yard, after the captain and officers of the ship were ready in despair to admit the heavy loss. The stunt which came near defrauding the insurance company and the shipping concern of half a million dollars, belongs to one of the cleverest and

SOPWITH IS CHIDED FOR SAILOR LACK

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—T. O. M. Sopwith handled the America's cup racer Endeavour "Like a six-year-old boy" and made "one shocking mistake after another," Frank Ratsey, of Ratsey and Lapthorn, Cowes, Isle of Wight, makers of the sails on the Endeavour and Rainbow, declared today as he sailed for England on the liner Alaunia.

Ratsey, a retired captain in the Royal Navy, said the amateur crew was not at fault. "They did wonderful work," he said. In explaining the series he said, "Sopwith has been at this thing only four years: Vanderbilt has raced all his life. Sopwith tried to do in four years what another man took a life-time in learning."

LINDY LIKELY TAKE STAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—If the defense plays its ace—putting Bruno Hauptmann on the stand in his fight against extradition for the Lindbergh kidnapping—the state of New Jersey may try to trump by calling Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh as a witness.

This possibility received attention today as a result of the New Jersey attorney-general's declaration that "we have decided on everything" for the extradition hearing in Bronx County Monday, but "we have no comment" on whether Lindbergh will testify.

Depression Solved

REGINA, Sas., Oct. 13.—Registered nurses of this city are solving their own unemployment problems. Through the medium of an eight-hour day they plan to increase nursing periods and reduce fees to provide work. Under the present system nurses work 12 hours a day.

POLICE DASHING AROUND SEEKING BODY IN WOODS

Squads of Officers Comb Area for Signs of Mrs. Alice Stoll

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 13.—Squads of city and county police today rushed toward the vicinity of the Bullard school house, a quarter of a mile from the home of Mrs. Alice Stoll, wealthy young kidnap victim, who was brutally abducted and held for $50,000 ransom Wednesday. They came from several directions in automobiles and motorcycles at high speed. It was feared Mrs. Stoll may have been killed by the kidnapper.

The sudden activity of the officers, who had for almost two days remained out of sight on the plea of the Stoll family that the kidnapper might have an opportunity to contact them, was not explained.

SPREAD IN SEARCH

The men spread out as though to search the 16-acre Stoll estate and to comb the woods and brush of nearby places. A policeman who refused to reveal his name said he believed a "big break" had some in the case and said he would not be surprised even to find the woman's body.

The Stoll family, aided by department of justice agents and the city and county police, had for nearly two days given the whole area around the big coun-

GREEN NAMED LABOR HEAD

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The American Federation of Labor re-elected President William Green late today after enlarging its executive committee from 11 to 18 members and adopting a resolution describing as "biased, unfair and inconsiderate" the membership of S. Clay Williams, Toronto official, upon the new NRA board.

The federation's 54th annual convention, after shouting down attempts by alleged Communists to introduce a set of proposals, adopted unanimously the resolution condemning Williams' attitude toward Labor and asking President Roosevelt to investigate his record.

The election of Green also was unanimous.

RANGERS MEET WITH SURPRISE

GLASGOW, Oct. 13.—Partick Thistle defeated Glasgow Rangers by 1-0 in a surprise upset in the final for the Glasgow city soccer cup this afternoon. Besides costing them the cup they won last year, the match deprived Rangers of a chance to keep on top of the Scottish League.

GLASGOW, Oct. 13.—St. Johnstone went into leadership of the first division of the Scottish Football League this afternoon, winning over Ayr United by 4-0, while Glasgow Rangers, hitherto on top, were engaged in a non league fixture.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Arsenal climbed up into a tie with Manchester City for leadership of the first division of the English Football League, when the Gunners on their own ground trounced the City, cup-holding eleven, by 3-0 before a capacity crowd.

LAVAL NAMED FOR BARTHOU

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Pierre Laval, Minister of the Colonies, today was named Minister of Foreign Affairs succeeding the assassinated Louis Barthou.

Fugitive Taken

REGINA, Oct. 13.—Two nights after he had successfully escaped from custody of R.C.M.P. escort at Nalcam, Sask., Bill Fyderchuk, man of a long criminal record, was recaptured by other members of the force in the Quill Lake area Friday night.

U.S. TREASURY CALLS BILLION LIBERTY LOAN

By RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. — The United States treasury last night called a $1,870,000,000 block of fourth liberty loan bonds while President Roosevelt, laughing at conflicting reports of new inflationary steps, kept the path to them clearly open.

The bonds, bearing a 4¼ per cent coupon, will cease drawing interest next April 15. Their holders will have the option of receiving cash for them or exchanging them for new government securities yielding a smaller return.

That the president is paying close attention to the monetary situation there could be no doubt.

LONGSHOREMEN GET PAY INCREASE

STRIKE RESULTS IN GAIN TO MEN ON WEST COAST

Roosevelt's Arbitration Board, However, Tells Union hiring Halls Must Be Shared By Employers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—President Roosevelt's arbitration board last night awarded the Pacific Coast Longshoremen, Coast Longshoremen, central group in last summer's bitterly-fought strike, increased wages and shorter hours, but ruled they must share control of their hiring halls with their employers.

Unconditional control of the hiring halls or employment agencies through which the longshoremen are sent to jobs was the paramount demand of the union in the weeks of bloody struggle leading up to the spectacular mass walkout of labor in San Francisco.

The Longshoremen had adamantly refused to arbitrate the hiring hall issue until after the end of the general strike.

Wages of 95 cents an hour, with $1.40 for overtime, and a 30-hour week were granted the longshoremen. They had asked $1 an hour and $1.50 for overtime, as well as the 30-hour week.

VOTERS' LIST WORK STARTS NEXT WEEK

been made was over they ceased to have any use except so far as they might have to be referred to in questions or proceedings arising out of that election.

As the lists to be prepared next week form the basis of the permanent voters list in the Dominion, electors should be extremely careful that their names are placed on these lists.

TWO OFFICIALS

For the purpose of enumeration in urban polls two enumerators are appointed under the act, one by the candidate having the largest number of votes at the last previous election and the other by that one of his then opponents who had received the next largest vote.

In urban polls the enumerators must act jointly, not individually. They will make their preliminary lists in a house-to-house canvas, and will leave at each house for each applicant there a notice of the grant or refusal of registration. They must visit each residence at least twice, once between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. and again between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

On completion of the enumeration the urban enumerators makes and certifies a complete list of all electors in his polling division, arranged in geographical order, and will post four of these lists in prominent places within the confines of the polling division.

The general qualifications of an elector to have his or her name placed on the voters' list are: 21 years of age, a British subject by birth or naturalization; ordinarily resident in Canada for 12 months, and in the electoral district where registration is sought for three months immediately preceding, in both cases, the date of application for registration.

In the case of refusal by enumerators to place a name on the lists that person has the right to appeal to the registrar of electors to have his name added to the preliminary lists. For this purpose the registrar will sit at appointed times to be advertised to hear applications of electors, omitted from or incorrectly entered in the preliminary lists, to have their names added or the necessary corrections made. Such applicants must appear in person unless unable to attend, in which case a relative or his or her employer may appear.

REVISION PRACTICE

The registrar will hear objections directed to the removal of names improperly on the lists, such objection may be made by a registered elector in the district. Notice and particulars of the objection must be given the elector challenged either through the revising officer or by the challenger direct. In the former case the elector challenged must establish to the satisfaction of the revising officer his right to vote; where the notice of objection is sent direct by the challenger to the elector challenged the obligation of justifying the challenge will be on the objector.

At revision hearings two representatives of each political party in the electoral district may be present, but may not take part or interfere without the revising officer's permission.

In rural polling divisions the procedure is simpler. One enumerator makes the preliminary list in each polling division. He places in at least six prominent places in the poll a notice that he is about to make a preliminary list for the polling division, which later he will revise, at sittings at a specified place on days and hours stated. The preliminary lists he compiles from personal knowledge, but house to house visits must be made where-ever possible.

In revising the lists the enumerators may upon satisfactory evidence either on oath or not, add or strike off names, or correct other inaccuracies.

APPEAL TO JUDGES

Appeal from a decision of either the registrar or revising officer or of a rural enumerator can be taken to a district court judge at sittings to be arranged later.

Dates of sittings of the revising officers in east and west Edmonton, the places at which revision of the lists will be made in both ridings have not yet been established, but it is expected this information will be forthcoming within the next few days.

Annual revision of the lists will take place between May 15 and July 1 each year at which objections to names on existing lists will be considered, and applications to have names added to the lists heard.

WOMAN HELD IN SLAYINGS

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 13.—Government efforts to link John Lazia, slain political leader of Kansas City's north side, with the slayings of four officers and their prisoner in front of the Union station here June 17, 1933, resulted in the questioning Friday of six associates and a political rival of Lazia.

The swiftly-moving developments also included the arraignment of Mrs. Vivian Miller, identified by authorities as the widow of Verne Miller, one of the machine-gunners, on a charge of conspiracy to release a federal prisoner. The prisoner, Frank Nash, was killed accidentally in the burst of gunfire directed at the officers by Nash's would-be rescuers.

$100,000 Saving Made But Work Not Suffering

BARRIE, Ont., Oct. 13—A saving of close to $100,000 has been made in the administration of the department of education without impairing its efficiency, Hon. L. J. Simpson, Ontario minister of education, declared Friday in an address before 300 delegates at the closing session of the ninth annual and third area convention of the Women's Institute of Simcoe county.

Jealous Of Sister, Girl Tries Suicide

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. — Jealous and unhappy because she thought her parents neglected her in favor of her older sister, fourteen-year-old Jeanette Friedman of Brooklyn, tried to commit suicide in her kitchen after writing this note:

"Dear parents: I kill myself because of Sylvia. I don't want to live. Goodby. Goodby, mother. Like Sylvia all you want. I don't care. Goodby, papa. Don't let S. come to my funeral."

HOW REPORT GOT OUT IS MAIN WORRY

Premier Hepburn Learns Province Had Deficit at Sept. 30

TORONTO, Oct. 13—Closely fol-Mitchell F. Hepburn to investigate Mitchell F. Hepburn t oinvestigate its falling into the hands of newspapermen, an auditor's report showing expenditures of $9,978,868 over revenue for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1934, found its way into the press room at the Ontario legislative building Friday.

The premier, who said not even he had seen the report, would not deny its accuracy but immediately placed responsibility for the deficit with the Conservative administration of Hon. George S. Henry.

"I'm going to investigate first thing in the morning how that statement got out," the Premier declared. "I have a good idea where it came from but I'm going to find out definitely in the morning."

Ordinary expenditures were $63,375,931, and revenues $53,397,062, the report stated. Expenditures increased over the previous year by $2,152,183, while revenue also increased by $383,143.

Expenditures by departments increased as follows: Lieutenant governor, $1,850; attorney general, $127,276; insurance, $5,557; lands and forests $153,194; northern development, $278,444; highways, $358,087; health, $930,939; welfare, $310,254.

ENFORCEMENT AID FOR NRA IS MUSTERED

Survey Reveals 95 Per Cent. of Complaints Easily Settled

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—In a move to strengthen the enforcement of Blue Eagle industrial codes, President Roosevelt Friday called upon three federal agencies to cooperate in this police work.

He formally abandoned previous plans for creating a separate judicial branch of the new NRA. The job will be taken over by the NRA. A study had disclosed about 95 out of 100 trade practice complaints could be settled by the NRA compliance division without reference to the justice department for prosecution.

The decision was reached just as Clay Williams, NRA chairman, stressed a determination to get the best code compliance possible. Coincidentally he formally heralded to newsmen an end to the "spectacular and glamorous" NRA of Hugh S. Johnson.

Williams then added his assertion to that recently given by Donald R. Richberg, recovery co-ordinator, that business need fear no sweeping changes in RA policies on such vital issues as price and production control, and the work week, although all are listed as major problems for consideration.

Mr. Roosevelt issued an executive order establishing a 36-hour week in the cotton garment industry as compared to the present 40-hour schedule. Wages will remain the same.

STICK-UP MAN PENS NOTICE OF INTENTION

THREE RIVERS, Que., Oct. 13—Found guilty of violating the Lord's Day act, the Canadian International Paper Co., Ltd., Three Rivers, was sentenced Friday by Judge F. X. Lacoursiere to a fine of $100 and the costs of the case.

At trial the company admitted having set men to work on Sunday, but claimed the action to be necessary. Company officials testified the fabrication of wood pulp necessitated certain labor on the Sunday. Otherwise production would be held up.

Fish Tail Figures In Angler's Tale

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 13—B. E. Bird, Springfield, swears the following fish story is true. He was fishing on the Finley River near Linden, Mo., when he got a strike thirty yards from the shore. He began reeling the fish in, and close to the bank it threw the hook from its mouth. Fearing he would catch his hook in a nearby tree, Bird quickly threw his line back into the water. It caught itself around a fish's tail and Bird pulled in a three-pound bass.

Bennett Sails; Ferguson Stays Despite Reports

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was on the ocean bound for Canada, but Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, who had been reported as travelling with him, was returning to London after bidding the premier farewell at Liverpool.

The Canadian high commissioner's plans to go to Liverpool in company with Premier Bennett led to an erroneous announcement last night that Mr. Ferguson also was returning to Canada. The announcement caused surprise here, and in Canada speculation on the possibility of an early general election, since Mr. Ferguson had just returned from a visit to the Dominion.

NEW STRIKES FEAR OF U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Several leaders of organized labor indicated Friday they expect a fresh wave of strikes throughout the United States within the next six months unless President Roosevelt is successful in arranging the industrial truce he proposes.

This attitude became known as reports were heard the president is not over-gratified at the results thus far of his suggestion that employers and Labor attempt "a special trial period of industrial peace."

The longshoremen, who went on strike May 9 and remained away from their jobs for 80 days, had asked for a wage increase from 85 cents to $1 an hour, with $1.50 an hour for overtime, full recognition of the International Longshoremen's Association and control of the hiring halls or employment egencies.

BRUNO MUST SHOW HAND

TRENTON, N.J., Oct. 13.—New Jersey officials were confident Friday that Bruno Richard Hauptmann, tight-lipped German carpenter, would be forced to show his hand Monday, when he resists a move to extradite him to this state to stand trial for the murder of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby.

Atorney-General David T. Wilentz said the "burden of proof" at the habeas corpus hearing in New York supreme court would be upon Hauptmann, who, he said, must show "by almost conclusive evidence" he was not in New Jersey the night of the crime, March 1, 1932.

Meanwhile, a new state witness, Frank Rossiter of Maplewood, N.J., entered the case amid considerable secrecy.

Bellhop's Beats Nobleman's Life

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13.—A bellhop in America lives better than a nobleman abroad, R. D. Cremona, local bellhop who has just returned from a trip to Europe where he took possession of a $1,000,000 inheritance, told the manager of the hotel here in which he used to work. The former employee was guest in the most luxurious suite the house possessed.

Cremona's inheritance, fittingly enough, came to him in the form of a string of hotels in a number of cities of the continent. Accompanied by his wife, a former waitress, he visited those cities to look them over.

In discussing the wretched plight of the European nobleman, Cremona said: "Living conditions are years behind the times, and most of those guys don't know it."

1914 SECRET SOCIETIES REVIVE

By The Associated Press

Petrus Kalemen's queer tattooing and French police investigations into an "International Terror Ring" have brought the numerous Balkan secret societies back into headlines.

Twenty years ago these organizations also were popular stuff for news pages as investigators sought to trace affiliations of Gavrilo Princep, 19-year-old Serb student who fired the shot that slew Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria and set nations of the whole world at war.

Tattooed on the dead arm of Kalemen, whose rapid-fire pistol spat death to King Alexander of Jugeslavia and French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, police found the letters "Imro," symbol of the "International Macedonian Revolutionary Organization."

That group fights for Macedonian autonomy under Bulgaria, but investigators believed Kalemen's insignia was merely to throw them off the track.

Another Macedonian revolutionary group is the Ochrid, which urges absolute independence for that people. There was nothing, however, to connect Kalemen with the Ochrid.

Because the letters tattooed on his arm were of the Croat alphabet, some investigators advanced the theory that he might have belonged to the "Ustaschi", or Croat "Insurrector," that seek Crotia's independence of the Serbs.

His First Drive In Auto! What a Drive

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13—In all his twenty years, Albert Seperber had never driven an automobile.

But after a party in Burlingame he decided that he'd just as well start forthwith. He did, and when the self-administered lesson was over:

Two parking signs lay twisted in the dust. A tree on El Camino Real was uprooted. The front of a hardware store was smashed in. A parked coupe was wrecked. Seperber, unhurt, went to jail charged with hit-run driving.

Crown Prince And Son Reconciled

BERLIN, Oct. 13. — The rift between Former Crown Prince Wilhelm and his eldest son, Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, arising from the latter's marriage to a commoner, was healed today. The former crown prince, it was learned, attended the christening of his son's baby daughter, Princess Felicitis, who was born September 7. Before her marriage the princess was Dorothea Salviati.

Brain Test Ordered For Alleged Kisser

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. — David Steinberg, forty-three, an attorney, of Brooklyn, was committed to Kings County Hospital for observation by Magistrate Blanchfield in Flatbush County. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Policewoman Margaret Brennan charged that when she applied for a position as maid, in answer to an advertisement by Steinberg, he tried to kiss her. She arrested him.

Instalment Taxes

REGINA, Sack., Oct. 13.—Dollar installments on taxes will be fashionable in Regina. The city council amended the tax prepayment bylaw to enable citizens to pay the $5 certificate fee to pay a dollar or two now and then. Citizens will be encouraged to pay on this basis rather than not at all.

SHIP'S CREW TELLS ABOUT HEAVY STORM

Seaman Washed Overboard, Freighter Badly Damaged at Sea

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—Carpenters worked over the freighter King's County Friday as Captain Arvig related how one man was washed overboard, the ship's carpenter broke two bones in his foot, two sailors were injured, parts of the bridge lost and hundreds of dollars damages caused in a terrific storm in the Atlantic last week.

The King's County crawled into port yesterday with numerous parts of its superstructure smashed in pieces by the tremendous force of the waves that beat against it for several days.

Captain Orvig declared he had to steer in the wrong direction for 12 hours to escape the full fury of the waves.

He did not leave the bridge for 56 hours. His wife had wrung out and dried his soaked clothes.

THREAT MADE TO WITNESS INDIAN CASE

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13—Charges that Joseph Edwards, crown witness, was threatened and bullied by Indian Agent A. H. Barber and others into giving favorable crown evidence at the murder trial of Richardson, Eneas and Alex. George, Indian brothers, were made by Alex. Henderson, senior defense counsel, before the Court of Appeal Friday.

The Indians are appealing their conviction of slaying Dominion Indian Constable F. H. Gisborne. Gisborne and Provincial Police Constable Percy Carr were slain near the Canford reserve, Merritt, May 23 last, during a fight when they went to arrest Eneas on a charge of stabbing his wife.

A fourth brother, Joseph, is also charged with murder but has been unable to come up for preliminary hearing owing to injuries allegedly received during the battle.

Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald said Edwards' evidence that Joseph had been shot following a row between the Indians and Gisborne, was corroborated by another witness.

Under cross-examination at the trial, Mr. Henderson said, Edwards, a cousin of the convicted slayers, had retracted his original version to the extent of fixing the shooting before the fight.

PRICE PROBE STARTS OCT. 29

TORONTO, Oct. 13—The Royal Commission on price spreads and mass buying, under the chairmanship of Hon. H. H. Stevens, Dominion minister of trade and commerce, will resume Oct. 29, it was officially announced Friday, says the Mail and Empire in a despatch from its Ottawa correspondent.

The probe will resume with an inquiry into maritime fishing products, the Mail's correspondent says. The Royal Commission will also continue sittings upon questions considered but not concluded previously.

Man Pleads For Return To Prison

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—"I can't stop drinking. Please send me back to San Quentin."

Old, admitting his weaknesses George F. Mason, sixty-two, former hotel clerk, pleaded with Oakland police to be returned to prison. He was paroled September 13 from San Quentin after serving two years on a bad cheque charge.

"I've had enough trouble. I want to go back and serve my term. Maybe it will help me go straight," he said.

Human Current Can Light Lamp

BUDAPEST, Oct. 13. — The current from the human body can light an electric lamp.

Arpad Ezepessy, a radio engineer, whose name is well known in Hungary through his inventions in various fields, has invented an electric lamp so sensitive it can be lit by radiation of a human.

The lamp was tested by a Budapest newspaper and found to function perfectly — even in the absence of the inventor.

Finds Chinese Too Dreamy To Trade

SHICAGO, Oct. 13—From far-off China came W. J. Hawkins, a Briton, past president of the Rotary Club of Shanghai, to tell how difficult it is to impress the Chinese with energetic modern business methods. They are not brisk, he said, being rather inclined to dream through the day.

Duke Greeted By Huge Crowd

ADELAIDE, Australia, Oct. 13.—The Duke of Gloucester arrived here Friday to be greeted by 100,000 cheering Australians, the largest crowd assembled in this city in a decade.

Baby Girl Drowns As Mother Faints While Bathing Her

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—Five-month-old Linea Linden is dead, the victim of an unusual drowning accident.

Her mother, Mrs. Helen Linden, was bathing the child in a little more than a foot of water when she suddenly fainted. When the mother came to, the child was lying face down in the water. Efforts of a fire rescue squad at resuscitation proved futile.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

It's Often Nothing More Serious Than a Touch of "Acid Stomach"
HOW TO RELIEVE IT

Many people begin to look back on life when 40 rolls around. They worry. Notice they've lost "snap." Have headaches oftener — Feel "dizzy." Tired and low a lot. Are prone to stomach upsets. They think they're "growing old."

Not at all, usually. Scientists say the cause, in a great many cases, is only this: a tendency to an acid condition of the stomach, perhaps the result of faulty diet. Nothing more.

The thing to do is simply to neutralize excess stomach acids. When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. Soon you feel like another person. Stomach calm. Fewer headaches. And the pep and energy you thought lost, comes back again!

Try this. Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets, —convenient to take with you anywhere . . .

Also in Tablet Form: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

NAZI CHURCH RULE OPENLY PROTESTED, SCORNED

MALONEY CASE GOES OVER TO MONDAY COURT

Plea for Non-suit Fails After Judge Confers With Chief Justice

With much legal argument following on a non-suit motion made by the defence at the close of the crown's case against John J. Maloney in criminal court Friday afternoon on charges of conversion and false pretences, the sitting finally ended in an attitude of uncertainity as Mr Justice Boyle deferred decision on the non-suit motion until the end of the trial, while the time as to when the case will resume was also left undecided.

Mr. Justice Boyle first set Monday as the start of the defence case; then Saturday morning, and finally decided to adjourn court until 8 p.m. Friday, so that he could find out from Chief Justice Harvey as to whether or not he could be replaced at a court case set for hearing in Calgary on Monday next.

At eight o'clock on Friday, when court resumed briefly merely to set a time for the resumption of the case proper, His Lordship announced that he had conferred with the chief justice and that the case would resume on Monday morning.

Court also adjourned twice during the Friday afternoon hearing—once to let H. A. Mackie, K.C., who is associated with E. B. Cogswell, K.C., in the prosecution, time to consult legal authorities in the court house library to reply to the arguments advanced by Morris Baker, in his application for a dismissal of the false pretences charge against the ex-Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan in Alberta; the second time to let Mr. Justice Boyle get in touch with Chief Justice Harvey.

The basis of the two charges against Maloney are that he did, by false representations that the bonds in question were to be left with an eastern publishing house as security for costs for a book to be written by Maloney, obtain from John P. Henry, brickyard manager, $2,000 worth of Alberta bonds, and that the said bonds were converted by Maloney to his own use.

Before the crown closed its case, it was able to get into the evidence important admissions made by accused to Detective Frank Kingzett, of the city police.

ACCEPTS REPORT

Mr. Cogswell succeeded in having Mr. Justice Boyle accept a written report of a conversation between the detective and the ex-Wizard, in which Maloney is said to have admitted that he had secured one $1,000 bond from Henry as security for the projected book, but that the bond was still intact and in the custody of a local lawyer.

Prior to this evidence going in, it had been admitted by the defence that both the bonds had been cashed at a bank here shortly after their receipt by Maloney from Henry's agents.

Three other witnesses were called by the crown in addition to Detective Kingzett before the crown closed its case.

The first of these was Norman Innes, who testified that Maloney had told him that Henry had put up security for publication of the projected book. Under cross-examination, he said that he had had very definite proof that Maloney was not playing the game and advised Henry that it was unwise to have any dealings with Maloney.

D. B. Mullen, who said he is still a Klansman, was next. He swore that Maloney had on one occasion asked him for a loan of $50 in cash, and when it had been refused, had claimed that he had arranged with Henry for the financing of "the book".

"Are you giving the same evidence here that you gave at a previous hearing?" demanded Mr. Baker sharply.

"I hope I am," Mullen quietly answered. There was no more cross-examination.

NO SECOND VOLUME

F. R. Surry, well-known 101 street book and stamp dealer, was then called. Mr. Surry said that he was selling the Maloney publication for 50 cents. He identified a slim, brown paper pamphlet shown him by Mr. Mackie, as the one he is selling on behalf of Maloney at a price of 50 cents. Asked if Maloney had said anything about a second volume to him when arranging for the sale of the book, he said "No."

Mr. Mackie then demanded that Mr. Baker produce from his client the manuscript of "Darkness, Daylight and Dawn" entered as a court exhibit at the first trial of Maloney on the identical charges before Mr. Justice Tweedie, and which had resulted in a mis-trial.

Mr. Mackie asserted that the crown had given its consent to the removal of the exhibit by Clare Darling, then defence counsel, at the close of the first trial, and that it should now be returned.

After whispering with Maloney, Mr. Baker announced that the manuscript is now with a coast printer.

"My friend seems to take lightly the removal of a crown exhibit," countered the crown's co-counsel. "We have a right to know whether that manuscript coincides with the book."

After some argument, His Lordship averred that the crown could not complain if it itself gave back the exhibit.

WITNESS BARRED

The next witness to be called was a Mrs. Mason, but she was never heard. She was excluded from the court while Mr. Mackie explained that the effect of her evidence was to show similarity of manner in technique on the part of the accused in alleged efforts to obtain a bond by false pretences.

Mr. Baker objected, and Mr. Mackie added that Mrs. Mason had not herself given him the nature of her story, but that he had been informed by others that Maloney had allegedly secured from her a $500 bond and that he had returned it only under pressure from members of the Klan.

His lordship ruled that she could not be heard, and then Mr. Baker insisted that it be entered in the record that the accuracy of Mr. Mackie's allegations on behalf of Mr. Mason had not been established.

Detective Kingzett was then called to the stand. More debate took place, this time a three-cornered one between his lordship, Mr. Baker and Mr. Cogswell with regard to the admissability of certain admissions.

Detective Kingzett told of how Maloney had made admissions to him with regard to the bonds secured from Henry. The admissions had been made prior to Maloney's arrest on his present charges, and had not been taken down in writing, but they had formed the basis of a written report made to his superiors by Detective Kingzett.

IN CALGARY

His Lordship and Mr. Cogswell indulged in a loud-voiced exchange at this point, and then the detective went on to say that Maloney had admitted that he had got one of the bonds to be used as security and that it was in safe-keeping at the home of a Mrs. Andrews in Calgary.

A further conversation was testified to have taken place between Maloney and Detective Kingzett some weeks later on the same subject, and a report of the conversation was shown to Maloney by the detective, who had cautioned him to read it carefully. Maloney had admitted that the detective's report was a correct one. His Lordship then ruled it could be entered as an exhibit.

Under cross-examination, Detective Kingzett admitted that he had been convinced at the time that the whole matter was one of accounting, "because I believed Maloney's statement that the bond was in his possession."

"He said he still had the bond, and then he would not need to replace the bond," Detective Kingzett told Mr. Baker.

In reply to a suggestion that Maloney's statement had been secured as a result of questions, Kingzett drily replied: "If you know Mr. Maloney, then you know it is not necessary to say much to sustain a conversation with him."

Following the detective's evidence, Mr. Cogswell asked if Mr. Baker was willing to admit that Maloney did not leave any bond in safe-keeping as he had suggested to the officer, and Mr. Baker agreed to accept this as part of the evidence.

LEGAL POINT

Mr. Mackie then said that this was the crown's case, and Mr. Baker immediately made application for a non-suit on the false pretences charge, chiefly on the legal grounds that his client could not have secured bonds by false pretences and also steal them by conversion.

Mr. Baker's argument and Mr. Mackie's reply, with various observations by His Lordship, took up the rest of the session. His Lordship finally ruled that he would defer decision on this point until the defence had been put in.

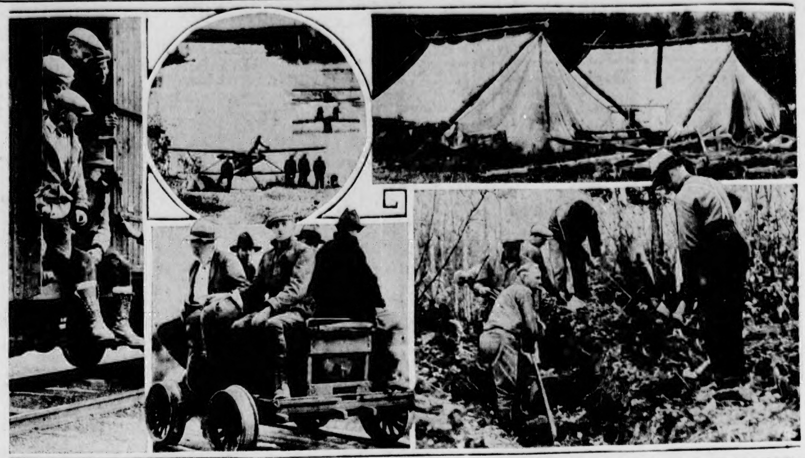
Klondike Days Re-lived In Ontario's Feverish Hunt For Gold



The old Klondike trail may have had its color and drama, but no more than the modern trail to Sturgeon River, Ont., where a sensational new gold strike is in progress. Whereas back in '98, prospectors mushed in on dog teams or afoot, today they use aeroplanes sponsored by big-monied industrialists. But the race is none the less dramatic, the search for gold no easier, the accommodation no better. Men are sleeping out of doors in sleeping bags and eating where and when they can in the little town of Jellicoe. The layout shows scenes from the gold strike area. Upper left, hopefuls arriving via the freight car route. Centre, aeroplane after aeroplane settles down on this little lake bearing its cargo of prospectors and supplies. Upper right, tents are pitched hurriedly and carelessly. Centre, even railway hand-cars are being pushed into service. Lower right, men are digging frantically in the feverish hunt for the precious yellow metal.

2-Way Conversation Through Telephone Installed In Auto

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 13.—A two-way conversation through an ordinary French-type telephone receiver installed in an automobile, was successfully completed Friday for what General Electric Company engineers said the first time, when they exchanged greetings with Sydney, Australia, 10,000 miles away.

Riding around Schenectady's downtown streets, the engineers conversed for nearly an hour with an engineer of VK2ME, short wave station at Sydney, using the bumper of their car for antennae.

CODES MAY BE DISCUSSED AT OTTAWA MEET

Provinces May Discuss B. N.A. Act at Meeting With Dominion

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—In the course of discussions slated for the Dominion-provincial conference on amendments to the constitution, to be held probably next month, it is anticipated that codes for business and industry will take a prominent place.

No official announcement to this effect has been made but it is known that a group of experts have been engaged for some months in study of the evidence presented before the Stevens Committee on the price spreads at the last parliamentary session, and formulation of the set of fair trade and industrial codes is believed to be their objective.

TO REMEDY EVILS

Assumption that this subject will come up before the conference is based on the fact that practically any efforts to remedy evils disclosed before the committee, and which may be aired at its further sittings as a royal commission, would depend upon amendments to the British North-America act.

It would be only by the laborious method of securing unanimous approval of the provinces that the federal government could take the lead in applying restrictions or codes to the conduct of business under present circumstances.

DETAILED WORK

If the constitution were amended to give the federal government power to deal with such matters as wages and hours of work, company laws and private industry, legislation could be enacted in a form designed to implement the recommendations of the investigating body.

The Stevens committee, which was transformed into a royal commission at the conclusion of the parliamentary session, will resume sessions at the end of this month.

KING LEAVES FOR CHEQUERS

LONDON, Oct. 13—Renewing a friendship of 30 years' standing W. L. Mackenzie King, Canadian Liberal leader, left for Chequers today to spend the weekend with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and his family. He will return to London Sunday evening to dine with Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader and member of the cabinet, and will return to London for another week.

Ernest Lapointe, Quebec Liberal chieftain, has left for Paris.

Bride Sorry She Didn't Slap Judge

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Facing the future with only a dime Sally Redmond, a bride who tried to slap a judge asserted:

"I'm only sorry I didn't do it. If I'd slapped Magistrate Harris when he sent my husband to jail, I'd have gone to jail with him. And certainly I'd rather live in a cell with my husband than in a furnished room alone."

Roland Redmond, the bridegroom, was sentenced to three days for getting drunk and quarreling with Sally in their room at 244 W. 56th street. The landlord filed the charge.

When Sally heard sentence, she said she'd like to slap the magistrate's face. To which he responded he would send her to jail if she did.

SIX SUFFER POISONING

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 13. — Six persons suffering from ptomaine poisoning were rushed to hospital last night three hours after they had partaken of fried eggs and cabbage rolls.

Arthur Bennett, 26, was in critical condition. First to feel the effects of the poisoning, he did not mention it until he noticed his wife, also 26, and the children seemed to be ill.

Police were called and removed all six to hospital, where the mother and her children, Junior, 7; Buddy, 6; Rudolph, 4, and Francis, 1, appeared to be recovering late last night.

All-America Girl Winner Beauty Prize

The all-American girl, "Miss America," title was won by Louise Schmaltz, the 17-year-old blonde beauty of New Orleans, in the amateur beauty contest finals staged at the Chicago world's fair. Miss Schmaltz competed against beauty queens from all parts of the United States to annex the title.

R.C.M.P. SHIP RETURNS FROM NORTH, SILENT

Craft on Mysterious Mis-s'on to Arctic Back After Four-year Trip

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13.—Shrouded in official mystery as comlpete as that of the great Arctic wastes she left a month ago, for the first time in four years, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police motor vessel St. Roche arrived here last night.

A few sketchy bits of information concerning the ship and the Arctic weather were vouchsafed by Sergt. H. A. Larsen, veteran Arctic navigator in command of the vessel, but of the work in the far north or of thrilling experiences, not a word.

AWAY FOUR YEARS

A damaged propeller and general need of an overhauling brought the St. Roche here, the first time the ship has been outside of the Arctic Circle since 1930.

Leaving Herschel Island Sept. 4, the staunch craft made most of the trip under sail, logging about four knots an hour. Capt. Larsen said she entered Seymour Narrows yesterday, but was becalmed for six hours.

This year was one of the mildest in the four years the ship has been in northern waters, the blonde skipper said. In fact there was so little ice they had difficulty in obtaining enough to fill their ice tanks to melt for use on board.

BUILT IN 1928

The ship was built at Burrard Drydock Company's yards here in 1928 for the R.C.M.P. as a floating police detachment and supply ship for Arctic land posts. She has a displacement of 80 tons and carries a crew of 13 in addition to the commander. The craft is powered by a 150-horsepower Diesel engine in addition to her sails.

LAD CRUSHED AGAINST BARN

SPRUCE LAKE, Sask., Oct. 13.—Crushed between the wreckage of a hay rack and the barn wall, Charles Cropper, 15-year-old Mervin district youth, met death Thursday afternoon. The fatality occurred when the team he was driving bolted for the barn, smashing the rack they were harnessed to against the wall.

Friends found the boy wedged between the wreckage and the barn, his skull fractured. He died within 30 minutes without regaining consciousness, and before medical aid could be summoned. No inquest will be held.

Vessel Tonnage Indicates Jump In Foreign Trade

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—Indicative of Canada's increasing foreign trade in 1934, the tonnage of vessels cleared from Canadian seaports in the first eight months of the year was nearly 1,000,000 tons higher than in the corresponding period of last year, the department of trade and commerce states.

From Jan. 1 to the end of August total tonnage of vessels cleared from the ports of Halifax, Saint John, Quebec, Montreal and Vancouver amounted to 18,621,339 tons as compared with 17,777,290 tons last year.

The increase in lumber shipments was mainly responsible for the greater amount of shipping.

Vancouver led all other Canadian ports in the tonnage of vessels cleared, increasing its tonnage from 6,763,323 tons to 7,731,713 tons. Montreal came second in importance with 4,429,324 tons, a reduction of 479,818 tons.

Every Second King Died Of Violence History Reveals

BELGRADE, Oct. 13.—Every second king who has occupied the throne in Belgrade died by violence a historian pointed out today.

Kara-George, founder of the dynasty, was decapitated in 1817 by order of Milos Obrenovitch, his successor, who died a natural death.

Michael Obrenovitch, who next occupied the throne, was assassinated in 1868 while riding in his carriage in Belgrade; but Milan Obrenovitch, his successor, died a natural death.

In 1905 Alexander Obrenovitch and his queen were assassinated at Draga. Petar I, the next incumbent of the throne, died a natural death.

FEED BALING BEING RUSHED

REGINA, Oct. 13. — Baling of northern fodder is being speeded by the government, and arrangements are being made for the purchase of further baling equipment for use of municipalities.

Wherever a municipality has available 1,000 tons of straw, the government will supply a baling outfit.

For use of Saskatchewan farmers, the government is prepared to purchase upwards of 150,000 tons, while negotiations are still proceeding with United States officials for supply of almost unlimited quantities of baled feed.

Baling outfits are being provided to municipalities. Six have been placed to date.

DEMONSTRATORS SPIT ON GROUND: SHOUT DERISION

By A. D. STEFFERUD

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 13.—Discord in the Evangelical church reached a sensational point last night when Hitlerism was openly derided and scorned by demonstrators protesting the arbitrary removal of two dissenting bishops.

From a gathering before the episcopal palace where Hans Meiser, deposed Friday as bishop of Bavaria on charges of opposition to the state, was being held prisoner, the throng hurried to the Brown House—Nazi headquarters in the city.

There they spat on the ground and shouted derisively at the Nazi church administration, the government, and at Chancellor Hitler, who is now himself in Munich.

TWO DISMISSED

The outbreak, most pronounced since Hitler came to power, was induced by arrest of eight churchmen and removal of Bishop Meiser and Bishop Theofil Wurm of Wurttemberg.

These measures, it was predicted in one responsible quarter, would result in weakening of Nazidom "either through its high-handed autocracy if it wins or, if the church fight continues to grow as it has in the last few days, its retrogression."

Following services of protest conducted in all Munich Protestant churches last night, several thousand oppositionists marched to the episcopal palace and forced their way past guards into the courtyard. They repeatedly shouted, "Heil Meiser!" until the deposed bishop finally appeared on a balcony.

CALLED BACK

He started to address the throng, but had said only a few words of gratitude for their support when he was recalled into the palace. His wife then appeared and appealed to the crowd, and they dispersed.

The circumstances surrounding the Bavarian bishop's removal—Chancellor Hitler's presence in Munich and a ruling by Protestant Church Commissioner August Jaeger that Bishop Meiser was guilty of opposing the state—made it clear to German Protestant church-goers that unless they conformed to the doctrine of Reichsbishop Mueller's German Christians they would be considered traitors.

Way to Ease Headaches, Pain Almost Instantly

METHOD OFTEN RELIEVES NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATIC PAINS IN MINUTES!

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

Drop an Aspirin tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches the bottom, it is disintegrating.

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach—ASPIRIN tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

Hi-Jackers Take Two Truckers, Jobless For Drive

Three Locked In Trailer, $14,000 In Smokes Taken

Owners of Vehicle, Transient, Driven 200 Miles Across Ontario Before Truck Stopped, Freedom Given.

FERGUS, Ont., Oct. 13—A story of being held up in Napanee, Ont., locked in the trailer of their own truck and driven about 200 miles across Ontario by hi-jackers was told here Friday by two truck drivers and a transient. Cigars and cigarettes valued at $14,000 were taken from the truck.

John Howard, 70, proprietor of a service station, said he noticed a transport truck and trailer stop near his station. He saw an automobile stop near the truck, then drive away.

Then he heard voices from the trailer. A man said, "Let me out." He discovered Girard Barteau and Lionel Herbert, Montreal, and a transient named Hunter, imprisoned in the rear. They said four armed men held them up while driving through Napanee from Hamilton. They were driven all night and in the morning the tobacco was unloaded and put in a shed, they said. They did not know where this was.

A few years ago he was a veritable plague in Toronto and other centres in that part of Ontario. Police set many traps to catch the pseudo-cleric but he was always a few jumps ahead of them. His forgeries were expert and almost baffled detection.

When Wilson sighted his suspect on the street Friday he told his wife:

"That's the man."

SHOUTED FOR HELP

Without stopping to think of the possible danger to herself, Mrs. Wilson jumped out of their automobile, seized Parmalee about the neck with all her strength and shouted for help. A nearby policeman collared Parmalee.

On being questioned in a police cell, Parmalee reportedly revealed his mode of operation without hesitation. His system, Inspector McQuade said, was simplicity itself.

Parmalee told the officer, the latter said, that he opened small accounts in banks, cashed several small cheques to obtain the cashier's signature and then "put over a forgery" for a big sum on another cashier in the same bank.

He operated during the Christmas rush each year, always dressed as a clergyman, McQuade said.

HITLER FACES OPEN REVOLT FROM CHURCH

Dictator Confronted For First Time With Rebellion

MUNICH, Oct., 13.—Open rebellion—from the Evangelical church—confronted Hitlerism today for the first time since the absolute dictatorship began to embrace every field of German endeavor.

A crisis appeared imminent as a result of the ousting of Bishop Hans Meiser of Bavaria on charges of opposition to the Nazi state.

The mutiny, spawn of insubordination in evangelical ranks after a hitherto vain attempt of the Reich chancellor's adherent to regimen Protestant church folk spread rapidly.

SCORN AND DERISION

In this city, seat of the Brown House of Nazidom, the followers of the deposed bishop used new weapons—scorn and derision—against Hitlerism.

Nine opposition leaders, including the bishop, were under arrest. Close government supervision of news sources was apparent at Stuttgart, home of the deposed Theofil Wurm, Bishop of Wurttemberg. It was reliably reported, however, that the Nazis were trying to cope with growing dissension by ordering many arrests.

GOEBBELS CHEERED

While in Berlin a Nazi throng cheered Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels' statement, "Everything else in Germany is unified, why not the state churches?" A crowd in Munich cried "Heil Meiser," before the Episcopal palace where the bishop was a prisoner.

It was reliably learned also the next Nazi countermove may involve wholesale arrests. Some even spoke of "another blood purge" in this connection.

BARTHOU FINAL RITES ARE HELD

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Representatives of rulers of the world assembled in Paris today to join President Albert Lebrun, Premier Gaston Doumergue and parliament in the last tribute to Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, assassin's victim.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, flew from London to represent England. Edouard Benes Czechoslovakian foreign minister, and Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the League of Nations, came from Geneva to represent the league.

Although Barthou's desire for a most simple funeral was overridden, it was arranged to have only one speaker, Doumergue, at the ceremonial before the catafalque at the Invalides Esplanada.

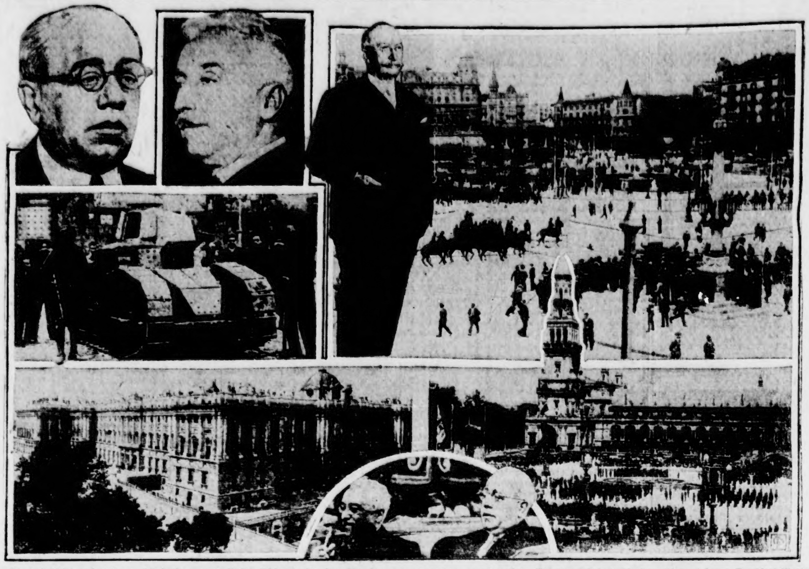
Moose Entertain Supreme Auditor

Enthusiasm and goodfellowship ran high when 350 members of the various branches of the Loyal Order of Moose of Edmonton entertained Supreme Auditor S. Slater, on his visit to this district.

After the usual tasty refreshments had been disposed of, some pleasing vocal numbers were enjoyed, and then the supreme auditor, whose duties take him into the many hundred of Canadian lodges, addressed the gathering and told how the Moose order had stabilized and strengthened itself during trying times.

Edmonton lodge heard with pride and pleasure that it has the distinction of being the only lodge west of North Bay, Ont., that has an actual gain in membership since the hard times set in. Now that conditions are again looking brighter the Canadian lodges hope by increasing their membership that greater authority and autonomy will be granted the Canadian officers. The possibilities of development are great and the men of Edmonton were invited to align themselves with this moveme—

Scores Killed and Injured as Civil Strife Again Grips Spain



General strike and civil war has broken out in Spain, taking in the first few days a toll of 25 lives. The strike, called by the radical party and supported by the Republicans under Manuel Azana, former premier, centred in Madrid, but was reported spreading rapidly to other places. The above layout shows principals in the Spanish uprising and scenes from previous riots. try estate the appearance of desertion and in all statements given out had stressed that this had been done to allay any fears the kidnappers might have of molestation from possible search for him or arrest in case he approached the place.

Only this morning Berry V. Stoll, husband of the kidnapped woman, had said through his spokesman he had "been up all night and am hopefully waiting," and had added that he was going to stay at home all day.

CARRIED AWAY ILL

Orders that no airplanes except transports be allowed to fly in Kentucky had been reiterated but a short time before the police rush began.

As hours went by today without definite word from Mrs. Stoll members of her family anxiously awaited her release or some message to dispel fears for her life.

Mrs. Stoll was ill when carried away from her suburban home near Louisville. She had been slugged at least twice with an iron pipe, and she was thinly clad in a negligee, although her abductor permitted her to wear a light coat.

The Stolls, however, had met all ransom requirements, and despite anxiety were hopefully awaiting her return. What basis there might be for their hopeful attitude was not discussed. If a contact had been made with the kidnapper, it had been done in strict secrecy.

There was a brief announcement yesterday over the signature of Berry V. Stoll, the victim's husband. It said:

"We have carefully followed instructions, met all ransom requirements and are awaiting fulfillment of promises. The parties may act freely without fear or hindrance."

SHOWERS VISIT MANY SECTIONS

Light rain, which began with a steady downpour about 9:30 p.m. Friday and continued intermittently until 2 a.m. Saturday resulted in .08 inches rainfall. Rain and showers during the night were received in many sections of the province, Calgary getting light rain with a heavy wind.

With a 12-mile northwest wind, a clear sky and a steady barometer, the week-end forecast is "fair and cool."

Friday's highest temperature was 62 degrees, lowest today 37 degrees at 8 a.m., rising to 49 at noon.

Weather throughout the Peace and Athabasca territories today was clear with threshing in full swing.

Quill Revealed By Appendectomy

MONTROSE, Colo., Oct. 13.—An attempt by local surgeons to remove a supposedly infected appendix from Frank L. Hovey, veteran cattleman, netted them one porcupine quill, about an inch long. It had worked its way through his intestines, puncturing them in five places and causing a bad case of peritonitis. Hovey said he could not recall ever having had an encounter with a porcupine.

Whisky In Bond Limited To 8 Yrs.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 — Officials disclosed today that an old internal revenue law revived by prohibition repeal makes it unlawful to store whiskey in bonded warehouses longer than eight years. It must be withdrawn from bond, and the federal tax paid on it, by the end of that time. The government simply doesn't want to wait longer than eight years for its money.

SEVEN APPEALS SET DOWN FOR HEARING HERE

Appellate Division of Supreme Court Opens Sittings Monday

A total of seven appeals are set down for hearing at the October sessions of the appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta in Edmonton, the hearings to commence at 10:30 a.m. on Monday nixt.

First of the cases scheduled to be heard is the continuation of the appeal of Charles E. Campbell, publisher, and J. S. Cowper, reporter of the Edmonton Bulletin against fines imposed by Mr. Justice Ives on contempt of court counts during the hearing of the seduction suit against ex-Premier J. E. Brownlee. Mr. Campbell was fined $300; with the option of 10 days in jail, while Mr. Cowper was fined $100 with the option of three days in jail.

ADJOURNMENT ORDERED

H. H. Parlee, K.C., commenced argument on the appeal at the September sessions, and an adjournment was ordered when he gave notice of motion to have the conviction quashed on the grounds that the members of the appellate division had an "inherent right" to review the conduct of a brother judge.

Six of the cases will be heard during the first week, and the whole of the second week of the sitting has been set aside to hear the appeal of a number of insurance companies and the Corona hotel against the judgment in favor of Northwestern Utilities, following a supreme court action brought against the gas company, seeking $200,000 damages as a result of the Corona hotel fire. The action was dismissed and liability and responsibility for the fire was thrown on the city's engineering department, who, however, could not be sued, as the department had not been joined in the action and it was then too late to start proceedings against the city.

Both of them are Alberta born: in the woods of this province they raised a family, but while the old couple still survive the hardships of frontier life, their children have all perished and lie under rude wooden crosses in the wild Athabaska country.

Calling Lake is far off the beaten track; winter is near and soon, such rough trails as connect these hapless people with the outside will be blocked by bad weather.

Consequently, the Bulletin has made arrangements for a car to be sent in to the aged and homeless couple on Tuesday next, and readers are requested to send in such articles as they can spare, before that time.

Old bed clothes, warm clothing and underwear, and such food as can be spared, will be received and sent on by the Bulletin to the Fredericks on Tuesday next.

START WORK ON BARRACKS NEXT WEEK

Work on the $200,000 extension of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police barracks here will start early next week it was learned in political circles Saturday morning. Tenders for the excavation, sewer and water mains being wired to Ottawa Friday evening for consideration.

In view of the urgency to provide work in the city, representations have been made that the tenders be passed without delay, and assurance has been given that the work will start within the next few days. It is expected that word to proceed with the work will be here late Monday.

The excavation and sewer digging will be done by hand labor.

ROAD INTERVIEW IS SATISFACTORY

Satisfactory results in regard to yesterday's interview by a committee of five representing the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce with the Department of Public Works on Jasper Highway matters were reported by John Blue, manager-secretary Chamber of Commerce.

"I am quite satisfied with the result of the interview," stated Mr. Blue. "Work on the highway is being rushed as fast as possible, and we have every assurance that every effort will be made to complete the work at the earliest possible date."

Work is being done with all possible speed on the section west of Edmonton, stated Mr. Blue, while west of Hinton there is a great deal of preliminary work, surveying and putting in the fourteen bridges needed in this section, still to be done.

"Reports that 40 per cent of the work has been completed are entirely erroneous," said Mr. Blue. "The reports were never authorized by the department. A far larger number of men will be required before the work can be said to be nearing completion."

told newspapermen with a chuckle that he was neither a "prestidigator nor an astrologist."

Speaking at his press conference, he said many of those present had received a "bum steer," as a result of a conference between himself and Senator Robert Bulkley of Ohio yesterday. The senator had said as he left the White House that a further cut in the dollar was "not an impossibility."

Mr. Roosevelt's assertion came a few hours after a general denial of Bulkley's "possibility" by Senator Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee.

GOING RIGHT AHEAD

When the bonds called tonight have been redeemed or refunded, about $1,300,000,000 will remain outstanding of the original fourth Liberty Issue of more than $6,000,000,000. It was the third call for a portion of the issue within a year.

Thus far a saving of more than $30,000,000 in interest charges on the national debt has been effected by substituting securities drawing a smaller rate of interest—mostly 3¼ per cent, but with a smaller block of short term securities at 2½ per cent.

AVERAGE YIELD WHEAT CROP IS 14-15 BUSHELS

Alberta's Total Between 108,000,000 and 112,000,000 Bushels

Average yield throughout Alberta for the year now closing of between 14 and 15 bushels per acre from the 7,501,000 acres sown to wheat, giving a total production of between 108,000,000 and 112,000,000 bushels was estimated on Saturday by the provincial agricultural department. Officials point out that this estimate may be subject to revision when final threshing returns have been received.

This is an increase over the 1933 unrevised estimate of 94,500,000 bushels with a provincial average of 12 bushels.

SEVERE HAIL STORMS

Severe hail storms visited several localities during the season, districts suffering most being those to the north and north-east of Letnbridge and a strip of territory across the central part of the province from Sylvan Lake to beyond Stettler, which was visited by two disastrous storms in July, causing damage of from 50 to 100 per cent.

Government officials state there is expectation of a higher price than was obtained for last year's wheat.

An abundance of feed has been produced in various districts, for which there is a strong demand and good prices. The livestock situation gives promise of improvement and while the cattle market has not yet advanced to any great degree, the situation in the hog industry has been very satisfactory for most of the year, with good prices and a marked advance made by producers in the quality of product.

SUBSTANTIAL ADVANCE

In the dairy industry a substantial advance has been recorded in the volume of butter produced. In the poultry industry prices are somewhat better and improvement has been noted in other lines of production, including natural resources.

The crop season, state departmental officials, has been one of the most unusual in several respects in the history of the province. A large portion of wheat and other threshing remains to be done, due to the unusually prolonged cold weather which started on September 18.

HOPPER DAMAGE

The crops suffered some damage from grasshoppers in the south-eastern, south-western and some other sections, the infestation varying in intensity. A thorough poisoning campaign conducted by the Dominion and provincial governments was successful in holding damage to a minimum.

There is a plentiful supply of green-feed in the northern districts in particular, and the south-western section has produced considerable hay and other feed. Alfalfa production in irrigated districts was lower than usual. Haying districts have suffered from wet weather.

Wife Slays Mate For Kissing Girl

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 13.—After shooting her husband to death, Mrs. Pauline Heimenz, 40, signed a statement for police in suburban Richmond Heights in which she attributed the shooting to the fact that her husband had kissed a young woman in her presence.

After they had driven the young woman to her home, Mrs. Heimenz was quoted as saying:

"My husband took her to the door, turned on the lights and proceeded to kiss her under the light."

When they got home, she said, they quarreled and "he mentioned something about a gun lying on the piano downstairs and that the one that reached it first would settle this.

Noted Divorce Case Before Privy Council

McPherson Trial Court Plea Tests Secret Trial Plan

Alberta Ex-Minister's Former Wife's Plea Soon Before "Court of Last Resort," in London.

The appeal of Mrs. Cora Lillian McPherson, former wife of O. L. McPherson, M.L.A., minister of public works in the Brownlee administration, against the judgment of the Alberta courts, is now before the King's Privy Council in London and is expected to be heard at an early session of that tribunal. Special leave to appeal in forma pauperis was granted by the Privy Council in March last, leave having previously been refused by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta. This appeal involves only the issue as to whether or not it is lawful for a judge to try a case in camera or behind closed doors.

Running parallel with this appeal to the Privy Council is another appeal now pending before the Supreme Court of Alberta from the judgment of Mr. Justice Ford, who tried the issue between the parties as to whether or not the McPherson divorce was obtained by collusion and connivance.

This appeal has been stayed until January 15th, 1935, pending the disposition of the appeal to London on the closed court question. The apparent reason for this is that if Mrs. McPherson should win in London, the whole action is at an end and there would be no purpose in proceeding with the Alberta appeal further than to have the judgment of Mr. Justice Ford set aside.

The case as a whole is one of the most extraordinary actions ever to be brought before a Canadian court, not only by reason of the prominence of the parties concerned, but also by reason of the questions involved, and the decision of the Privy Council is being awaited with great interest by the legal profession throughout the country.

FRAUD IS ALLEGED

The action was started on October 11th, 1932, and after stating that the defendant O. L. McPherson, had started a divorce action on March 17th, 1931, and had obtained a judgment or decree dissolving the marriage on April 22nd, 1931, the statement of claim alleged that the evidence given before the trial judge, Mr. Justice Tweedie, was false to the knowledge of O. L. McPherson, and given with the intention of deceiving the court, and was obtained by a fraud on the court, on the ground of collusion and connivance, and then asked that the divorce judgment be set aside on these grounds and that a new trial of the divorce action be ordered, and also for an order giving Mrs. McPherson alimony and interim alimony, a decree restoring her to her marital rights, and the costs. A defence to the action was filed amounting to a general denial of any irregularities in the divorce trial.

On November 1, 1932, Mrs. McPherson amended her Statement of Claim by alleging cruelty on the part of her former husband and of conspiracy between him and Mrs. Helen Mattern, McPherson, former wife of Captain Leroy Mattern, who had in the meantime married O. L. McPherson in the summer of 1932.

A few weeks later Mrs. McPherson further amended her Statement of Claim by setting up the plea that the divorce trial held in April, 1931, was not heard or tried in open court, and that the witnesses in that action were not sworn or examined orally in open court as required by law, but instead that the divorce action was tried and heard, and the witnesses were sworn and examined in camera in a private room, namely the Appeal Court Judges' Library, in the court house, and during the noon recess, all of which was contrary to law.

RAISES NEW ISSUE

On this ground Mrs. McPherson contended that Mr. Justice Tweedie, who tried the divorce action, had no jurisdiction, power or authority to determine the action for divorce, or to make the decree nisi or the decree absolute in the divorce action, and that both decrees were null and void, and should be set aside.

This new question as to the power of a judge to hold court in private had never before been raised in the legal history of Alberta, and was regarded as of such importance that it should be set down for trial and disposed of immediately, as, if Mrs. McPherson was entitled to win on that ground, there was no necessity of a long, expensive trial on the other issues involving a fraud on the court by reason of collusion and connivance. As a result, the closed court issue was set down for special trial by Mr. Justice Ewing on November 28, 1932, and was tried by the same judge at Edmonton in December, 1932, and judgment given a few days later on December 20, 1932.

UPHELD 'CAMERA' RIGHTS

Mr. Justice Ewing decided that question against Mrs. McPherson, holding in effect that as a matter of law, Mr. Justice Tweedie had power to sit in private. From this judgment Mrs. McPherson promptly appealed in January, 1933, to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta, and that appeal came on before Chief Justice Harvey, Mr. Justice Clarke, Mr. Justice Mitchell, Mr. Justice Lunney and Mr. Justice McGillivray, on February 6, 1933, the appeal being dismissed with costs and the judgment of Mr. Justice Ewing being affirmed.

On this whole issue as to the validity of the closed court divorce trial, Mrs. McPherson, through her counsel G. H. Van Allen, K.C., relied upon a judgment of the Privy Council decided in 1913, in the case of Scott v. Scott, and a number of other decisions of the English and Canadian courts. It was held by Lord Haldane, Lord Chancellor of England, in the Scott case, that unless it be strictly necessary for the attainment of justice, there can be no power in the court to hear in camera either a matrimonial cause or any other, where there is a contest between the parties. The Earl of Halsbury said that in other countries the courts of justice are held in secret, "with us publicly and in open view," and that the court had no power to sit otherwise than with open doors.

Lord Shaw of Dunfermline said that civil liberty in this kingdom has two direct guarantees: the open administration of justice according to known laws truly interpreted and fair constructions of evidence; and the right of Parliament without let or interruption, to inquire into, and obtain redress of public grievances. And Lord Shaw went on to remark that the first is by far the most indispensible.

MADE DIRECT APPEAL

Upon these legal principles Mrs. McPherson was advised by her counsel to apply to the Appeal Court for special leave to appeal direct to the Privy Council in London. Such an application was made to the Appeal Court of this province, but the application was refused. Mrs. McPherson was then advised to apply direct to the Privy Council for special leave to appeal in forma pauperis, a procedure whereby a poor person can obtain redress in the Empire's highest court without payment of counsel or court fees.

A fund was then raised by sympathizers with Mrs. McPherson, whereby a few hundred dollars were collected in small amounts, with the result that solicitors were retained in London to prepare an application for special leave to appeal. The English solicitors undertook this responsibility without fee, and retained Wilfred Greene, K.C., one of the most outstanding lawyers of England engaged in Privy Council practice, who accepted the brief, also without fee. The petition for special leave to appeal was heard before the Privy Council about March 1st last, and after hearing argument by counsel for both sides, the court adjourned for 15 minutes to consider its judgment, and then granted the application and advised His Majesty to hear the appeal, and an Order-in-Council was subsequently passed granting formal leave to appeal in forma pauperis.

AIDED BY SUBSCRIPTIONS

Since then the record of the proceedings in Alberta has been printed out of subscriptions raised in Alberta for that purpose. Mr. Wilfred Greene, K.C., has again accepted the brief, to argue the appeal itself before the Privy Council when it comes on this Fall, or at an early session of the Judicial Committee. Mr. Greene will again be acting without fee.

The evidence at the trial on the closed court issue before Mr. Justice Ewing showed that the McPherson divorce trial in April, 1931, was heard in the Appeal Court Judges' Library, and in a room of the Court House at Edmonton where the judges of the Court of Appeal confer with each other from time to time in their judicial duties. Several regular court rooms in the building were available at the time; the divorce was granted during the noon recess, on the date mentioned.

The judges' library is reached from the public corridor on the second floor, by a door leading into a private corridor, which in turn leads into the judges' library. The door opening from the public corridor into the private corridor bears a conspicuous brass sign on which the word "private" appears in black letters.

"TO AVOID PUBLICITY"

Mr. Justice Tweedie entered this library from the appeal court room in the north-west corner of the building, which was then also vacant, and seated himself at the large consulting table in the room. The clerk and the court reporter sat down at the same table. No persons were present except the judge, the clerk, the reporter, O. L. McPherson and his lawyer, Mr. Mayne Reid, K.C., of the firm of Lymburn, Reid and Cobbledick. The witnesses were called in as required. Mr. Justice Tweedie gave evidence in Mrs. McPherson's action before Mr. Justice Ewing and library to lessen the publicity, but not for the purpose of excluding any person who might have a right to attend at the hearing and that this was done not to save Mr. McPherson's feelings, but perhaps to lessen the publicity by reason of the position that Mr. McPherson occupied in this province, and his relation to the public.

At the later trial of Mrs. McPherson's main action before Mr. Justice Ford in May, 1933, a letter dated April 15, 1931, was produced and put in for evidence, which showed that Mr. McPherson's solicitors had written to a witness in Saskatoon, who gave evidence at the divorce trial, that the case would be heard in Mr. Justice Tweedie's room, and there would be no publicity whatever, and that in addition the case had not been defended so that he would not be submitted to cross-examination. This letter was drawn to the attention of the members of the Privy Council when leave to appeal was obtained last winter.

TEST SECRET TRIALS

Whether or not it is lawful for a divorce case, or any other case in fact, to be tried secretly, is the question which the Privy Council has to decide.

In the spring of 1933 the main or original action of Mrs. McPherson, asking to set aside the divorce on the ground of fraud based on collusion and connivance, was set down for hearing before Mr. Justice Ford and tried by him in a trial lasting almost a month. This trial proved to be one of the most sensational hearings ever to come before a judicial tribunal in Canada.

Counsel appearing for Mrs. McPherson were G. H. Van Allen, K.C., and N. D. Maclean, K.C., and for Mr. McPherson, S. B. Woods, K.C., and S. W. Field, K.C. Evidence was given by Mrs. McPherson that the McPherson divorce was all arranged beforehand by agreement of the parties. Or in other words, the divorce was obtained collusively. She denied any misconduct with Mattern as charged in McPherson's divorce action, and she asked that the divorce be set aside. Her charges were stoutly denied by Mr. McPherson.

Mrs. Helen Mattern McPherson, whose name was mentioned frequently in the evidence and who was expected to testify, was not called to the stand. Mattern, however, did give evidence supporting Mr. McPherson's testimony, and Mr. McPherson's son, Coran McPherson, was also called to the stand by his father to give evidence against his mother. Mr. Justice Ford reserved judgment until July 11, 1933, at which time he dismissed the action and delivered very lengthy reasons for his conclusion, but the effect of the decision was that Mrs. McPherson, the plaintiff, had not satisfactorily proved her case.

APPEAL PENDS HERE

Mrs. McPherson then was obliged to appeal from the judgment of Mr. Justice Ford to the Appeal Court of this province, and as stated before, this appeal is still pending awaiting the decision of the Privy Council on the closed court issue. This is where the situation stands at the present time.

If the Privy Council finds against Mrs. McPherson, and affirms the judgments of the Alberta courts on the closed court matter, she will then endeavor to proceed against the judgment of Mr. Justice Ford in the main action.

If she succeeds in the Privy Council and the judgment for divorce granted by Mr. Justice Tweedie in 1931 be set aside, then she will be restored to her former position as the wife of the former minister of public works, and she will also be restored to her four sons now aged 10 to 22 years.

Testing Secret Trials Before Privy Council

Mrs. Cora Lillian McPherson, former wife of O. L. McPherson, M.L.A., ex-minister of public works in the Brownlee government of Alberta. An early session of the King's Privy Council in London will hear Mrs. McPherson's appeal against Alberta court judgment of divorce, granted in April, 1931, in the appeal court judges' private library at the Edmonton court-house. Regular court rooms were available at the time but Mr. Justice Tweedie heard the case en-camera. Whether it is lawful for a divorce or any other case to be tried secretly is the question for the Privy Council to decide.

MOUSE USED IN JEWELRY SHIP FRAUD

most daring criminal ventures which the high-sea crooks have carried out of recent years.

The details were told me by the chief purser of a liner which plies between New York, Cherbourg and Southampton, and only on the distinct understanding that I mention neither his own name nor that of the boat on which he is an officer.

"The first day out of New York," he said, "is always our busiest day. In the travel season the entire journey involves constant vigilance gecause the safes in the purser's office contain frequently millions of dollars' worth of valuables. One or two of the ship's officers are on guard night and day. The office is not left alone for a moment.

"On one of our last trips we had among our passengers the Duchess of Westminster, who asked us to keep in our safety vault a diadem worth $250,000. On the same trip Princess Radzilow gave a pearl necklace in safe keeping which was worth $300,000, and the Harley sisters, celebrated dancing twins, left their garters, studded with brilliants valued at $35,000. These were the main items on our list which was no less than eight pages long. We had nearly five million dollars' worth of jewels in our safe that time.

"Just before dinner time on such trips," went on the chief purser, "we are doubly on the alert. Passengers come in one by one, or all in a crowd to withdraw their jewels in order to wear them during the evening. Here is the wife of a French perfume king. 'Give me my bracelets and pendants,' she says. Another lady wants her diamonds. They want them quickly.

"But we must unseal the envelopes in which the jewels are contained and ask them to sign for the withdrawal. Yet the ladies are in a hurry and dozens are waiting. Everyone is impatient to withdraw all or part of their treasurers.

"On this particular trip of which I am speaking a gentleman hands me a package just before we had left New York and asks me to weigh it. It was eighty grams. He tells me; 'These are diamonds,' and I put his package in an envelope, seal it, have him sign it on the outside and I register him in the book as Mr. Muritrillo, jeweler, address New York City. His valuables are insured for $500,000.

"The journey went well until we came within sight of Southampton. The ship's machines had slowed down already, and the tenders were coming alongside to take off passengers when I see Mr. Muritrillo walk up to my desk. He presents his receipt and I take the package from the safe.

"Imagine my stupefaction . . . . there was a hole in the heavy paper envelope. I put the package on the scales and it weighs but 20 grams. My heart almost stopped. I had not left the office for six days and six nights. I knew as positively as the sun shines that nobody had touched that safe except myself and my assistant. My assistant is the soul of honesty. That anyone of the crew on a British vessel had been involved in theft is simply unthinkable. It never happened yet in the history of the sea.

"My head whirled around. But there was nothing for me to do but face the music. 'Here is your package, Mr. Muritrillo!' I said to the jeweler. He took it in his hand and looked at the hole. 'I refuse to accept it,' he said.

"I immediately sent a bellboy to call the captain and the ship's detective. They weren't long in coming. Other passengers were coming up to my desk to withdraw their valuables. They noticed nothing of the trouble we were in.

"The disappearance of the diamonds was kept a strict secret. After the passengers went on shore, Mr. Muritrillo, the captain, my assistant and the ship's detective went into conference. We envisaged every possible conjecture, but could arrive at no solution.

"It was then decided to notify Scotland yard by wire," the purser continued his story. "Mr. Muritrillo went ashore but promised to be back on board the same afternoon when the representative from the Yard had arrived. This gentleman, Mr. Slothwell, appeared at three o'clock. He had left London immediately upon receiving the captain's wire.

"Mr. Muritrillo was also present when we gathered in my office again. We explained the circumstances of the loss to the detective and handed him the envelope. He took it into his hands, ripped it open and took a good long sniff at it. Then he turned to Mr. Muritrillo and said: 'You are under arrest, sir!'

"'Just a minute,' interposed the captain, 'Mr. Muritrillo is a first-class passenger' . . . 'Never mind, sir,' came back the detective, 'this is too simple. It's the mouse-trick. The man you call Mr. Muritrillo gave you a package with a thin card-board bottom. In the package was a live mouse and a piece of fat pork. When the mouse became hungry it first ate the pork and then started to dig a hole in the paper bottom, and after that through the envelope. But by that time the envelope was lying in the safe. The mouse escaped from the safe while it was standing open. The disappearance of the pork and the mouse explains the difference in weight at the time of the first weighing and later. I arrest Mr. Muritrillo and charge him with fraud. I think we will be able to tell you later what his real name is.'"

Memorial To Clyde War Dead

Dedication and unveiling of the Clyde memorial at Clyde, Alberta, will take place on Thursday, October 18, at 4 p.m., under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary branch of the late Great War Veterans' Association. The Hon. Major-General W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., will conduct the unveiling services while the dedication will be made by Rev Captain K. C. McLeod.

Rimbey W.A. Hears Dominion Leader

RIMBEY, Oct. 13—A party of Rimbey ladies who motored to Red Deer to hear the addresses of Mrs. E. G. Hewson, Toronto, Dominion secretary of "Juniors" and "Little Helpers" and Mrs. Abbott, Kingston, Ont., Dominion secretary of girls' branch of the Women's Auxilliary to the Church of England in Canada, included Mrs. H. B. S. Roper, secretary of the Rimbey W.A.; Mrs. T. G. Wilton, Mrs. A. Browne, Mrs. Franklin and Mrs. E. Johnston.

Pioneer Passes

PROVOST, Oct. 13—With the death of Mrs. Philip Sparling, Thursday, of the South Rosenheim district, south of Provost, another of the fine pioneers passed away. Death was sudden and occurred at the home of her son Phillip. Born in Russia, deceased came here 28 years ago with her husband, who predeceased her 20 years ago.

TO GET HIGHWAY

RIMBEY, Oct. 13—After two years of untiring effort on the part of Reeve W. F. Jersey, of Blindman M.D., and his council together with combined efforts on the part of other residents of the Rimbey territory, it looks as if there will be a gravel road between here and Bentley to connect up with the main highway.

CLYDE BUILDS STONE CAIRN TO WAR DEAD

Memorial to be Unveiled October 18—Built by Women's Auxiliary

Thursday, October 18, will be a red-letter day for Clyde and district, that date being chosen for the unveiling and dedication of the Great War Veterans' Memorial erected by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. in honor of those of Clyde who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Great War.

WILL UNVEIL

The unveiling ceremony will be performed at 4 p.m. by Major-General W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., and the dedication will be made by Capt. Rev. K. C McLeod, also of Edmonton.

A guard of honor of ex-service men will be inspected by Major-General Griesbach, and the massed voices of the Clyde Consolidated School District, under the direction of Principal R. J. Wright, will sing "The Maple Leaf Forever." Immediate relatives of the deceased soldiers will be in attendance.

OFFICERS

Officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary responsible for the construction of the Memorial are: Freda M. Nickerson, president; Emily M. Jack, vice-president, and Florence B Jack, secretary-treasurer.

CODES URGED IN MANITOBA

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13.—Establishment of a government department of trade and industry to prohibit unfair trade practices and regulation of Manitoba trade and industry by means of code and license, was proposed here Thursday by the Manitoba Retail Merchants' association.

The suggested department would fix minimum wages, fix a minimum price for sale of goods and services and supervise working conditions.

Grace Walther League Meets

At the third regular meeting of the season 27 young people attended the Grace Walther League meeting held at the parsonage, 113 street Thursday evening.

"The Gospel according to Matthew" was the topic presented by the pastor, Rev. H. J. Boettcher, during the bible study period. That Christian knowledge is a prerequisite of Christian service is evident from the story of Mary and Martha, declared the leader in the study period, in discussing the program of the Walther League in the department of Christian Knowledge and Christian service. Each person present was presented with a copy of the gospel according to Matthew for home reading.

Misses Caroline Stauffer and Mathilda Enders presented plans for a program of missionary dramatizations and plays to be given by the young people of Grace church, November 4.

A Hallowe'en party was planned for October 30. Miss Mary Bassendowski, member of the entertainment committee led in an interesting social program during the latter part of the evening.

Rimbey To Have 3 New Bridges

RIMBEY, Oct. 13.—Three new bridges are being installed in the country just north of Rimbey and the bridge at Bluffton, nine miles north of Rimbey, is having new piles driven.

As the three new bridges are 20 feet in length, the provincial government assumes responsibility and a large crew of men under the direction of Mr. McLaughlin, government engineer, have begun work.

The new bridges are located at Home Glen school, one miles west of this school and the third one mile south of what is known as the Van Dyck corner.

Monkey Fooled Village Guard

MADURA, India, Oct. 13.—A noise at midnight inside a candy shop at Kottayur, a small village, drew a crowd armed with torchlights and sticks, hoping to catch a suspected burglar. They surrounded the buildings and opened the door. A monkey jumped out and bolted.

It had made a good meal on candy and had emptied several cans of oil on the floor as a parting gesture.

W. Watson Dies

PROVOST, Oct. 13—Wallace Orville Watson, passed away in Provost hospital, Thursday, as the result of peritonitis. Mr. Watson was born here and lived on the farm with his parents northwest of Provost. He was secretary of the United Church Sunday school, and one of the prominent leaders among the young farmers of the district.

C.G.I.T. OFFICERS

THE ARBITER OF PEACE

Europe is Europe, particularly the Balkan sector of it. Because a Croatian madman shot the Yugoslav King on French soil, Yugoslavians raised the cry that Mussolini was behind the plot and brutally assaulted an Italian consular official.

Peace in that corner of the continent hangs on the forbearance of Mussolini. If Il Duce were looking for a colorable pretext on which to settle long-standing scores with the Yugoslavs, the mob has obligingly provided him with the opportunity.

Admirers of Woodrow Wilson have some reason to think him fortunate that he has not lived to see how his well-meant but too-idealistic "self-determination" idea is working in the European melting pot.

SOCIALISM REJECTED

By a vote of 2,146,000 to 206,000 the annual convention of the British Labor party rejected proposals that it pledge itself to a policy of full-fledged state socialism.

The decision is as emphatic and as clear-cut as that by which the C.C.F. in Canada has pledged itself to state ownership of everything.

Contentions of C.C.F. speakers that their organization is akin in aims and policies to the British Labor party are put out of court by this news from England. What the C.C.F. has committed itself to, that the British Labor party has repudiated by an overwhelming majority.

Claims that these parties are marching along the same road and toward the same goal are no longer tenable. They are pursuing courses which are divergent, and must diverge the more widely the farther they are pursued.

Appeals for support for the C.C.F., based on the assumption that it is travelling with the Labor party in the old lands, can no longer be made with any regard for facts. The C.C.F. must hereafter stand on its own platform of socialistic theory, with no pretended kinship to the policies and ideals of the Labor party in Great Britain.

Britain's Labor party has been doing business for a good many years in that highly industrialized country, and has gained wisdom from experience. Mr. Woodsworth and his associates are painting rainbows of fancy on the clouds of depression. The British Labor party, with its feet firmly on the ground, formally dissociates itself from that pleasant but useless occupation.

"BALANCE THE BUDGET"

"Dodo economists" is the term applied to reactionaries who demand that President Roosevelt reverse his financial policy, stop spending money to create employment, and centre his energies on balancing the budget. Canadians have heard enough of this "balance the budget" talk to warrant them in adopting the happy phrase and applying it to the tighten-your-belt school of economizers in this country.

The phrase fits, for the reason that budget-balancing as a remedy for the present collapse of business is as dead as the famous "dodo." That prescription may have been effective in a depression of scarcity. But this happens to be another kind of depression. It is a depression of plenty.

The world is so rich that it is hard up, business at low ebb, millions out of employment. The machinery of existence has got clogged with wealth. What must be done is to liquidate the wealth, make it volatile, and start it circulating. That can never be done by shutting off government expenditures at the cost of leaving great masses of people in stark want.

What is more, it would not be safe for the Government of the United States to make the attempt, and it is not safe for the Government of Canada to continue to do as it has been doing for four years. People will not starve in the midst of abundance in order that the books of a government may balance. Nor would public opinion tolerate the attempt to make them balance at the price of intensifying human distress.

Budgets should be balanced; but it will have to be done by other means than the "balance the budget" reactionaries are demanding. Monetize the wealth of Canada and our Government can shut off the "dole" overnight; its books will balance themselves, thanks to the increased revenues from a rising tide of industry and trade. And there isn't any other way to do it.

ROD-RIDING

In a wreck at Borden, Saskatchewan, two men were killed and nine injured—all rod-riders. Tuesday morning twenty-two men appeared in the Edmonton police court and pleaded guilty to rod-riding. Some had considerable sums of money in their pockets, others very little. All were riding free that they might save what they had, knowing they would need it before the winter is ended.

Rod-riding, it must be apparent even to Premier Bennett, was not ended by his prohibitive order of two or three years ago. That is no fault of the police. They have carried out orders so far as able to do so, at the risk of life and limb. But the rod-riders out-number the policemen ten to one, or twenty to one; and one policeman cannot watch twenty men all at once and all the time.

Every freight train that rolls across the country carries more box-car tourists than trainmen. What is worse—riding free has become a habit with thousands upon thousands of Canadians, old and young. Habits tend to permanency. How many years of normal conditions will have to pass before those who now ride free will "forget" the practice and buy tickets when they want to travel?

Rod-riding could have been prevented, and can be ended; but not by orders and the activity of any number of policemen the taxpayers can afford to hire. The way to stop it is to strike at the cause—unemployment. Most of the rod-riders are not travelling for pleasure. They are hunting for work, and because they cannot find it they keep on travelling, to the bother of the police, the disregard of authority, and the development of a lawless disposition.

Open up work projects, at wages which a self-respecting man can accept without feeling that he is a slave; the men will leave the box-cars for the jobs, and the national nuisance and pastime of rod-riding will die out.

Forty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

W. S. Robertson has been appointed returning officer in the Edmonton district, J. F. Forbes in Victoria, and M. Perrault in St. Albert.

Alex. McLeod of Little Mountain has a variety of wheat known as Little Club, which yielded 48 bushels to the acre, weighing 63 pounds to the measured bushel.

It is estimated that $85,000 worth of fur was purchased for cash or trade by Edmonton firms and fur buyers during the past year. This does not include fur traded by the Hudson Bay Co. in the Mackenzie basin, which all passes through Edmonton and helps to swell its trade.

A welcome arch is being erected on Jasper avenue between John Cameron's store and James McDonald office, in honor of the expected visit of the Governor General.

Poems That Live

THE PROGRESS OF POESY

Youth rambles on life's arid mount,
And strikes the rock, and finds the vein,
And brings the water from the fount,
The fount which shall not flow again.

The man mature with labor chops
For the bright stream a channel grand,
And sees not that the sacred drops
Ran off and vanish'd out of hand.

And then the old man totters nigh,
And feebly rakes among the stones.
The mount is mute, the channel dry;

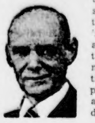
The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Novelties and dramatists—unless they're learned in the law like A. P. Herbert who wrote, "Holy Deadlock" — give amusement to the gentlemen of the blue bag brigade. You've seen melodramas which turn on a dying confession made to the village idiot, or been thrilled when the funny man in the last scene comes out and convicts the villian by saying, "That's 'im; I was hidin' be'ind a tree and see'd him do it." Contrast that with a recent case at Edmonton where dying accusations made by a girl to the police and doctors, were not allowed to be used as evidence against the accused.



J. S. Cowper

It isn't only in law that novelists commit "howlers." An English writer of a Canadian short story had the beautiful squaw wife of the runaway English earl "step lightly into the tent bearing upon her shoulder a cord of wood." And so versatile a novelist as Ethel Mannin in her recently published "Tinsel Eden" introduces a concert violinist who commences a program with a "Chopin fugue" proceeds to play the "second movement" of Rachmaninoff's Prelude and closes his recital by playing a symphony on his fiddle. Ethel had better keep to the sex stuff and stay on familiar ground.

But to return to our criminal procedure, which holds that every man is innocent until proved guilty, and boasts that it takes no unfair advantage against an accused in the dock. In the Birmingham police court in England, the prosecuting solicitor, Mr. Pugh, recently had to conduct the prosecution of a man, Bertram Dixon, charged with loitering.

Dixon had no lawyer to appear for his defence. The prosecution put in its case. At its close, Mr. Pugh instead of asking for a conviction, said, "This man is undefended. He suffers occasionally from loss of memory. He is not able to conduct his own defence to advantage. I think the best course is for me to call the evidence for the defence, as well."

So the prosecuting solicitor called Dixon's witnesses, brought out the evidence they had to give, and argued the defendant's case for him so well that the magistrate acquitted the accused.

I wonder if such a thing could happen in any but a British court of justice.

* * *

Here's another oddity in police court annals. William Taylor, a Bristol man who emigrated to Australia 20 years ago, was made the subject of a charge in the Bristol police court, under the Deserted Wives Maintenance Act. The summons was served upon him in Australia. What was he to do? He cabled the magistrate that he would come to Bristol and defend it.

Taylor made the round trip of 12,000 miles at a cost of $2000 to face the charge. The voyage to England took seven weeks and a day. The hearing of the case occupied only half an hour. Taylor was able to show that the alleged wife was the wife of another man at the time she had gone through a form of marriage with him, and therefore had no valid claim. Yet if he hadn't made the trip and put in a personal appearance, he would have been faced with the alternative of making payments under a court order or of going to jail.

I know of a somewhat similar case where an Edmonton man was made the subject of an order by a Victoria magistrate, who refused to give him time to appear and defend. He had to have the Supreme Court annul the marriage in order to obtain release from the order of the magistrate.

That bear raid on the Winnipeg wheat market in the last week of September—which failed with seeming losses to the invaders, thanks to the courage and experience of the manager of the government wheat agency, John I. McFarland—is liable to bring some interesting disclosures in its train. John I. McFarland, manager of the government wheat agency is a much more potent person than John I. McFarland as an individual wheat trader. He had bought about 26,000,000 bushels at about 18 cents above world prices in an effort to maintain the pegged price of wheat. Another 50,000,000 bushels would probably have been thrown in to break the market had the government not been appealed to for an investigation into the operations on the Winnipeg exchange. It is said that McFarland was ready to ask for the padlocking of the doors of the exchange had the bears not been frightened away.

Without government backing, wheat would probably have been driven down from around 80 cents to 60 cents. If reports are true, the bears were planning to buy back at 60 and boost the exchange price to a dollar. Dollar wheat, if the farmer can get the dollar, would be a very welcome state of affairs. Dollar wheat, with the crop in the hands of a foreign pool who had bought all available futures at around 60, would have spelt heavy losses to government and farmers alike.

McFarland says he is going to demand delivery of actual wheat. If the foreign bears—their identity behind the screen of a dozen brokerage houses is unknown—were selling wheat short, they may pay heavily for their efforts to make millions out of the people's bread. Young Mr. Joseph Leiter, fresh from Harvard in 1897, lost all the Leiter millions at the game. Arthur W. Cutten a former Guelph, Ont., messenger boy, who made the stock market and the Chicago grain pit the scene of spectacular raids, made and lost millions in his efforts to corner the wheat market.

There's something about wheat that lures men to their financial doom. Cutten says he wouldn't let his son touch the wheat market with a 10-foot pole. B. P. Hutchinson drove wheat from 90 cents to $2 in two weeks time in 1888 only to lose his huge profits later. James R. Keene found himself swamped with wheat from Europe before he could withdraw his paper profits of millions.

The promised enquiry into the bear raid that promised great riches to the promoters of the September coup, will probably show losses of millions before the wheat is delivered. So mote it be to these and to all others who try to make manipulated profits out of humanity's need for bread.

When You Catch a Cold

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

The common cold, or acute coryza, is a big problem in North America for more days are lost from work because of this illness than any other disorder. There are many theories as to the cause of colds, but, when one tries to catch a cold experimentally, the chances are that no cold will result. If you work in cold places or wet places, you are no more apt to catch a cold than the average person. It is true that certain germs may be found in the discharge from the nose during a cold, but these germs may also be found when a cold is not present for they are constantly entering the nose and usually are promptly expelled or their action destroyed.

Dr. F. McCoy

If you have a cold, you will probably have as many cures suggested to you as you have friends and yet, after the first few days, the cold runs along its appointed way regardless of anything you may do, until it finally clears up and disappears after about eight or ten days.

A cold produces acute discomfort because the swollen tender tissues in the nose interfere with the three most important functions of the nose, such as smelling, breathing, and vocal resonance. It is unpleasant not to be able to distinguish odors because most of the finer flavors of food are discerned by our olfactory apparatus. It is also unpleasant to be forced to breath through the mouth and to be forced to speak with the curious dialect of one whose nose is stopped. But, if these temporary inconveniences were all of the results of a cold, there would not need to be cause for alarm; however, colds may prove dangerous to the health to an even greater extent for the infection may spread in several ways. It frequently enters the frontal sinuses, causing chronic sinusitis. The infection may also travel up the Eustachian tubes into the middle ear, where it may result in severe pain and even deafness, and the inflammation may spread to the mastoid cells, causing mastoiditis. The inflammation also frequently extends down the throat into the larynx or voice box, causing hoarseness, and into the bronchial tubes, causing chronic bronchitis.

One should always regard the first symptoms of a cold with suspicion for many of the more serious acute diseases are indistinguishable in their first stages from the common cold and, if allowed to progress too far, may be difficult to overcome. I am convinced that germs are not the primary cause of colds but that there must first be a weakened resistance which may come from several factors, such as: enervation from a lack of sleep, or worry; overburdening the digestive organs by overeating; and a lack of proper elimination from the skin and intestines.

In taking care of a cold I suggest that you take one or more large enemas until thorough elimination has taken place. Then take a sweat bath such as can be obtained by wrapping several woolen blankets around the body and placing the feet in a tub full of hot water for about half an hour. Then wrap up well and go to bed so that the perspiration will continue, meanwhile drinking large quantities of warm water to which lemon juice has been added. This treatment, if taken in the early stages, will often end a cold in a short time and may prevent the cold from developing more seriously.

Those of you who suffer from frequent colds in the winter and who would like to have my treatment for the disorder, may write to me in care of this newspaper, and ask for the article called "When You Catch a Cold." I would strongly advise that you keep this article where you can find it easily, so that when you need this information, you will have it.

Horoscope

By MARY BLAKE

It might prove advisable on this October 14 to exercise care that your personal appearance will not subject you to criticism, should callers unexpectedly pay you a visit. You may meet a man or woman on this date, who might later on be instrumental in greatly advancing your financial interests. Married and engaged couples, as well as sweethearts, may have the opportunity of causing a great deal of happiness by practicing unselfishness.

If a woman and October 14 is your natal day, you will be happier and more contented if engaged in some business or profession than if you devote all your time and thoughts to social affairs. If married and you have time to spare from household tasks, engage in some worth while type of charitable or educational work.

The child born on October 14, when it is old enough to understand, should be taught the value of money and the evil of waste.

If a man and October 14 is your birthday, you have the ability to command the respect of your associates, which will prove very helpful in your career. Banking, architecture, law, or acting offer opportunities for one of your temperament.

On this October 15 Dame Fortune may treat you most graciously, so you might be justified in having a feeling of pleasant expectation. This day should prove highly favorable for business transaction involving large sums of money.

Married and engaged couples, as well as some of Cupid's victims, may save themselves embarrassment if they are conservative in making promises, whether the request is made by the fair lady or the gentleman.

If a woman and October 15 is your natal day, you are possibly more interested in intellectual pursuits than in social life. It might be well, however, to devote a certain amount of your time to your friends and pleasure.

If a man and October 15 is your birthday, you may succeed better and gain greater popularity, if you cultivate the habit of mixing more freely with people. Become interested in things that appeal to your friends. You will be wise to avoid living in a little world of your own creating, alone.

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

One of the things that has always puzzled me (a mere English-born Canadian interested in Canadian history) has been why it is that Canadian history writers, school teachers and tea table gossipers give all the credit for the victory at Queenston Heights on October 13, 1812, to Sir Isaac Brock and completely ignore the man who really won the day, Roger Hale Sheaffe. Looked at calmly Brock's charge up the heights to his death was brilliant, but it was not needed. He died in glory, doing his duty.

Let us, in all fairness, give credit to the man who won the battle after all hope had been abandoned. All day, until late in the afternoon, the enemy were in control of the heights. Then suddenly the tide of battle changed. Sheaffe, having secured re-inforcements attacked, surprised the enemy completely, and within a little while had them utterly defeated. Sheaffe, in his official despatch to Sir George Prevost at Quebec, wrote: "I had the satisfaction of receiving the sword of their commander, Brigadier General Wadsworth, on the field and many officers, with 900 men, were made prisoners. A stand of colors and one 6-pounder was also taken."

I have been told that Canadian opinion of Sheaffe has been colored because in the following April, when he found that he could not save York, he withdrew his little force to Kingston, and thereby aroused the resentment of the people of the future Toronto. But why should that hostility to Sheaffe extend over the Province of Ontario? He saved the Niagara peninsula; one would think that the people of that section at least would give him honor. But for Sheaffe the whole fight at Queenston would have been a rout and all the Niagara frontier would have fallen to the enemy at the beginning of the war. Brock's fame can never be lowered by giving to his successor the honor that is due to the man who snatched victory out of the jaws of defeat.

The greater part of Sheaffe's army was composed of raw local milita, who won the battle and then went home to complete their harvesting. They are indeed men to be proud of.

National Debits and Credits

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

A man who is earning money is a national profit up to the full amount of his earnings. This is an actual fact—true beyond any argument or question. A man who is able to work, and who cannot get work, is a national loss day by day until he is put to work. These are the facts the Japanese have realized, and to a substantial extent put into practice.

A horrified gold standard cult proclaims the Japanese a world trade menace. This is contrary to the truth. It is true that with the unemployment disease greatly remedied the Japanese can take an aggressive part in world marketing; but so can any other nation which will furnish its unemployed with work, paid for in domestic money which is worth par in home markets, and which enables the nation to put commodities on the markets of the world at prices the world will pay.

The entire loss due to unemployment has to be added into the cost prices of the national commodities offered for sale. By affording work and wages to everybody able to work, a nation automatically increases the amount of commodities and reduces the costs of production. The world will pay some price for everything necessary or useful. Only a full measure of employment enables a nation to sell at that price and make a profit.

The government of India by establishing a minimum wage of 25 cents per day; paying it in domestic money; and taking over and selling the produced commodies in world markets, would immediately turn India from a land of poverty into a land of wealth. The effect on the commerce of the world would be greater and more beneficial than the bringing in of all the gold mines and oil wells ever discovered.

In Canada by spending a comparatively small sum of money in opening up the Peace River area; and by spending a further comparatively small amount of money in creating outlets to tidewaters; and by carrying products to tidewaters at cost of transport plus a reasonable percentage for maintenance—there would be created homes and work for at least one million people. The annual increase in national earning power would surely and positively exceed one billion dollars per year—and would give increased trade to every community in Canada.

The reason for unemployment in Canada is the national sitting still and listening to talk—instead of putting everybody to work and doing business.

The national business of Canada can be increased at least ten fold by getting back into domestic work—territorial development—and minimum costs of getting commodities to tidewater. The concurrent increases in the carrying of valuable domestic commodities will put the railway managements into a capacity to make enlarged earnings and to devote their time and attention to profitable railway management instead of looking around for tracks to pull up.

The special privilege lines of thought have been so widely published, that it is hard to get a hearing for actual constructive facts. Everything here said is well within the limits of truth—and by being put into effect, will wipe out the unemployment losses and restore the value of fixed assets from one end of Canada to the other.

An epidemic of disease which deprived one million people in Canada of earning power would be a world calamity. It would be no different in appalling results from the permitting of a condition of great unemployment. We are there now—but do not seem able to realize it. The answer is constructive action—not learned speeches about keeping away from inflation.

NO VOTES FOR ANTIS

Editor Bulletin: Ninety million trusted Communists are to vote. Did Soviet Russia have ninety million trusted Communists right after the revolution? The answer is that they had far less than one million, and now far over a half of the entire population are trusted Communists. I wonder what capitalist country in the world could say that the people are joining by the millions every year to build capitalism?

There will be no anti-Soviet candidates. The Communists are building Socialism, why should they listen to a few people that have not sense enough to get away from the old traditions and the few that are there yet trying to restore the old regime for their special benefit?

NO MONEY

Editor Bulletin: I was much interested in a letter written by Mr. Shortliffe touching on our educational system. I may say that the writer agrees fully with much that is contained therein, especially as to the vast amounts of wealth spent on the destruction of life and property, leading to the accumulation of past wealth into the hands of war profiteers and munition makers, and the proportional impoverishment of the masses thereby. What chance has education when it has to take second place or more likely third place in the state budget.

Then again the state or the province sponsors education, legislates and controls and penalizes, and creates a vast top-heavy system, and then shifts the entire burden, on almost entirety, onto the shoulders of a bankrupt municipality, be it rural or urban.

And still more ridiculous, this burden of education must be derived from land or property values, even when the values of this landed property is down to zero, and it is close to that today, and getting closer.

The whole nation is taxed ruthlessly for purposes of destruction. Only the small municipality already bankrupt is taxed for purposes of education.

The province spends the people's money lavishly in vast building enterprises that are not at all needed, as normal school and resources building. Yet the province has "no money" when a teachers' pension scheme is mooted in Alberta; which stands alone and unashamed as the one province in Canada without a pension system. What chance has education?

COMMUNISM IN RUSSIA

In order that the general confusion prevalent regarding affairs in Russia may not be added to, let me say that the election of delegates to the All-Union Congress of Soviets is an annual affair, in which the Russian people in general participate. These delegates are elected solely on their merits, their ability and willingness to serve the people at large, and, contrary to your contention that only "trusted" Communists are eligible, the fact is that in the main they are non-party members from the villages and factories. Once elected, they meet and discuss and review the political and economic life of the nation and plans are drafted and adopted for the coming year.

At the close of this congress a central executive committee or presidium is elected to see that the work is carried out during the current year until the assembly of the next congress, when their term as a presidium expires.

Each "rayon"—constituency—has the right of recall over its delegate, so if the question of loyalty arises as between government and electorate, one feels justified in assuming that the delegate will not entirely forget the "folk back home," holding as they do the power to remind him of his disaffection, should the necessity arise.

Every person in the Soviet Union 18 years of age and over who works for a living is entitled to vote and may run for office. Soldiers and sailors all have the right to vote. The workers and peasants have the right to criticize their government and public officials, and the latter welcome it as a means by which they can overcome any mistakes and weaknesses that may exist. For the people at large this constitutes the widest democracy, but for the remnants of the old regime who form a very small and insignificant minority, and are not allowed that privilege, this is the dictatorship of the proletariat.

OPEN LETTER TO ROBERT GARDINER ESQ., M.P.

Sir:—The exposition, analysis and criticism of Social Credit given by you in your recent speech at Hanna, is, I regret to say, one of the weakest I have yet seen. You say that you have made it in all sincerity. I do not doubt your sincerity. But I do question your knowledge and competence for the task. Your faulty knowledge is shown by your describing the Just Price and the National Dividend as features of two alternative schemes. You speak of the Just Price as the Douglas proposal, and the National Dividend as the Alberta proposal, as if they were rivals. Any Douglas student would tell you at once that they are both applications of the principle of Consumer Credit, which is the very core of the Douglas doctrine, both advocated by Douglas and both embodied in the Alberta proposals. The explanation of this confusion is plain from the very evident fact that you have drawn your description of the Douglas scheme from a hostile source, Gaitskell's chapter in Cole's book on "What everybody wants to know about Money," for Gaitskell, too, makes no mention of the National Dividend. And the National Dividend, as one writer has said, is "the soul of Douglas."

To take you through the intricacies of the A plus B Theorem and to expose your fallacies, would take too long, and would serve little purpose, for it is not essential. The A plus B Theorem represents the Douglas analysis of the processes of industry, to show how the deficiency of purchasing power arises. It is not necessary that you should be able to follow or accept the reasoning (which is highly technical and demands some knowledge of cost accounting in industry), to justify your acceptance of the conclusion, that under the present system of financing industry there is always a deficiency of purchasing power; in other words that the money released for production is to a great extent short-circuited before consumption takes place, and that consequently consumers have not the money to buy the goods produced. And further, owing to the rapidly increasing mechanisation of industry and the displacement of human labor, the gulf between the goods offered for sale and the ability to buy those goods must inevitably widen. The Douglas analysis, meant to show how this condition arises, is confirmed by other processes of proof, quite independent of his. For example, Foster and Catchings, in their book "Profits," (published in 1925 and hence long before the present depression, and moreover not a Douglas book, for Douglas receives only five lines in its 460 pages) devote the last 200 pages to an examination of the causes of the chronic deficiency in purchasing power, both in good times and in bad. Controversy there may be as to the reasons for this deficiency, but as to the fact itself there can be no dispute. It was recognised, long before Douglas' time by Edward Bellamy in one of his books ("Equality," I think). This condition, this chronic lag in purchasing power, has given rise to the world-wide spectacle of Poverty amidst Plenty: a world rich in goods and the capacity to produce, with multitudes ill-fed, ill-clad, destitute human beings: a condition most eloquently described by your own colleague in Parliament, Mr. E. J. Garland, in his speech on the Bank Act Revision, on March 1. (Hansard, p. 1176).

But there is no need to go to books. The fact of deficiency in purchasing power stares one in the face on every hand, probably most of all among your own constituents. It is true that some bankers—some, happily not all—deny it. And the astonishing thing is that in your Hanna speech you too have denied it, in unison with these reactionaries. And yet emphasis on this most disruptive fact runs through a score of speeches by your Parliamentary colleagues during the last two or three years, notably Messrs. Coote, Garland, Irvine, Lucas and Spencer. Witness the amendment to the Budget on 4th April, 1933, moved by Mr. Lucas and seconded by Mr. Woodsworth (Hansard, 1933, p. 3877).

Foster and Catchings show conclusively that "periodic business depressions with the inevitable accompaniment of unemployment, reduced production and lowered standards of living, are caused fundamentally by the failure of consumers' income to keep pace with output." (p. 350). Failure of consumer income is the weak spot, and they emphasize this again and again. A few quotations will suffice. "Additions to the volume of money are made very readily on the producers' side, but not at all readily on the consumers' side, with the result that, whenever the volume of money is increased in accordance with the established and approved methods of financing increased production, the result in due time is an even larger deficiency in consumers' purchasing power than before," (p. 351). "The chief economic need is a flow of money to consumers sufficient to enable them to buy and continue to buy at an approximately stable price-level all the goods that are actually ready for final consumption," (p. 364). "As the volume of production increases, industry fails to distribute to consumers enough money to buy the total output," (p. 368).

Thus the problem is accurately stated, but the book contains no attempt to solve it. It concludes with a challenge to youth: "high adventure awaits the daring," for the economic problem "can be solved." And Douglas has solved it by two simple remedies: (1) the use of the National Credit, which is not novel, for in every bank crisis during the last hundred years, resort has been had to the National Credit, and the war was financed wholly by this means: and (2) the application of the novel principle of Consumer Credit, debt free and interest free. The latter takes two forms, (a) the Price Discount, which you describe in your speech: the object is at one and the same time to increase consumer purchasing power, and to prevent inflation by keeping prices stable: and (b) the National Dividend. Both are essential parts of the Douglas Plan.

Now it is not my purpose to expound the Douglas proposals within the space of a letter. I merely wish to make a few remarks on the National Dividend. First, in Relief for the destitute, Old Age Pensions and Widows' Allowances the State has already recognized the duty resting on it of providing for the primary needs of its less fortunate citizens. The National Dividend will supersede these forms of aid. Second, the huge displacement of labor by the rapid mechanization of industry, more especially during the lost 10 or 15 years, necessitates adequate provision being made for the victims of the resulting economic disturbance in all the industrial nations, and it is certain that their numbers will progressively increase. Third, moral issues apart, this is an absolute economic necessity. And this leads me to your "something for nothing' difficulty.

The objection is usually put upon moral grounds. Now it is dangerous to inject morals into economics, just as much as it would be into applied science. The result will be bad economics and disastrous in effect. For purely economic reasons, not on charitable grounds, due provision must be made for those for whom no room can be found in modern industry. The advent of steam and hydro-electric power has created a condition without precedent in human history. Mr. Garland, in his speech of March 1, has given us some striking illustrations. Here have we in Canada, with a population of 10,000,000, a developed horse power equivalent to 73,000,000 workers. If we put that power to work—as Science calls us to do—the resulting production will be fabulous. Now the sole object of production is to satisfy the needs of the consumer. But how can the products be disposed of unless the men and women thrown out of work are given the means to consume them? If that is denied them, the machine will get clogged and will fail to function. Rather than face this logical necessity, our so-called "statesmen" have been guilty of the supreme folly of putting crimps into our vast productive capacity, nay, as Mr. Garland says, of the supreme impiety of "throwing God's bounty back in His face." Science has told us plainly that we face the Age of Leisure, and the Statesmen have got to take due note of the fact. Science and Economics, therefore, unite in demanding that the unemployed be given the right to share in the fruits of that machine power which has superseded them.

But on moral grounds alone, how can you justly deny this right? Do we not all get "something for nothing?"

At this season of Harvest Thanksgiving, we sing:

For peaceful homes and healthful days,
For all the blessings earth displays,
We owe Thee thankfulness and praise,
Giver of all!

What has any one of us "paid" for our natural endowments? the man for his strength, the woman for her beauty, you yourself for your splendid talents of vigor of mind and eloquent speech? If the Almighty Father has lavished on us his bounty, who are we to deny to our fellow-men, as a human right, the primary necessities of life? Moreover, I must take exception to your statement of the case. The merchant, the doctor, the lawyer, are not required to give their goods and services free. They will be paid the full price. But the State will issue the National Dividend free, though not as at present, out of taxation or borrowing. How can that be done? Precisely as it is now done by the banks when they issue credit. Mark what happens. When our government, which on behalf of the nation is the trustee of the National Credit, borrows from a bank for national purposes, it pledges the national credit to the bank, and the bank, by a book-keeping entry, monetises it without cost to itself, and converts it into a debt to the bank. Thus the government makes a free gift to the bank, and that is called "sound finance." This insane procedure has led to the present impasse, so that not only Canada, but every nation labors under a load of ever mounting debt which cannot possibly be paid under the present system, and even to pay the interest, governments have to resort to fresh borrowings or crushing taxation. Under the Douglas proposals the Government will use the National Credit for the benefit of consumers and not for the benefit of the banking institutions.

The present debt system is fast reducing the world to bankruptcy, with a struggle for ever shrinking foreign markets and as a natural consequence we are heading straight to war. The Douglas system, in my judgment, provides the only possible way out of the impasse. It will bring consumption into balance with production, without inflation, and by stimulating the possibility of consumption will step up industry to its full productive capacity. Moreover, by stopping government borrowings and by rendering available the National Credit, it will make it possible, within a measurable time, to pay off our government debts. And lastly, it will remove the chief incentive to war.

Edgerton, Alta. AJAX.

GUILD SOCIALISM

Guild Socialism, as a movement, perished, leaving only the choice between parliamentary Social Democracy and revolutionary Communism—the latter a policy which, attractive to a few genuine minded people and to the more hopeless among the unemployed, stood no chance at all of winning enough support to succeed in a country still rich and capitalistically solid in spite of the depression.

Parliamentary Socialism therefore held the field, and holds it still, despite the futilities of the two MacDonald Governments of 1924 and 1929. The Labor Party, in consequence of these fiascos, has edged its declared policy leftwards, proposing to socialize the banks and what not when it gets into power with a majority of its own. But the leaders of the party are still very eager to declare that their aims are strictly constitutional, and to repudiate all policies which anyone denounces as savoring of dictatorship. So far, so good; but they are also most unwilling to commit themselves to any far-reaching revision of the parliamentary machine, and apparently prefer to believe that a sort of Socialism can be brought into being by gradually placing the leading industries and services under bureaucratic commissions of non-political experts, as if Socialism were simply a change in machinery and not essentially a change in spirit.

I wonder how many of those who advocate this programme of parliamentary Socialism really believe that Socialism can be achieved in this way. Most of them sound to me as if they only half believed it hoping at most for "Socialistic" changes which would do something to better the lost of the poor without essential change of system. When they talk about socializing the banks they generally fail to give any idea of how banking policy will differ after socialization from what it is now. When they talk about socializing industries, they fail to show that the position of the workers will be in any material respect affected by the change.

Yet, after all, what else are they to do? A new social system cannot be created without a tremendous outpouring of fresh imaginative energy. It cannot be created except by the work of men and women who believe in it with passion and even fanaticism. There is no fanaticism, and precious little passion, in the Labor Party today, either among the leaders or among the bulk of the members; and any party machine is strong, and is used chiefly to strangle any sign of original thought. The central Trade Union machine is equally hot in its persecution of dissenters. Discipline, we are told, must be kept; and criticism is disloyal.—G. D. H. COLE, in The New English Weekly.

These Also Named In Scandal Case

The court case involving some of America's foremost families goes on apace. Nathan Burkan, attorney for widowed Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, cites suit of Evan Burrowes Fontaine against Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney as evidence his mother, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, is not a suitable person to bring up little Gloria Vanderbilt. The two women are fighting for the girl's possession. Miss Fontaine, dancer, charged Whitney was father of her son, with whom she is shown at left. Whitney and his mother are pictured at right.

C.C.F. AND CONSERVATIVES

In the recent by-election in Toronto East, William Irvine, M.P., speaking for the C.C.F. candidate, said that that party, unlike the Liberals, was not out to "beat Bennett." "Mr. Bennett has been a far better Prime Minister than Mr. King," he declared. He said that Mr. Bennett had incurred the displeasure of St. James street because, at the last session, he had given the country "the best legislation in 50 years." Mr. King, he declared, was now "on the job" for the financial interests.

All of which simply means that Mr. Irvine and the C.C.F. are strong for legislation like the Marketing Act in which sweeping powers are taken by the Government to enforce marketing methods and policies, in some cases without consulting the producers. The carrying out of the ambitious "planning" policies of the C.C.F. requires the use of bureaucratic and dictatorial methods, and Mr. Irvine admires Mr. Bennett for showing the way.

But why should the financial interests favor Mr. King rather than Mr. Bennett? Both supported the establishment of the Central Bank, which the chartered banks did not want. Mr. Bennett leaves the Central Bank under the control of its shareholders, while Mr. King would have placed it under the control of the Government. Would the banks prefer that?

The C.C.F. and the Conservative party have a good deal in common, and those who wish to see economic freedom and the liberties of the people preserved in Canada will give the Liberal party credit for the fight it has waged against the tendency towards dictatorial methods of government. —Winnipeg Free Press.

TRADING IN MONEY

There have been mysterious sales of wheat of late on the Winnipeg wheat market and the Ottawa government has got into something of a jam in consequence. The editor of the financial page in The Star on Thursday said: "The source of this selling is supposed to be very mysterious, but it seems to the writer of these sidelights that if the Canadian minister of finance would cast his eye over the quotations of the Canadian dollar in London and New York he might, if not solve the mystery, at least do something about it."

The Canadian dollar being at a premium in New York and London it is quite a simple amusement for speculators in either of both capitals to buy wheat in British or Canadian funds, sell it at Winnipeg in Canadian funds and pocket the exchange. The more imaginary wheat they thus buy and sell the more profit they make. It is about as profitable as not growing ten thousand hogs for Uncle Sam. These speculators are not trading in wheat; they are trading in money.

It is nice to have our money above par on the Monday and Tuesday on which we are paying international debts in London and New York, but it is not so good for the rest of the week when we are seeking to sell internationally. London and Washington have both gone to great lengths to prevent their funds rising too high on the world exchanges. The minister of finance, Mr. Rhodes, ought to do something about it.—Toronto Star.

RATIONAL AND SOUND

The Ottawa agreements are sympathetic of the strange inversion of economic reasoning which has curtailed the field of international trade in every direction by artificial barriers.

How world trade is to extricate itself from the noxious economic fallacies which now afflict it, even to the point of extinction, remains to be seen.

It would be a fine step in the right direction, however, if Canada and the United States, whose mutual interests outweigh any particular interest of either, could disengage themselves from the strangle-hold of false trade conceptions and put their mutual commerce upon the same basis of complete reciprocity.

Canada has grown too big, too self-confident, too secure, to be a prey to the fears which blocked commercial reciprocity with the United States nearly a generation ago.

It is difficult in retrospect to realize that such apprehensions were seriously entertained. They are utterly chimerical today and known to be such by both peoples.

Here is a great call for true statesmanship on the part both of Canada and the United States.

What an achievement for the two democracies of the West to blaze the way for the world to the restoration of normal international trade!

Whatever agreements stand in the way are agreements which should not exist and never should have been made.

Whatever advantages Canada or the United States would be called upon to forego are illusory or relatively small compared with the great gains which would inevitably flow from complete commercial reciprocity.

In days so dark and confused as the present, it is a great thing to be able to take at least one step that is rational and sound.

WHAT IS PARALYZING VANCOUVER

Standing in line down at the City Hall wickets for the past weeks, Vancouver home owners have been turning over their last few dollars for taxes. Whether the sum was $10, $20 or $50 or $1000 the amount was more than could be afforded. It was more income than the property would pay if rented.

Underdressed and undernourished people stood in that line, with their few dollars in their hands that should have gone for clothes and food, but they were struggling to hold their home or business or have them sold over their heads for taxes. Their money should have gone into the stores for goods and then into business circulation, instead of into strong boxes and bond interest accounts that are already too full.

These city taxes went to pay interest rates of 5 per cent and over on the 60 million dollars of civic indebtedness, that years ago should have been reduced to 3 per cent., or event to 2 per cent.

Until city and provincial and federal bonds are reduced to 3 per cent or less, private loans and banks refuse to budge from 6 and 7 and 8 per cent. At these extravagant amounts as wages for money little business can be done; there is no building, no business turnover and trade dries up.

Since 1929 taxes on business property in Vancouver have gone up 80 per cent.

A bondholder that got 5 per cent in 1929 today gets the equal of 8 or 9 per cent, because his money buys that much more goods.

Most bond holders would gladly accept a reduction because they feel that the present taxes are so great that their security is being imperilled. But there is no move by the Mayor or Aldermen to bring the high interest question to a showdown.

Some months ago a Vancouver resident died owning $700,000 worth of choice downtown property, all occupied and all revenue producing, all paid for and with clear title. Not one of those properties is bringing in enough revenue to pay taxes, leave alone yield a return to the owner.

How can that man's family probate an estate that on face of it is so hopelessly insolvent? The estate is not even worth probating. What does the city propose to do with the property that is now coming back on its hands?

And what applies to that estate applies to every home and business owner, and every business in Vancouver.

Vancouver properties are being confiscated, Vancouver businesses are being bankrupted by unpayable high interest rates.

What do the Mayor and Aldermen propose to do about it?—Vancouver Sun.

During his honeymoon the Scotsman took his wife to see the dentist, who, after making an examination, said, "Dear, dear, these teeth ought to have been taken out years ago." "All right," said the Scot, "carry on and take them out, and send the bill to her father."

Lecture On Christian Science In Empire Theatre

Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson, C.S.B., of Boston, Gives Address Entitled "Christian Science—A Practical Religion"

Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson, C.S.B., of Boston, Massachusetts, member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, spoke to a large and attentive audience in the Empire theatre on Thursday evening. The lecture was given under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Edmonton.

The lecturer, who was introduced by Mrs. Helen A. Walker, spoke as follows:

There is an outcry today from a suffering world for salvation. This cry was answered twenty centuries ago by Christ Jesus: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." Christian Science comes today in his name with an assurance that the promises will be fulfilled. Christian Science teaches us that whatever the need, there is always divine Love enough present to save from any affliction, always Truth enough to destroy any error, always divine intelligence enough to point the way out.

May I tell you briefly of my own introduction to Christian Science? I had been for five years the pastor of a church in a suburb of Boston. In my pastoral work I was instrumental in sending a drunkard to a gold cure. After being there for some time he came home and remained sober. One of the church members said to me, "If you had never done anything more than to reform this man you would have justified your calling." In reading the Bible that evening my eyes fell on Jesus' command to his disciples, "Go . . . preach . . . heal." I wondered if there were a church which understood both commands. Then I began to look for such a religious society. I visited churches of many denominations and finally began attending the Wednesday night meetings of the Christian Science church in Boston. When I heard the testimonies of healing that were given, I said, "What other people are talking about, these people are doing." Since that time I have had countless opportunities to witness and prove the healing power of Christian Science.

TODAY'S URGENT PROBLEM

The urgent problem of today is the solution of the uncertain and unsettled state of affairs in the economic or business realm. We all know that there is just as much land and air as there ever was; just as much food (in fact, an overabundance of food); just as many willing hands to go to work—and still there is this lack.

As there is this abundance of material supply, what is the trouble? Obviously it is not in the matter condition, in the material situation. Where, then, is the trouble found? Is it not in the mental realm? Can't we see that all lack is a mental condition? Mankind is experiencing the results of corruption, greed, materiality, prior to its purification.

Never has material knowledge reached so high a point, never have the achievements of the human mind been more brilliant, more triumphant, than in this era, tending toward annihilation of time and space. One can be in New York and hear Big Ben of London strike the hour of midnight, or converse with an explorer in the polar regions. Flying, television, broadcasting, a thousand and one improvements, increase the comforts, the conveniences and pleasures of mankind. All these inventions we welcome, and rightly so, yet observe well; the high tide of the victories of all this material knowledge is concomitant with one of the greatest periods of disaster in history. In the midst of its greatest triumph, materialism lies prostrate, in a great defeat. It is a paradox that the more victories we win on the false basis of life in matter, the more defeats we undergo. The whole picture paints the self-contradictory nature of matter—the stronger it seems the weaker it is.

There are, however, signs of awakening. Many students of world affairs, including statesmen, natural scientists, and economists, are admitting that the only solution for the world's problems lies in spiritualization of thought, in right thinking and right living. Doctrines, no less than theories of economics, are being weighed in the balance. More and more is there a longing for a practical religion.

Today, Christian Science, as discovered by Mary Baker Eddy, offers a solution for the problems not only of the individual, the home, and the church, but of the counting room, the factory, the farm, indeed of the governments of the world. Christian Science is teaching that Paul's words to the Philippians state a present-day fact: "My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus."

Someone may ask, How can the understanding of God's omnipotence and the real man's completeness fill my human mouth with material bread, put material coin into material pockets, and supply warmth by material raiment? This better condition, then, is brought about through a better understanding of the truth of being.

Christian Science, which is the application of divine Science in human history, makes this plain. This Science teaches how divine law, operating in the material realm, quenches material sense and so-called law, and supersedes them with spiritual sense and spiritual law, controlling human conditions by understanding the unreality of matter and the actuality of spiritual law, thus displacing error and replacing it with truth.

SUPPLY UNLIMITED

It is vital to understand the teaching of Christian Science that God, Spirit, is substance. Real substance, as God knows substance, is not to be thought of in terms of bulk, weight, quantity, something that can be weighed or measured. How do we count our substance? In an incorporeal universe what is substance? Eternal, true ideas. It is impossible to outline substance in any material form, for substance is above material sense. Since God is not material is it not plain that God has no bulk, nor weight, nor any other property of matter? Must not the same be true of His image and likeness, man? Man's being manifests all the qualities of Spirit, of Life, Truth, and Love.

And what are the qualities of Spirit? Love, peace, power, spiritual consciousness, spiritual understanding. Whatever we know of these qualities is our foretaste of heaven, and what we know we shall never lose. The moment we accept matter as a substantial reality, that moment we have bulk, weight, quantity, and mass; that moment we have limits; that moment substance is something which can be withheld from one and given to another. Then our possessions are uncertain, insecure. The more that substance is viewed as quantitative and finite the less one's substance becomes and the more inevitably mortal man and his universe are progressing toward the logical outcome of limits and finity, namely, annihilation of everything, including his own false vews. But the true view of substance works the other way. Everyone can have all there is of substance. All spiritual substance, activity, spiritual consciousness, spiritual understanding, intelligence, truth, love, etc., ever increasing in vigor, action, animation, fruitage, possession, supply come to him who has the right understanding of substance.

Mental penury is devoid of all reality. Mental penury is the absence of spirituality, the absence of Christ, Truth. It is the absence of the Golden Rule, of justice and mercy in the government of nations; the absence of peace and unity among peoples. The absence of spiritual brotherhood is externalized in the world today.

Jesus once said to his anxious parents, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" No other enterprise than the Father's ever concerned Jesus. His capital was the substance of Spirit; his salesmanship the dispensing of Truth; his wares were Mind's ideas. He proved that production comes only from Spirit; that "the flesh profiteth nothing"; and he reaped the abundance of good.

In his prayer that he may be always about the Father's business, each sincere follower of the master Christian may realize for himself that God directs all his ways. All the qualities of God belong to him by the law of reflection, and he can make them manifest in his daily living. Thus he can continuously win the victory of Truth and Life eternal.

GOD IS ALL AND IS SPIRIT

Christian Science is old in that it is a restatement of the divine Science of Mind which was in some degree given by the patriarchs and prophets and which was seen and lived by Christ Jesus. It is new in that it explains the divine Principle in obedience to which Jesus did his mighty works. The textbook of Christian Science, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," is in very truth what its name proclaims it to be, a key to the Scriptures. You will recall that Jesus, without the use of material remedies, healed the sick and raised the dead, that he fed the hungry and found a supply for every need. Christian Science is reminding men of Jesus' promise, "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also." It is making men realize that it is their privilege and their duty to carry on the healing work of the early Christians, and it is showing them how to do so.

Scholastic theology has taught the infinity of an all-powerful God. It taught an infinite power, but at the same time inculcated fear and terror of other powers. But any admission of evil as real cannot be included if we stand on the premise of an infinite power which is good. For evil within God's universe denies God's supremacy as an infinite power of good. Evil outside His universe denies His infinity and His omnipresence. The Christian Scientist declares in absolute earnestness that the omnipresence and infinitude of God is a fact; and, if the testimony of the senses presents the contrary, the Christian Scientist denies the evidence of the senses and accepts what is absolute and true. Right at this point demonstration begins to operate in the destruction of sickness, sin, and want. Scholastic theology presents the divine, supreme law of God and then adds laws of health and sickness. Its interpretation of Scripture is that God is All and is Spirit, but it adds to this allness corporeality and matter; while the Christian Scientist asks, If God is Spirit and includes all, what and where is matter?

Today natural scientists would probably answer that matter is the subjective condition or manifestation of energy. More than fifty years ago Mrs. Eddy startled the world by her teaching of the unreality of matter. On page 293 of her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," is this statement, the significance of which the world is beginning to learn: "Matter and mortal mind are but different strata of human belief. The grosser substratum is named matter or body; the more ethereal is called mind."

OMNIPOTENT MIND

Since God is Mind, and God is infinite, and one, it follows logically that God is all the Mind there is, and there can be but one Mind. This Mind is all-seeing divine Love. It knows only good, only the things of Spirit. It includes no consciousness of loss, of sin, or of disease, for these are but products of a belief in another mind, in a power apart from God. The activity of Mind is always in the realm of perfection. Transformation, not annihilation, is the result of this activity.

Where divine Mind is, ignorance is not. Intelligence is the essential quality of Mind. Each idea of God is an expression of Mind and therefore manifests unfailing intelligence. One who learns this truth in Christian Science no longer considers it modest to acknowledge stupidity but begins at once to renounce and denounce the false sense of mind—what St. Paul calls the "carnal mind." In the degree that he claims infinite, measureless Mind as his consciousness, the only consciouness there is, he becomes aware of divine direction in all his affairs. Moreover, he is influenced by this Mind only, and not by erring mortal minds.

INFINITE TRUTH

More than ever men are asking Pilate's question, "What is truth?" The answer of Christian Science is that Truth is God. On page 465 of Science and Health is this unparalleled definition of God: "God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love." Truth then is the incorporeal God,—that is, without flesh or any thought of flesh. The Truth which is God is mental, spiritual; is divine consciousness. Truth is the I AM, and because I AM is, we are.

This Truth, that God is, can have no limits. It has no beginning, no ending, no birth, no maturity, no decay, no age. It is unlimited, infinite Being. Truth, then, is not a cold abstraction. There is no Truth without Love and no Love without Truth. The Truth which is forever victor is the Love which is the creator and cause of all that is. Truth is intelligent, always knowing enough to be itself and nothing else. Truth is the only source of true law, unchanging, invariable, eternal. Oneness with God is oneness with Truth, with Life, with good.

INDESTRUCTIBLE LIFE

Christian Science shows that there is one, infinite, eternal, omnipresent Life, which is indestructible, self-existent Truth, absolute Principle, immortal Love. This Life is the unending Life of man, which nothing can take away from him.

When we think rightly of God, when we think rightly of Life, then we know God, then we know Life. It is ours by reflection. We possess it because we understand it. Is it of any avail to attempt to sustain this Life by matter? Can matter nourish and sustain spiritual existence? What did Jesus say? "It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." We have then, the authority of Jesus, that to know God is to live. This Mrs. Eddy has made possible to all through her discovery of Christian Science. If we wish to unite inseparably with Life we must begin by understanding what Life is. Now when we awaken to this Truth, this is the quickening—Life's own stirring in us. To reach the clearer perception of the eternal, indestructible nature of Life is to be united inseparably with Life. The activity of Love in consciousness is the very circulation of Life. When the true meaning of Life is understood Life is made manifest as health, peace, joy. We can begin here and now to reflect eternal, indestructible, continuing Life. When we do this harmony begins to be manifest in all our ways and conditions in home, business circumstances, environments, associates. Life is God, and living is reflecting God's qualities in all that one thinks and does and is.

CHRIST JESUS

On page 344 of Mrs. Eddy's book, "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany," is this arresting statement: "If we say that the sun stands for God, then all his rays collectively stand for Christ, and each separate ray for men and women." The whole light, then, is Christ, and the rays are the children of God. Each individual has his exact place in light. The entire reflection, the whole truth about all, is Christ; Christ comes to each man, and each by demonstration takes his exact and perfect place and part in the wholeness of this reflection. Christ comes to the human and saves from incarnate error.

We come to God by the Son, by expressing the divine nature; this is the way by which we can know God. He can be known only through the Son, His expression; Mind can be known through the idea of Mind. When you gain a spiritual idea, that is Christ, Messiah, Son, Saviour, Redeemer. Through it you know the Father. Your thought includes His idea, His character, His nature, through which you understand Him. Christ is the full and perfect expression of God, of infinite Mind, infinite Love, or Principle. To be the perfect expression he must include all true being. Be the expression of Soul and you are in your rightful place.

Christ includes the truth or spiritual reality, not only about Christ Jesus, but about everybody and everything. The spiritual reality about you and about me and about all things is included in Christ. This spiritual reality is the true reflection of creation.

CORRECT VIEW OF MAN

If God is, as of course He must be, absolutely perfect, infinitely perfect, it is contrary to intelligent judgment to believe that anything He does, or creates, is imperfect. If God is perfect in intelligence, power, wisdom, faculty, action, love, it is not possible that there should be a flaw in the universe, including man. Any contrary supposition would be manifestly absurd. Man is the perfect activity, the perfect product, perfect expression of the Principle of existence. A mortal body is the expression of a mortal, carnal state of consciousness. The real man is the representation of God, divine Mind, the real consciousness. Man is the image of God's being—the full representation of everything that God is. Man has everything that God has, being His reflection. God is Spirit and man is spiritual. God is Truth and man is truthful. God is Love and man is loving.

My, your, real identity (so falsified and misrepresented in mortal body) is our spiritual consciousness, spiritual substance and structure, of which we are becoming measurably aware. Mortal man's private, personal, so-called matter body consists of the general, untrue concepts of mortals. Our real being—divine Being reflected—consists of true ideas. Putting off the old man means changing our thoughts, our consciousness, our mentality.

Man is the idea of God. That idea has nothing to do with mortal forms. In our real identity we are each an idea of God, divine, not human, not animal. Let us claim our identity, our sonship, and sing our song of oneness with the divine Mind. When the true concept of man dawns in consciousness, this is the idea of God appearing. Jesus said, "He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on him that sent me." Man is, therefore, the eternal, universal, spiritually embodied ideal of all that is good, true, real, enduring, beautiful—and is the entirely spiritual, reflected consciousness of divine Mind; the imperishable, immortal ideal of Soul. This spiritually embodies ideal of Love never was matter, never had matter body, tissues, or organs, couldn't experience sickness, sin, death, decay, degeneration.

What is the kingdom within? It is spiritual awareness of present man, the real man. The selfhood of the human concept is denial of spiritual sonship or oneness with Spirit, God. Its mortal sense of existence is too finite for "anchorage in infinite good" (Unity of Good, p. 43).

Of this unreal dream of a false belief about existence even Shakespeare wrote:

"The cloud-capped towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve,
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff
As dreams are made on; and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep."

The teachings of Christian Science show that mortals, not immortals, are "such stuff as dreams are made on"—in other words, unreal—and that it is our mortal, false sense of existence that is "rounded with a sleep."

But, in clearer visioned strain writes the poet, Thomas Moore, as quoted by our Leader, in "Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 51):

"When from the lips of Truth one mighty breath
Shall, like a whirlwind, scatter in its breeze
The whole dark pile of human mockeries;
Then shall the reign of Mind commence on earth,
Man in the sunshine of the world's new spring,
Shall walk transparent like some holy thing."

The whole sense of a false mind will disappear in the tides and currents of real Mind, real consciousness, Soul-sense, including none of the mental processes of the human concept of mind. "Unity of Good" (p. 46) says, "The scientific man and his Maker are here; and you would be none other than this man, if you would subordinate the fleshly perceptions to the spiritual sense and source of being." True thoughts constitute the true individuality of man. Man, then, is divine, not human. "Man is a celestial" (No and Yes, p. 26). Then let us pray that divine intelligence transplant our concept of man from human or mortal to infinite being.

EFFECTUAL PRAYER

The teaching of Christian Science on the subject of prayer is in harmony with the Scriptures and is in full accord with the scientific practice of Christ Jesus. "The prayer of faith," said James, the brother of Jesus, "shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up." Christian Science shows by reason and proof that the prayer of faith, that is, of spiritual understanding, does save the sick, and the Lord, God, who is infinite Love, does raise him up.

Many forms of prayer are for the most part petitions to our heavenly Father, beseeching Him to do a favor, or to grant the petitioner's request. What needs changing is not the disposition nor the intention of the heavenly Father. "God is Love," and He ever waits to bestow all good upon His child. It is the debased will of wayward mortals that stands in need of change. Prayer, then, should not be an effort to alter the unchanging God, "with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning," but prayer should be such as will displace wrong thinking by right thinking, and make the one who prays fitted to receive the blessings that await him.

The following case of healing illustrates the marvelous transforming power of Christian Science prayer. Certain members of a large family had become interested in Christian Science through its healing works, but one member was much opposed to Christian Science. To this woman was born a son who was a helpless cripple. His head rested in the hollow of his shoulder, and the only movement he could make was to roll his eyes. The mother had taken him to many physicians, and the final verdict was that there was no help for the child; that if he lived he would be a helpless invalid and probably an imbecile. The mother's family expressed much loving interest, and when she visited them they urged her to turn to Christian Science for the healing of her child. Finally the mother said to a sister, "Well, if you want to, go ahead and treat the child." The sister replied that she would gladly do so, if the mother would do her part and study earnestly the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health. This the mother indignantly refused to do and returned home with her child in the same helpless condition as before.

She began to do some earnest thinking. She recalled the many healings that her family had experienced in Christian Science. One day she wrote to her sister that she had begun to read the Bible and Science and Health, and she asked her sister to treat the child. What a transformation took place in the mother's thought! Her mental condition of helplessness gave way to confidence and the expectation of good. Resentment vanished, and love filled her heart. In place of the feeling of separation from her family there came the sense of unity with them. She ceased to look upon deformity as God-ordained, hence as real, and began to see perfection as genuine.

This altered thinking on the part of the mother made her receptive to the truth which the sister-practitioner was realizing for the patient. She knew that the corporeal senses could give no true report concerning God's creation. She saw only God's man, perfect, whole, upright, free. She knew that only false, man-made laws were holding mother and child in bondage; she realized that God's law is the only statute governing man. In opposition to the testimony of the senses and in accordance with the teaching of the Scriptures, she held to the fact that infinite good is the only power, that eternal Mind is all that knows, and that He knows only perfection; that the Truth which is God is the only action and that man, God's idea, is the perpetual manifestation of His continuous activity, and she knew this truth about man was the truth about her patient.

From the moment the child was placed under treatment he began to improve. Little by little he was able to move his arms and legs; finally he could lift his head from the pocket where it had rested, and in time he was fully healed. When he began to go to school he evinced outstanding intelligence and was soon recognized as a leader in his classes. He continued to be the foremost student of the school and at graduation received the highest honors.

What is equally interesting is the fact that he excelled in athletics; he was the fastest runner among boys of his age, and was an outstanding tennis player.

This is one of the many cases which prove that the omnipotence of God is as available today to heal congenital diseases as it was in the day when Jesus healed the man born blind. And then, my friends, there is another important point which this case of healing strikingly illustrates. It shows the powerful influence that mental environment exercises upon the health and intelligence of children. It illustrates what a close connection the thought of parents bears to the well-being of their children, what blessings they can bring to them.

FALLACIES EXPOSED

Truth does not include the occult. The false sense of Mind uses a suppositious method of thought transference. Only the unenlightened have confidence in this. Sometimes we—any of us or all of us—find ourselves where Paul was: we yearn to abide by our standards but go straightway and do the opposite thing: "For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do." Just at this point we put our finger on animal magnetism. How so? Mortal mind has a modus called suggestion, hypnotism, or thought transference. Because mortal mind is a finity it has limits. The only way to get its thoughts out is to propect them into another brain, or false belief of mind. That is its only way of transmitting itself. This method would be impossible to omnipresent divine Mind. Its activities proceed by Principle, divine law, not by human will. It is already omnipresent, because it is infinite. Then it has no need to project, suggest, or transfer. Because all intelligence is already everywhere there is no occasion for suggestion.

All occult systems, processes of the carnal mind, come from a nonsensical fallacy about infinitude; a belief that there is an infinite Mind and then other minds are added. This false belief may declare that God is All, but there is something more; God has all power, but there is a different power, animal magnetism or hypnotism. People in ignorance of the one Mind, which is the originating Principle of thought, may be tripped up by occult fallacies, just as ignorance in any direction will trip a man up. Take an example of electric lights: if we know nothing about electricity, we cannot utilize it; if we step on a live wire, it will destroy us. But if we put in a connecting switch, it will serve us, provide us light, heat, transportation. You have to be familiar with the wiring. If you don't get your transmission wire in you get none of the power, no light, no heat, and your car doesn't move. How do we get connection with Principle? By fulfilling its laws; by thinking as God would have us think.

Every right idea, every right word, every right act, every expression of love, every beautiful experience of humility, charity, gentleness, purity, peace; every obedient act to the Golden Rule, to the Sermon on the Mount, to the Ten Commandments, unites our thought with divine Principle, God. Why? Because these ideas all reflect, express, divine law. The scientific source from which we receive true thoughts, the only origin of our thinking, of our ideas, is Principle, whereas mortal mind has in belief a method by which it projects or transfers its suppositions or fallacies to another. The divine Mind, the only Mind, puts forth ideas in obedience to law and order. The activity of ideas is God's functioning, for true ideas are the expression of divine Mind; they reflect Him by scientific process and law in the divine order of unfoldment. For example, by poor comparison, figs come from the fig tree by the law of its own nature; as a fig tree could not transfer its figs to an olive tree, no more can thoughts be transferred. There is only one Mind to put forth all ideas. This one Mind is everywhere, and there is no other mind to which or from which to transfer thoughts. The Christian Scientist knows that good is the only power, and that the truth he declares cannot be reversed.

DISCOVERER AND FOUNDER

Mrs. Eddy exemplified the healing truth which she taught. It is a joy to testify to this fact from many years of intimate acquaintance with her. My first meeting with Mrs. Eddy occurred the day after I had become a member of The Mother Church. It was on the Fourth of July, 1897, when members of the church who had just attended the Annual Meeting in Boston were guests at her home, Pleasant View, in Concord, New Hampshire. The mayor of Concord, who was present with other distinguished citizens, welcomed the visitors. Among all the concourse, the one unmoved by the applause, by all the stirring events, was Mrs. Eddy herself. There was no sign of exaltation, but rather of selfless joy. She listened attentively to each one of the many speakers, and not infrequently, when words of sincerity and gratitude were voiced, tears glistened in her eyes. Mrs. Eddy spoke in a voice so clear and strong that all in the vast assembly could hear her distinctly. (The memorable address which she gave on this occasion is recorded in her book, "Miscellaneous Writings," pp. 251-253.) I knew then that Mrs. Eddy is God's messenger to this age.

During the twelve years that followed, it was my privilege to see Mrs. Eddy almost daily; for nine years I lived in her home city and served her in various ways, part of the time as secretary, and during the last three years that she was with us I was a member of her household at Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts.

Mrs. Eddy was tireless in her industry; her capacity for work was prodigious. For example, at the time Mrs. Eddy was living at the college on Columbus Avenue, Boston, and engaged in all the labored details of purchasing and equipping her home on Commonwealth Avenue, she was founding The Christian Science Journal, changing editors frequently, and teaching crowded classes. Yet, with all these labors, she was able, in the mornings before teaching her class, to dictate that marvelous work, "Unity of Good."

When she was in her eighty-seventh year she established an international daily newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor, which is now recognized as one of the leading dailies of the world, and every day she read it thoroughly. Up to the time of her passing she had oversight of all the affairs of her vast movement. Every important step awaited her decision.

She was interested in all that concerned the public welfare. Her generous gifts for modern highway improvements inaugurated the good roads movement in New Hampshire. She was keenly interested in exploration and invention—in everything that meant victory over limitation. But in all these matters everything was secondary to the spiritual.

She radiated light and joy upon all about her. Grace and love and unfailing tenderness distinguished her no less than intelligence, strength, and profound penetration into the hidden causes that lie back of all untoward manifestations. Always she was the fearless Leader, obedient to the revelation that God had given her.

PEACE ON EARTH

In no one thing was Mrs. Eddy more remarkable than in her ability to rise above trials. An instance is her poem, "Signs of the Heart." It was written at Pleasant View, Concord, New Hampshire, in 1899, when persecutions were cruelly heavy. Injustice, malice, hatred, seemed in control. A lawsuit outrageously unjust was brought against her by an unscrupulous student who had been richly benefited by Mrs. Eddy's kindness. She describes her experience in her book, "The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany" (p. 131): "The signet of the great heart, given to me in a little symbol, seals the covenant of everlasting love." The symbol referred to was a simple rubber band falling from her packet of mail in the form of a heart. She turned her thought from this symbol to the great heart of divine Love, and the poem, "Signs of the Heart," was born. Listen to just one characteristic stanza (Poems, p. 24):

"Come to me, peace on earth!
From out life's billowy sea,—
A wave of welcome birth,—
The Life that lives in Thee!
O Love divine,
This heart of Thine
Is all I need to comfort mine."

During Mrs. Eddy's long residence in Concord many of her fellow citizens were healed and transformed through their contacts with her. The following is one of many cases that came under my close observation. A citizen of Concord, who was not interested in Christian Science, was suffering from what materia medica diagnosed as the last stages of pulmonary consumption. Her neighbors were expecting her decease and were looking each morning to see crepe on the door. Propped up in an invalid chair, she observed from her window a carriage in which was a beautiful woman, whose face made a profound impression on her. She learned from her neighbors that the woman was Mrs. Eddy. A few days later, while she was watching at the window, the carriage passed again. Mrs. Eddy saw the invalid and greeted her with a smile. From that moment a new day dawned for her. She was so uplifted that she dressed herself and paid a visit to the Christian Science Reading Room. There she learned something of Mrs. Eddy's teachings. She saw that sickness is not a curse sent by God, but a false belief, which Christ, Truth, destroys. In the evening, when her husband came home, he was surprised to find her preparing a substantial meal for him. She began to study faithfully the Bible and Science and Health, and to attend the church services. She continued to gain and was soon in good health. Always she gave full credit to Mrs. Eddy for her recovery and joyfully expressed her gratitude on every fitting occasion.

CONCLUSION

I leave with you a message which Mrs. Eddy once wrote to her followers, and which you will find on page 14 of "The People's Idea of God"; "O Christian Scientists, thou of the church of the new-born; awake to a higher and holier love for God and man; put on the whole armor of Truth; rejoice in hope; be patient in tribulation,—that ye may go to the bed of anguish, and look upon this dream of life in matter, girt with a higher sense of omnipotence; and behold once again the power of divine Life and Love to heal and reinstate man in God's own image and likeness, having 'one Lord, one faith, one baptism.'"

THRILL FILM AT EMPRESS

"The Thin Man," which opens Monday at the Empress theatre, has been acclaimed by previewers as one of the most unusual mystery thrillers that have yet come from Hollywood.

Myrna Loy

The story was written by Dashiell Hammett, the undisputed master of detective-story fiction in America. It tells the tale of Nick Charles, ex-detective, and of three baffling murders that involved him willy - nilly with the Wynant family.

William Powell, famous for his detective portrayals on the screen, plays the role of Nick Charles, an entirely different type of character than he has played before. In earlier detective thrillers the detective usually was on the outside of the plot. In "The Thin Man," the story is woven around Nick Charles.

Co-starred with Powell is Myrna Loy, rapidly proving herself one of the most popular of the screen's feminine personalities. The current picture marks her second appearance with Powell, the two having recently scored with Clark Gable in "Manhattan Melodrama."

An old Roman aqueduct, built over the River Gard, France, 2,000 years ago, is in such good condition that it is now being used as a bridge for a main highway handling automibile traffic.

FAMOUS NOVEL FILMS RIALTO

Seldom has a local picture been awaited with such local interest as that of "A Girl of the Limberlost," which is playing at the Rialto today and Monday.

The reason for the enthusiasm is great popularity of Gene Stratton Porter's novel and the fact that the coming screenplay is adapted from one of the best sellers. More than 1,750,000 copies of novel have been sold since it was first published in 1910, and read by more than 12,000,000,000 persons.

Marian Marsh

Another reason which forecasts a successful run for the picture is the excellent cast assembled. Playing the dramatic role of the mother is Louise Dresser, one of the screen's leading portrayers of mother roles, who will be remembered for her sterling performances in "The Goose Woman," and "Mother Knows Best." Marian Marsh has the lead role.

Short features are Mickey McGuire in "Mickey's Tent Show," Krazy Kat cartoon and a novelty reel, completing the regular show. Buck Jones in episode 11 "Gordon of Ghost City" is showing at the matinees only.

Francis Lederer has 30 volumes on the world's various superstitions and follows all of them he can remember.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By DAN THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 13—One of the most interesting persons to be found in the entire celluloid hamlet is a 68-year-old woman, Mrs. Lucia "Mother" Coulter, who has charge of preparing all of the "character" costumes at the huge Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio.

Few persons outside the M-G-M know "Mother" Coulter. But she knows more about the actresses there than any other individual. Because of her sympathetic nature and the fact that she never talks, they pour out their troubles to her. And she has a way of always making them feel better.

Forty-two years ago Mrs. Coulter's husband died, leaving her with four babies who cried for food and clothing. She knew nothing about earning a living. Fortunately, she had a lovely singing voice and a comedienne's face. The combination won her a place with the Olympia Opera Company. Her adeptness for sewing, however, drew her more and more into costume creation, so that after eight years on the stage she gave up acting altogether.

For the last 15 years "Mother" Coulter has had charge of making all of the "character" clothes at M-G-M. During that time 1,750,000 yards of fabric have been turned into costumes under her direction.

Smart, fashionable gowns don't interest her at all. Her genius is directed toward old and worn garments.

With her own hands she made every film costume worn by the late Marie Dressler. The character clothes which have been worn by May Robson, Garbo, Joan Crawford, Marion Davies and Norma Shearer have been fashioned under her guidance. She has spent eight weeks making one costume—and has turned out 12 overnight.

TRUE TO FACT

One of the most interesting sets I have seen during my years in Hollywood is the one constructed for "East River," a story of the building of a tunnel beneath that stream in New York. The set is an exact replica of the interior of a tunnel during its construction period, having all of the gadgets necessary for controlling the terrific air pressure used for keeping back the water of the river.

Near the mouth, the tunnel is divided into three sections, one through which the dirt is hauled out on small cars, another through which the laborers enter and leave, and a third emergency section in case of a mishap. This picture, which will be accurate in every detail, promises to be one of the most exciting made in a long time.

LAVISH REVUE SCREENING AT CAPITOL TODAY

"Chu Chin Chow," magnificent, spectacular British production, for which Edmonton talking picture patrons have long been waiting with keen anticipation, comes to the Capitol theatre today.

Hundreds of Edmonton returned men saw the light opera which caused such a sensation in London during its revival during the war years and returned to witness it again and again.

"Chu Chin Chow" is said to be a faithful reproduction of the light opera but the screen production has been speeded up and adapted so that the piece, besides reviving some of the most popular music of the decade, has the necessary continuity of plot and swiftness of action to make it an outstandingly successful movie.

And what a galaxy of names the cast of this remarkable production includes! Heading the list is George Robey, British comedian, who has been delighting British audiences for more than 25 years and who was given an enthusiastic reception when he came to Edmonton some years ago. He appears for the first time on the screen as "Ali Baba."

Songs from the opera known the world over are heard. There is a bevy of eastern dancing girls and terrifying robbers who support with excellent choruses.

Dark Eyes At Capitol

Anna May Wong as Zaharat the slave dancer, and Pearl Argyle as the beautiful slave, are featured in a cast headed by George Robey as Ali Baba in the greatest of musical comedy sensations, "Chu Chin Show," opening now at the Capitol theatre. Spectacular dance routines and lavish settings feature this newest of British productions.

STRAND HAS VARIED BILL

Al. Webber's Merrymakers in a three-per-day revue and Lee Tracy's newest starring opus, "The Lemon Drop Kid," screen version of Damon Runyon's recent magazine story are the leading features on the Strand theatre's bill opening today and continuing Monday and Tuesday.

Lee Tracy

With Helen Mack and Baby Leroy in the supporting roles, filmland's most flippant star takes the part of one of Runyon's Broadway gambler characters, the locale being set at Chicago's Arlington Park and New York's Belmont track.

The Lemon Drop Kid, Lee Tracy, picks a winner for an affluent gent and then runs away thinking he has given his patron a wrong steer. The horse picked by Tout Tracy wins and the Kid's client expends a fortune in tracing him to reward him for his unfailing choice of horseflesh.

Helen Mack

In the meantime Tracy gets mixed up in a grocery store hold-up and things are generally breaking tough with him when the benefactor arrives on the scene and the picture winds up with a punchy finish.

Chess

There is a famous trap, commonly known as the "Blackburne trap," after the English master who brought it off most frequently; but it is much older than Blackburne. It was invented about 1702 by M. de Kemur, Sire de Legal (not in Alberta!). There are several varieties of it, the fundamental element being the pinning of the King's Knight by the opposing Queen's Bishop, and the move of the Knight to K 5, allowing the capture of the Queen. The original was, perhaps, something like this:

PHILIDOR

	White M. le Sire de Legal	Black M. le Marquis de Carabas
1.	P - K 4	P - K 4
2.	N - KB 3	P - Q 3
3.	N - QB 3	N - QB 3
4.	B - B 4	B - KN 5?
5.	P - Q 4	P - KR 3??
6.	P X P	N X P
7.	N X N	B X Q
8.	B X P ch.	K - K 2
9.	N - Q 5 mate.

This trap in various forms has claimed numberless victims, and even a master can fall into it, as is shown in the following game, where Tarrasch played White and Tchigorin Black:

1, P-K4, P-K4; 2, N-KB3, N-QB3; 3, B-N5, P-QR3; 4, B-R4, N-KB3; 5, N-QB3, B-QN5; 6, N-Q5, B-R4; 7, O-O, P-QN4; 8, B-N3, P-Q3; 9, P-Q3, B-KN5; 10, P-QB3, N-K2??; 11, NxKP! Tchigorin, of course, did not take the Queen; but he lost a valuable Pawn without any compensating advantage, and between good players that is enough to decide the game.

Chess players who would like to become members of the Edmonton Chess Club may do so by coming to the Parliament Building on Wednesday nights or Saturday afternoons, or by communicating with the secretary at 10074 122 street.

Drama Of East At Dreamland

There is no more romantic place in the world than the Far East. Clash of two philosophies as far apart as the poles, that of the white race and the natives, has stirred the imagination of writers since time immemorial.

The most colorful spot in the Far East is Burma. The Burmese, a race apart from the Hindus with whom they are generally classed by the uninformed, are a proud, cultured, upright, intelligent people, far superior to the languid, procrastinating natives usually found in the tropics.

Burma supplies the colorful setting for "Mandalay," the First National production, featuring Kay Francis with Ricardo Cortez, Warner Oland and Lyle Talbot, which comes to the Dreamland theatre on Monday.

Bright Spots On The Ether

The public events department of CBS, of which KSL is the nearest outlet, has applied for permission to the powers that be for the placing of its microphones in the court room, when Bruno Richard Hauptman goes on trial in the Lindbergh case. Stout opposition is being given Columbia and it is more than likely that radio will have to stick to airing dance bands and other features packing less public entertainment.

Helen Morton, of "Only a Rose" fame from Regina, and her running mate of last year, Jack "Moonlight on the River" Dale, have been transferred to Toronto, where they are featured in some of the CRC's leading productions. Starred with them in "Gaiety and Romance" is Leon Zuckert, the dynamic young Argentine maestro who conducted the Commission's "Saville Fair" out of Winnipeg last season.

Grace Hayes, the radio songbird who bowed "Two Cigarettes in the Dark" onto the air lanes before it became such a hit is sharing honors with James Melton as guest artists in a new weekly program from CBS to KSL, 7.30 to 8.00 p.m., Tuesday's featuring Isham Jones' orchestra and a 12-voice chorus. Jones, one of the four millionaire maestros, will build his next hour around the score of dance hits he has written from the time of the once-popular "I'll See You in My Dreams," to the current "Moon-glow." Miss Hayes, who, during the past year has introduced 11 outstanding hits to radio, will present a chorus from each one.

Building up their sustaining hours with features from the networks, KSL and KOA bring back a half dozen favorite orchestras to western listeners, beginning the week of Sunday, October 21. Red Nicholls and His Pennies will be KSL aired at 10.00 p.m., Thursdays, Jacques Renard's orchestra at 10.15 Wednesdays, Henry Busse's organization at 9.30 p.m. Tuesdays and Dan Russo's Orioles at 7.30 Sundays. KOA offers Anson Weeks at 10.30 Mondays and George Olsen's College Inn Frolics at 10.15 Thursday, in addition to the regular dance band hours.

West Indian Setting Becomes Indistinct As Days Unfold

By LOTTA C. DEMPSEY

Perhaps, after all, the greatest joy of holiday time lies in those hours when the setting fades to a pleasantly hazy and indistinct backdrop against which existence unfolds in perfect peace and contentment. So, I cannot tell you whether it was at Grenada or St. Vincent that mountainous islands bordered with flaming trees marked the West Indian path of the good ship Lady Hawkins into port, or if it was in Dominica or Antigua I lay, full length, on a stretch of palely golden sand and, drenched in tropical sunshine, ate my first mango fruit. I do not know how many miles we travelled up to the cloud-pillowed summit of Montserrat to discover a forgotten Paradise, or where it was that the sunset poured, one charmed evening, pure gold and turquoise, into the crystal bowl of a snug little harbor. I only know that I was, praise a bountiful Providence, somewhere in an enchanted sea which twined its midsummer magic tenderly around the blessed Windward and Leeward Islands. I only remember that soft-voiced, langourous negroes wove their leisurely way back and forth through streets lined with tinted shuttered buildings, and called their wares of strange fruits and brilliant blossoms and colored baskets to the passersby, and that they bade me a good-natured good morrow, whether or not I made a purchase.

You would find me wanting in information about the important military outposts of Empire stationed in the Islands, and my knowledge of the date, even, upon which Columbus unfurled the flag of his patron, Queen Isabella, upon some thickly jungled hill-top, alive with monkey chatter and the flutter of strange bird wings, is very hazy. I could only assure you that those lazy days during which the Lady Hawkins made her way through island inlets, scattering flying fish with her white bow and hailing passing ships from many lands, drifted pleasantly into one another; and that no day left a fragment of care to be carried into the night of black and silver.

If you feel with the poet that "Beauty is its own excuse for being" and philosophize on your own account that perhaps it is ours, as well, then you do not need historical data and geographic information to make a journey to the West Indies a profitable experience. You will come back, I think, alive to the cry of Newberry Choice, "Let me love bright things before my life is over." For there will be a woven patteran of tumbled scarlet and purple and gold, rich blues and splendid greens and melting yellows to follow you through whatever life in the routine of a work-a-day world brings afterwards. For music, you will remember the muted swish, swish of waves against a ship at night, and the yearning plaint of West Indian stringed instruments, in the hands of natives. You will feel again the bronzing heat of the tropical sun and the strange moisture of warm rain that falls quietly from nowhere and is done. Sea and wind and song will somehow melt together in your memory as a charm against the hardness of a northern world.

* * *

Perhaps a green banana would not represent a lost illusion to you. Prepared I was, indeed, to find the heavy clusters of fruit growing crazily upside-down on their great-leafed bamboo-like stalks.

But I had dreamed of bunches, luscious and yellow, weighing down the branches. Yet I learned that, sad sacrifice of color to commerce, bananas always leave their native plantations green for shipping. Who could forget, though, the long procession of the banana-bearers at St. Lucia, strong, shapely negresses, marching silently from the great storage sheds to the ship's loading port, great clusters of fruit perfectly balanced on their bandana-covered heads? Or, in Montserrat, the line of heavy boats anchored at dawn close by the Lady Hawkins, their cargoes of green fruit piled high for loading, and white-toothed negroes sprawled at length in the sun, awaiting orders. The sea was so blue, the negroes were so black and the bananas so green, it was a brilliant picture, under the gypsy-like patched sails of the boats.

A NEW SENSE OF TRADE

Lists of exports and imports in geography books always appealed to me about as forcefully as the mysterious and confusing behavior of Algebraic symbols. They had no life and blood to them. Ah, but this was different. In the swinging rhythm that only seamen know, sailors unloaded great sacks of flour and barrels of nails and wooden boxes from Canada. I saw in them the wheat fields and forests, and the uncut rocks of our mountains. Off they went, to build houses and hold fruits and make strange, flat cakes for the people of the tropics. Natives crowded around the wharves and watched the Canadian goods unloaded. What did they know of early frosts and summer droughts, devastating forest fires and mountain rock slides? Yet, through the banana and sugar and cocoanut plantations from which their own products came, they had seen the sweeping fury of the hurricane, and felt the hysterical suspense of the earthquake.

They watched for tarantulas and scorpions when they gathered native fruits. Here, in our exchange of products side by side, we knew a common struggle with and triumph over nature as we divided her bounty. There is a long prelude to this emptying and filling of a ship's hold, with treasures of north and south.

If there had been adventure in watching the loading of cargo, here on the ship, how exciting was the discovery of fields of strange fruits and spices which had always seemed to belong so definitely in the world of tins and jars on a grocery shop shelf. Jack's beanstock produced nothing more miraculous than these simply-growing trees, with their bounty of cocoa and coffee beans, bread fruit and cocoanuts, pineapples and mangoes, oranges, grapefruit, guava and avacado pears. All of these, along with such a strange and Alice-in-Wonderland mixture as live turtles, tortoise shells, molasses, oranges, Easter lilies, carrots, goats and fine race horses complete with trainers, made up the cargo of the Lady Hawkins.

Every stop in the little islands was punctuated with the arrival of interesting personalities. Here is a judge who sits in West Indian courts where peculiar cases that are a part of the southern scene are heard. There is an important planter, coming out of his beautiful isolated jungle home to spend some time in the world outside. Now we have native women on board, selling bright baskets and colored beads, bracelets and embroidery, star fish and bouquets of tropical blossoms. You might take a leaf of this love plant and pin it on a curtain somewhere. If it grows, your love is faithful. (Nature has given the power of life and growth to a single leaf. Perhaps you would like to twine around your arm a strand of the beautiful translucent yellow dodder, an insidious vine which kills every plant on which it grows.

THE CALL OF THE ISLAND

Who can resist the call of the island, as we are anchored in some strange port, and sailors stand at attention above the steep steps swung down the ship's side to the water? Native boatmen are clustering thick around, shouting the virtues of their craft and their skill as oarsmen. Perhaps you had intended to stay aboard this one day. I warn you, you will find yourself suddenly caught up in the mingled crowds of a narrow West Indian street, reluctant to walk too quickly past strange bazaars and open markets, loath to leave little black boys who, ragged and dirty, run up to ask in the most charming English if you would care to have a guide.

Then you will wait for the thrill of returning, late at night, to a fairy ship, all aglow in the darkness of this Carribean harbor, while courteous new-found friends wave you off from the wharf.

I shall remember that the jelly fish stung a little at Antigua beach, and that the almond trees and the cocoanut palms framed the golden crescent of the beaten sand at St. Vincent. Vigie beach at St. Lucia, with its buoyant warm water and clear sand stretching out to sea, will always be a reality in the world of the past. Famous forts, hot springs, historic battle grounds and horticultural experimental stations there might be in the Windward and Leeward Islands. But to me they will always mean long hours in warm blue waters that role ashore to shut out an almost forgotten world.

IN THE PATH OF THE HURRICANE

In Montserrat, surrounded by tall waving travellers' palms and flowering shrubs, a little cement disk stands alone on a rise of ground in Government House gardens. I point it out to Mr. J. E. Llewellyn Wall, graduate of McGill University and charming C. N. R. steamship representative and business man. "It is all that remains of a little summer house," he says simply. "The last hurricane, you know."

There is a long drive through fertile hills up to beautiful Paradise, the estate of a well-known planter who sits on his mountain top verandah for all the world like a bearded patriarch of the Old Testament. Feminine members of his family gather fragrant blossoms from an English garden that flowers miraculously in the heart of a tropical jungle. Coming down, we pass a race track and observe that a keen competition between colored boys on donkeys and others on bicycles causes a stir of excitement, but no comment. It is here we stop to search for the long, rattling pods of the scarlet flamboyante tree, which are used in dancing the rhumba, to take away as souvenirs.

How can I forget Dominica, where the natives speak with a French patois, although it is so short a distance from Montserrat with its lilt of Irish brogue to the speech of the blacks? Here 364 rivers run through the winding hills and mountains of an island 304 square miles in size. In the botanical gardens are trees of such size and strangeness that I am indeed in a forest from the Land of the Looking Glass. "Canon balls" fall to the ground and explode from the canon ball tree. The banyan tree spreads its branches to the ground and they in turn take root wherever they touch. I visit the white man's club, and watch colored servants carry cool drinks to the court, and four grinning little black boys streak like lightning after every errant ball.

Thoughts of St. Lucia will bring me back a picture of native women shouting their wares as the ship draws into the port and coaling station. I shall remember the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of freedom for the slaves in the market square, and native women in their wide, gaily-colored cotton skirts and tight bodices, with the peculiarly knotted bandanas, a holiday attire. How often I will see again a colored man standing in an open street, his arms filled with parcels, being shaved by a nonchalant barber, in the midst of a traffic of ambling little burros with long-legged riders, easily-moving bicycles and rolling carts, with an occasional smartly chauffeured car commanding attention and precedence.

AN ENGLISH INN ON THE HILLTOP

There will come again to mind many times the long drive up the winding hill to a beautiful little English inn, the Hotel St. Antoine, where cool breezes forever play, and an open verandah commands a panoramic view of ships and seas and island settlements, under a flower-laden garden. Then I shall see and smell again tumbled yellow bells and creamy frangipani, crimson bougainvillia, purple almanda, pink Napoleon's cocked hat. I shall remember little tables laid with checkered cloths in the freshness of the morning, and centred with earthen bowls piled high with tropical fruits of strange colors and odors; and a shining, black-faced maid in immaculate English uniform serving breakfast at a table overlooking the sea and hills.

Finally, as the ship pulls slowly out of port, I shall see again the Salvation Army with its gallant, enthusiastic colored band of women in blue-collared white middies, and remember the fervor of their songs. They reach a crescendo of enthusiasm when a tall, solemn Englishman arrives to direct them, and the music again takes on the subdued tones of the Empire church. But for a frenzied moment the atmosphere was charged with all the passionate love of song that warms colored blood the world over.

Finally, I sail away from these magic little islands, on to the bigger ports of Trinidad and Barbadoes, knowing that at long last I shall reach British Guiana, South America. Out into the blue waters of the ocean, native boys, black and shining and all but naked, follow in their funny little half-boats, paddling at top speed with tiny wooden oars. For a penny they will dive, beside the ship, and for a shilling go right underneath and come up on the other side. Not far out I know the sea is infested with sharks, for I have seen their ugly bodies glide easily through the water close to the ship. Yet these children of sun and sea know the water better than I do the land, and they have no fear.

Can there be greater treasure yet, in the days that are to come, as we ply farther south? It does not seem possible. Yet adventure still beckons beyond tomorrow's sunrise, and on the other side of the bridge of stars that spans the tropic night.

Coming From East

When Dame Janet Campbell, D.B.E., M.D., M.S., (London), distinguished English woman surgeon and health authority, arrives in Edmonton at the end of Oct., she will be accompanied by Miss Eunice Dyke, R.N., of the Child and Family Welfare Division, Ottawa, shown above. Dame Campbell will give addresses in Edmonton in the course of a Dominion-wide tour under the auspices of the Division, and will be guest of press women of the city at luncheon in the Corona Hotel on Monday, October 29. She will be entertained by Dr. Mildred Newell on Tuesday evening, October 30, and has many other engagements during her short stay here.

Miss Dyke will also speak during her visit to Edmonton.

Dinner Dance Is Gay Affair At Country Club

Annual Presentation of Prizes Held Friday Evening

Long tables lighted with the glow of ivory candles in tall silver sconces and gay mountain ash berries and autumn leaves made an effective picture as more than one hundred members of the Edmonton Golf and Country Club enjoyed the annual prize dinner and dance in the club house Friday evening.

Following dinner prizes were awarded for women's competitions by Colonel James Ramsey, and to the men winners by Mrs. J. Boyd McBride, chairman of the ladies' committee. Mr. H. M. E. Evans, chairman of the men's committee, acted as chairman. Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Ritzy Girls Hold Hallowe'en Dance

Hallowe'en spooks haunted the scene of the Ritzy Girls' club autumn frolic held in the Club Academy on Friday evening, and which was one of the gayest of autumn club parties. In the intermission Jack Allen was seen in several clever feature dances, and other informal attractions added to the evening's merriment.

Patrons were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fry, Professor and Mrs. Adamson, Mr. and Mrs. Graham and Mr. and Mrs. A. Livingston and the guests included Mrs. J. F. Howarth, Mrs. J. C. BARRIE PLAY OPENS LITTLE THEATRE SEASON

When Sir James M. Barrie wrote "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," the play which opened the Little Theatre season in the Masonic Temple on Friday evening, he chose to portray two women, not by means of what we would think of them, but through what they think of themselves. Thus the situation is that Alice Grey, a charming never-grow-up kind of mother, returns from several years spent in India with her husband, Col. Grey, and must become acquainted anew with her daughter, Amy, her son, Cosmo, and her small daughter, Molly. The situation between Alice and her over-romantic young daughter is worked out to reveal the heart of Amy, and the emotional reactions of the fun-loving Alice.

Amy, as a seventeen-year-old daughter of the nineties who has her head full of dreams and romanticly melodramatic ideas gathered from attending the theatre, applies false ideas to the conduct of her mother. Alice, yearning to understand this remote and coldly aloof young daughter of hers eventually senses Amy's theories about "life" and plays the game to the solution of the play, which ends happily with just the scent of a true romance for Miss Amy in the air.

IN THE TRUE BARRIE STYLE

It is a charmingly delicate piece, and being written by Sir James M. Barrie, of course, "whimsical." His long and intimately conversational stage instructions are clear enough to explain every move, and to the reader of the play make his characters the more endearing. By rote the characters were faithfully enough reproduced, but not, unfortunately, by imagination and the understanding that must give such a piece vitality.

The first scene, rather a stiff scene between three young people, lacked spontaniety and was little more than a recitation of parts. However, with the advent of "Alice," played by Connie Dickins the play began to live, and Sue Laycock, who played Richardson, the slavey, in a minor part did much to elevate the piece from the amateur.

Betty Myles, as Amy, young as the role demanded was thus appealing and charming in her part, and Cosmo as played by Richard Locke was natural enough. Nona Nichols played the part of Genevra, Amy's bosom friend.

Others in the cast were William Rea who played the part of Col. Robert Grey, Steven Rollo, played by Ellison East, the nurse, E. Byron-Johnson, and Fanny the maid, Isabel Stewart. Frank Holroyd was producer and director, T. Satchwell, stage manager, director's assistant, Stewart Carson, costumes, Audrey Dick, make-up, R. and I. MacDonald, properties, Margaret Dinning, lighting, Evans Moore, stage work, Franklyn Johnson.

During the intermissions the Ladies' Aeolian Trio, Miss Florence M. Shaw, Mrs. Phyllis McHaffie and Miss Margaret A. Ashley played several delightful musical selections. The play will be repeated in the Masonic temple on Saturday evening.

Old Timers Mark Golden Wedding At Innisfail

Spruce Coulee Farm, the Innisfail home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schaefer, was the scene of a very happy and interesting evening on Friday, October 5, the occasion being the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer.

Mrs. Schaefer, who before her marriage was Miss Sophia Kremer, became the bride of Jacob Schaefer in the Baptist church in Kitchener (then Berlin), Ontario, with the Rev. M. Felman officiating. They farmed in Woolwich township, Waterloo county, for a number of years, later moving to Elmwood, Ontario, and in the spring of 1894 to Innisfail, then in the Northwest Territories. They filed a homestead in the Horseshoe Lake district, on which they still reside.

The union was blessed with four daughters, Clara (Mrs. J. Price), Alice (Mrs. H. Fraub), Emma (Mrs. Ray Craddick), all of Edmonton, and Elizabeth (Mrs. R. E. Forsyth), of Atlanta, Georgia, and three sons, Clarence and Henry, since deceased, and William Charles, farming land adjoining his father's.

The family was all present for the celebration with the exception of Mrs. Forsyth, and there were nineteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren, little June and David Morris, of Edmonton, present.

Many lovely gifts were presented, and a number of old-time friends and neighbors held a surprise gathering Saturday evening in their honor. Old-time Edmonton and Innisfail friends expressed congratulations.

Among the tributes offered was the following verse by Mr. W. H. Browne of Edmonton:

After days and years together,
After calm and stormy weather,
Many days oft filled with pain,
You, together, "played the game".
Now, in later days of life,
Loving still, as man and and wife,
May God's blessing on you shine
Till the very end of time!

Fort Edmonton Chapter Holds Tea, Prize Draw

The Ford Edmonton Chapter of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, held their annual tea and prize draw Friday afternoon in the Hudson's Bay store dining room. Several hundred visitors were received in the course of the afternoon, a few playing bridge, with Mrs. James Jamieson, 11011 83 avenue, as prize winner.

At five o'clock Mrs. L. B. Yule, regent of the Municipal Chapter, drew the winning ticket on the Adam Hope Chest, which had been on display through the courtesy of the Hudson's Bay for two weeks in their 102 street window. The winner was Mr. W. C. Werry, 9452 98 street, a driver for the Edmonton City Dairy.

A unique copy of La Fontaine's Fables, illustrated with 57 originals by Fragonard and bound by Derome, brought $130,000 at a recent auction in Paris.

Social-Personal

All first editions of Edna St. Vincent Millay's new volume of poetry, "Wine From These Grapes," have been exhausted. There are four editions; a limited, autographed edition in two volumes, set by hand in Lutetia type specially imported from Holland; an edition printed on Japan vellum, bound in parchment with Ingres paper sides and stamped in gold; an edition printed on charta all-rag stock and bound in linen, with Ingres paper sides with printed labels, and, finally, a regular trade edition.

MAN WHO LOST 21 lbs.

Lost His Indigestion Too

AMUSING LETTER FROM HIS WIFE

The fat man is proverbially good-natured and easy-going. But here is a fat man accused of being difficult to live with. His wife writes to tell us about him. Just read what she has to say. Her letter is candid; it is amusing; it is worth publishing word for word as she wrote it. Here it is:—

"My husband a little over twelve months ago started taking Kruschen Salts for indigestion, heartburn, etc. Not only can he now eat anything (including my pastry), but he is now 189 lbs. only, instead of 210 lbs. What I consider more important than anything else, though, is the splendid effect Kruschen has had on his temper. He is now fit for a woman (not an angel) to live with. My husband is 60 next April, and I am 54 next June. I recommend Kruschen Salts wherever I go."—(Mrs.) E. D.

The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day the wastage and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely. Kruschen does not aim to reduce by rushing food through the body. Gently, but surely, it rids the system of all fat-forming food refuse, of all poisons and harmful acids which incidentally give rise to rheumatism, digestive disorders, and many other ills.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

School Ahead! Pictures, Too!

Excitement is part of the picture at any football game. It's easily worth the missing of one play to get an over-the-shoulder shot like this!

ABOUT this time of year, school is in everybody's mind; not only students and teachers, but parents, aunts, and uncles.

And if there ever was a snapshooters' paradise, it's school. It may be a one-room school or it may be a great university. Wherever, whatever it may be, it's crammed with unbeatable picture possibilities.

Yet we might as well face the silly fact of the matter—few snapshooters make the most of school's snapshooting opportunities.

Perhaps they are dazzled by the very wealth of the material at hand. More likely, they assume that somebody else is going to take the pictures. And that's a fatal mistake. For nobody else can see things as you see them. And it's what you see that means most to you—and to the folks at home, now or years from now.

The question, then, is how to make the most of school's picture possibilities. A little planning will do the trick.

First, about the right camera for school. Any camera will do, providing it is clean and in good order and uses a size of film that is easily available anywhere. If yours has a fast lens and a fast shutter, you'll have an advantage in taking shots at sporting events, but such a camera is not at all essential. With a little care you can make even the simplest box camera turn out entirely satisfactory pictures.

Then, how can snapshooting be planned? All of it, of course, cannot be planned, but many of the most important shots can be. Why not work out a scenario, Hollywood fashion?

First of all, whether school's just around the corner or a thousand miles away, you'll want a few good shots of home. Then a view or two taken on the way to school. Maybe those views seem commonplace now, but wait a few years.

At school, of course, there are the obvious shots of the buildings, the grounds, new classmates, teachers, old friends, sports, picnics, class ceremonies, and so on. It's a good idea to take them so as to form a kind of continued story. Then, when they are mounted in your album, the pictorial story will flow along evenly.

For example, if there's an exciting football game, try the trick of shooting blindly back over your shoulder into the crowd at an exciting moment. People won't notice the camera and the chances are that you'll get some amazing facial expressions!

And in less exciting moments it is still a good idea to avoid "posed" pictures as much as possible. People standing up in a stiff line, gazing intently at the camera, simply don't look comfortable, that's all. Catch them at leisure moments, as they perch on the school steps or linger on the lawn.

A really good collection of school pictures is hard to find, as any school year-book editor will tell you. Yet there's nothing much easier to take, and few snapshots increase in value, year after year, as surely as those taken at school.

Oatmeal Is Used For Cleansing Skin And Gladys Tells Just How

By GLADYS GLAD
"America's Most Famous Beauty"

"DEAR MISS GLAD: I once heard that oatmeal can be used as a substitute for soap in cleansing the skin. Is this really a fact? And if so, how does one employ the oatmeal?
ELSIE."

It is indeed true that oatmeal can be used as a substitute for soap in cleansing the skin. It is particularly beneficial for use on a dry skin as it contains a percentage of solvent oils that will leave a dry, rough skin soft, smooth and supple. The excellent qualities of the oatmeal cleanser can be greatly enhanced by the addition to it of almond meal. Make a small cheesecloth bag and place in it one cup of ordinary rolled oats. Then add to this half a cup of almond meal, and sew the bag shut. Thereafter, whenever you wish to cleanse your skin, simply moisten the bag with tepid water, and use it on your face as you would an ordinary washcloth.

* * *

"Dear Miss Glad: "I've been following the gaining weight course in that 'New Figure' booklet of yours, and have had excellent results. I'm finally beginning to get a bit of flesh on that flat-chested, angular figure of mine. However, mother suggests that I also take cod liver oil to supplement your course. Do you think that the cod liver oil would improve my health?
SKINNY."

I certainly do think that cod liver oil or one of its emulsions would help to improve your health and to increase your poundage, for it is very rich in vitamins. Cod liver oil really is a concentrated food substance, and is of great value in the diet. The consumption of this food substance increases the vitality of the body, improves the quality of the blood and builds up resistance to disease. The best time to take this oil is after your meals. And if you do not like the taste of the pure, unadulterated oil, you may take it in a bit of orange or lemon juice.

"Dear Miss Glad: I always do my best to keep my fingernails in good condition, as I greatly admire well-groomed nails. I do my own housework, however, and the tips of my nails always appear a dirty, grayish hue. How can I keep the tips of my nails clean and white?
CONSTANCE."

Before you begin your housework insert an edging of bland white soap beneath your nails, to prevent any grime from accumulating there. When your housework has been finished, remove the soap and run a bit of cotton moistened with peroxide or lemon juice beneath the nailtips. Use either of these nail bleaches often during the day. Then, before retiring at night, insert a quantity of cold cream beneath each nail. This will not only help to whiten the nailtips, but will counteract any drying effects that the soap and bleaches may have had. If you follow this entire procedure each day, the tips of your nails will remain the clear, white hue so essential to well-groomed fingertips.

GLADYS GLAD.

EDITOR'S NOTE: To obtain Miss Glad's pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" write, care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling.

High Cost Is Matrimony Enemy

A young woman wants to know why the modern man is so averse to matrimony, and why it is almost as hard to inveigle one to the altar as it is to drag him to the electric chair.

"In mother's time," she says, "virtually every man married and old bachelors and old maids were almost as scarce as hens' teeth. Now the woods are full of 'em, and it is the men's fault. We girls would like to marry, but nobody asks us to.

Dorothy Dix

"It isn't that we are less attractive than the women in the past were because, taking us by and large, we are healthier and hence better looking than they were, and we are better educated and more fitted to make interesting life companions. Nor is it that men have soured on the feminine sex. They crave the society of girls as much as their fathers did. Our doorsteps are crowded with the boy friends who sit and sit, but who never pop the question and who date us up for everything except a wedding. And we girls would like to know why this is thus?"

Now a man can marry a lot of gadgets instead of a woman and by merely pushing a button can be fed and valeted better and cheaper than any wife could do it and without any back talk about being over-worked and why on earth a man can never find a clean handkerchief if it happens to get to the bottom of the drawer instead of being on the top. Modern inventions are a woman's friend after marriage, but they are her hoodoo in getting a husband.

Still another thing that has put a blight upon marriage is the freedom of the sexes. In the good old days when the price of monopolizing a woman's society was a wedding ring, men paid it. Chaperonage promoted marriage and John married Susie to get rid of mother, so he and Susie could talk together without her listening in, and could go to parties without having to drag mother along. Women were mysterious, with all the glamour of the unknown about them, and men married them just to unriddle the riddle that roused their sporting blood.

Nor does working together, day after day, in business incline either a man's or a woman's thoughts toward marriage to each other, as a general thing. Propinquity may be the greatest matchmaker elsewhere, but not in offices. A man and woman see each other at too-close range and get too well acquainted with all of the other's little peculiarities. And undoubtedly this experience of what a wife would be like keeps many a man single.

All of which goes to explain the slump in the matrimonial market.

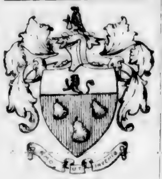
DEANERY MEET AT WETASKIWIN

WETASKIWIN, Oct. 12. — The regular quarterly deanery of Camrose meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the M. S. C. C. is being held here at the parish hall today under the direction of Rev. G. P. Gower, Rural Dean of Camrose, and of Mr. R. W. Manley, deanery president, and of Mr. H. P. Reid, diocesan P. J. president. Dominion secretary Mr. F. G. Hewson, Toronto, with Mr. C. C. Abbott, Dominion secretary of Juniors and Little Helpers, gave a report of the proceedings of the Dominion convention of the Women's Auxiliary work.

Who Are You?



Perrott

The coat of arms here shown indicates that this surname was taken from the pear or pear tree, but this is undoubtedly a mistaken assumption of the true source of the name and was applied by a later branch of the family. Perot, Perrott, Perrett, Perratt, Pear, Pears, Pearson, Peer, Piers, Pierson, Perkins and many other variations are all derived from the French personal name Pierre.

The Perot family of Pennsylvania and Maryland has been previously discussed in this column. This coat of arms was found on a seal affixed to a document in Middlesex County Courthouse in Virginia, under the signature of Richard Perrott.

Minute Make-Ups

By V. V.

When you remove mascara—and you should remove it before retiring—take a damp piece of cotton and with eyes open rub it gently upward on the upper lashes. Then rub the lower lashes downward. This keeps it from smearing over your eyes. Finish by oiling the lashes so that the drying effect of the mascara is counteracted.

Tomorrow—Liquid Powder

Your Children

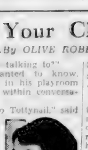
By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Whom are you talking to?"

Mrs. Smith wanted to know. There was Jackie in his playroom alone, not a soul within conversation distance.

"I was talking to Tottynail," said Jackie.

Mrs. Smith suddenly said, "Oh, Tottynail. That's nice. Well, you and Tottynail go ahead and have a good time."



O. R. Barton

This was the second or third time she had heard of "Tottynail." There was no Tottynail—of course. Jackie had just made him (or her) up. He played alone most of the time. There were few children in the neighborhood and none his age. Jackie was three, plus, that is to say, in his fourth year.

REALISM VS. FANCY

His mother herself was a realist and so was his father. She had piles of books that warned against dreaming and imagination and the "escapes" of people who couldn't face facts.

Now here was "Tottynail." She had heard of lonely children, and even ones who weren't so lonely, manufacturing dream children, but it never occurred to her that one would come to live in her very own house with her boy, of all beings. She had thought that was for girls, sensitive, sweet, cuddly little girls who liked to play with dolls.

Jackie was all boy. He loved trains and cars and airplanes and noise-makers. He roared when he cried and stamped when he was mad. A born realist, she had told herself, who was certainly of the earth earthy.

Where he had got the word Tottynail goodness only knew. Nothing had ever been said or read or breathed to suggest the name. It was sexless and so was Tottynail.

PLAYMATES IS SOLUTION

The problem was, however, what to do about it? His father would likely make fun of the dream child and that would kill him (or her) off forever. But would she allow it? It had to be decided now. She went on weighing the facts.

Jackie still was jabbering to Tottynail. He was very kind and polite and solicitous, unusually so. She decided that he loved the little friend because the friend was silent, admired Jackie, in fact was the ideal person the little fellow craved and needed.

She went to the bookcase and turned the key. A time and place for realism, but a time and place for imagination, too. Then she did a wise thing—went to the telephone and arranged for her friends to drive out once a week with their children. They decided to take turns having the party. And she decided that on Jackie's fourth birthday he would go to kindergarten.

DAILY TRUE STORY

"LOVE THY NEIGHBOR"

By Ramona Arlen

"There was a man and a woman—his wife I suppose—looking at the Crosby place this morning," Mrs. Amelia Osborne confided to Miss Persis Higgins.

"I hope someone will take it. It looks bad to see a run-down place alongside of your own. I'm real interested," Miss Higgins told her. The Crosby place was between their homes.

Mrs. Amelia Osborne, thirty, plump, and unblushingly lonesome, sighed heavily.

"I'd be more interested if it was some nice bachelor or widower took the place," she confessed.

"You love to try and say shocking things, Amelia," she said. "As long as nice decent and respectable folks move in I don't care two whits about their creed or state of matrimony or anything. I was over at my sister's this morning and missed seeing them. Were they nice looking people?"

"They looked all right. Nice enough car they had—Oh, there's Mr. Simpson, the real estate agent. Perhaps he would know," and the sprightly widow Osborne hurried toward him. "Did that man and his wife who were looking at the Crosby place this morning decide to rent it, Mr. Simpson?" she asked.

"No, Miss Higgins," Simpson said, "he didn't decide to rent it, he bought it! What's more, his check in full is at the bank waiting for the deed to be transferred."

"Good! Mrs. Osborne said they looked like real nice people. What are their names? Sometimes a name means a lot."

"I don't know the lady's name. She called him 'David.' The man's name is Mallory, not that it makes any difference to me if it's Wumpus, so long's his check's good."

"Do you mean—" Miss Higgins hesitated and blushed, "that is, wasn't the lady with him Mrs. Mallory?"

"There isn't any Mrs. Mallory, he's an old batch. I heard the lady tell him she hoped he would be comfortable there—"

Mrs. Osborne hurried home with her purchases and that afternoon she took down her curtains on the side of her house next to the Crosby place. She was going to wash and starch them and put them up again.

Workmen arrived next day, trimmed the lawn, set out some shrubs and other workmen made new walks and put up a low ornamental fence along each side of the property while a hedge was set out in front. Before the end of the week the roof was slated, the house painted and then furniture vans arrived.

Mr. David Mallory, the new owner, also arrived in a nice car and with him was the lady who called him "David." Miss Persis Higgins, being human, watched proceedings now and then from a cautious vantage behind curtains. Not so, Mrs. Amelia Osborne. She put on her fluffiest and pinkest afternoon dress, with a becoming shade hat and she sallied forth into her neglected little flower garden with a watering can, quite as though the care of a garden was the greatest delight of her life.

A good car arrived, driven by a colored man. A colored woman was with him. Before long Amelia could make out the colored woman, a white towel about her head, setting things to rights and later working in the kitchen. Mr. Mallory and the mysterious lady came out to the car that brought them. The Widow Osborne scowled with displeasure when she saw Mr. Mallory kiss the woman who called him "David," and help her in the car. He waved to her as she drove away. Right after this the colored man brought out a handsome spaniel on a leash and fastened him to a tree.

"Boy," Mrs. Osborne called, "isn't Mrs. Mallory going to come back?"

"That's Mr. Mallory's sister who just got married, she's going to live some place called Paris, France, lady."

"Oh!" said Mrs. Osborne, and she smiled again.

She took over an apple pie. Mr. Mallory thanked her.

As for Miss Higgins, she took

"There was a man and a woman looking at the Crosby place," Mrs. Osborne said.

over nothing at all, she did no differently than she always did—sprinkled her lawn and her flower beds in the cool of the evening and early the next morning she weeded her neat little vegetable garden out back of her house. She was on her knees, deftly loosening the ground around the first of the radish and bean shoots, quite unaware that the trim ankles and calves of her legs were visible, when a [illegible] voice said, "Madam, would you be kind enough to give a green-horn some advice about gardens?"

Persis Higgins gasped and got to her feet, her cheeks rosy red. She recognized Mr. Mallory. She listened as he explained that he had come to this pretty little town to live, and retire from active work, and that he had been born in a city and knew nothing at all about gardens.

Miss Persis was surprised to find herself explaining that it was too late to plant this, just right to plant the other things and too early for some of the later crops. She even wrote a list of seeds and plants to get.

"Could I get your husband to show me how to prepare the ground?" he asked.

"I don't see how, Mr. Mallory. I never had a husband and never intend to. The thing for you to do is to get —"

She named the man.

A week later the buxom, lonesome and hopeful Widow Osborne was terribly shocked to see Miss Higgins and Mr. Mallory in his garden, with Miss Higgins showing him how to plant.

The Widow Osborne ran over whenever she could to praise his lawn and shrubs and to say that she hoped his hired help was adequate.

"Because, after all, a lone man is so helpless and so likely to be imposed on."

Mr. Mallory assured her that the couple working for him was more than adequate and he had only to push a button in his home to summon either Mose or Mandy from their rooms over the garage.

Meanwhile Miss Higgins and Mr. Mallory worked in his and her garden, alternately, discussed plant germicides and soils and all such things.

And then, with all her windows open, the Widow Osborne began a siege. From her radio or her gramophone she produced one so-called popular song, "Love Thy Neighbor." And now and then she would sing it plaintively when Mr. Mallory was out in his garden.

She wore out three "Love Thy Neighbor" records that Summer and Fall and started on a fourth. After the garden stuff was all gone and the frosts had killed everything the Widow Osborne, who had ceased speaking to Miss Persis Higgins, discovered that Mr. Mallory was gone. The house was closed. Mrs. Osborne went straight to Deacon Simpson about it.

"Oh, they'll be back, Mrs. Osborne—and better luck next time—"

"They? Better luck? What do you mean b—"

"Mr. Mallory took your advice. He said to me you was always singing to him to love his neighbor and so he fell in love with Miss Higgins and they've gone on a wedding trip!"

The Widow Osborne went home and placed the fourth new "Love Thy Neighbor" record on the floor and jumped up and down on it until it was in countless small bits.

NOTED WORKER FOR CHILDREN COMING HERE

First Baptist Church will be Meeting Scene on Sunday

Those who are interested in the religious education of children, will welcome the opportunity of meeting a prominent children's leader in the person of Miss NeFannis Semmens of Toronto, who has for some time taken a prominent part in the religious welfare of our children

As secretary of the National Children's Work Board, and secretary of the National Vacation school committee, it has been our privilege this fall to have her include us, in her itinerary of the western provinces in the interest of children's work. Many will take advantage of this opportunity of meeting her for the purpose of securing leadership and help in this particular phase of Sunday school work. Arrangements have been made by the Children's Work Board (interdenominational) for a special meeting with Miss Semmens to discuss matters relating to the junior work, with special reference to the mid-week activities and organization of juniors, on Sunday afternoon, October 14 at 4 p.m. in First Baptist church.

On Monday evening, October 15 at 8 p.m. in First Baptist church a rally of all Sunday school superintendents and superintendents and teachers of cradle roll beginners, primary and junior departments of the Sunday school, when Miss Semmens will be the guest speaker.

THANKSGIVING IS CELEBRATED

The Thanksgiving Day service held by First Church of Christ, Scientist, on Monday was an inspiring occasion. The service, which was well attended, opened with the singing of Hymn No. 308, "Shepherd, Show Me How to Go," by Mary Baker Eddy. A scriptural selection from Colossians 2 and 3 was read by the First Reader, followed by silent prayer and the audible repetition of the Lord's Prayer with its spiritual interpretation from the Christian Science textbook, after which the congregation sang Hymn 342, "This Is the Day the Lord Hath Made; Be Glad, Give Thanks, Rejoice."

The subject of the lesson-sermon was "Thanksgiving," and the golden text was from II Corinthians 9: "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift." Responsive reading, read alternately by the First Reader and the congregation, was from Psalms 98 and 100. One of the scriptural passages contained in the lesson-sermon was from Luke 17: "And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God."

After the singing of the solo "Blessings," testimonies appropriate for the occasion were given by Christian Scientists who were present. Many expressions of gratitude for blessings received were given. One expressed gratitude for the comfort Christian Science had brought to him during the year. Another spoke of a greater assurance of the healing power of Christian Science that had been experienced. Gratitude was also expressed for the efficacy of Christian Science in the healing of physical disease. One testified to having gained a more practical understanding of this religion which has enabled him to prove its healing power and the ability to use it in his business. Another expressed gratitude for having gained a better understanding of God. The concluding hymn was 374, "We Thank Thee and We Bless Thee, O Father of Us All."

SPIRITUALISM TO BE DISCUSSED

One of the reasons why Spiritualism, has had such a phenomenal growth is the fact that it is demonstrative.

Its members and workers strive to perfect themselves, for they realize that it is not enough to talk of what one believes to be a truth but in an unbelieving world it is essential to do all that can be done to prove not only stated facts, but assumed theories as well.

The expressions of Spiritualistic phenomena are numerous and it is seldom that demonstrators overlap [illegible] ope is provided for those [illegible] the [illegible] of life after death.

On Friday, Rev. J. Gargett gave an outstanding demonstration of "Blind Folded Ballots" which is an unusual form of demonstration, and to many has been the means of providing them with undisputable evidence.

On Sunday night at 7:30 p.m., Mrs. E. C. Smith will once again give the address and the members of the City Temple of Spiritualism feel assured that they are in for a treat.

The Christian and His Bible

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 8:26-39

Philip, one of the early Christian church's seven deacons, was preaching to great crowds in Samaria when the Spirit of God sent him into the desert road leading to Gaza to teach an Ethiopian who was returning from Jerusalem reading the Scriptures.

The Ethiopian asked Philip into his chariot to explain the Bible to him. He was reading Isaiah's prophecy of the man of sorrows, but could not understand until Philip showed him its fulfillment in Jesus. Christ was the one "led as sheep to the slaughter," Philip taught.

Copyright, 1934 by Central Press Association, Inc.

The Ethiopian believed the scriptures and accepted Christ as his Saviour. To show his obedience to God's way of salvation he requested Philip to baptize him, which Philip did as they came to water.

This lesson teaches us how to study our Bible to find Christ in its every part as Philip did here. We should study it prayerfully and submissively as the Ethiopian did, seeking to learn God's will for us and doing its teachings.

(GOLDEN TEXT—Psalm 119 97)

MAJOR AND MINOR NOTES

Convocation Hall, U. of A., will be the scene of a pleasurable event on the evening of November 23 when the Hart House String Quartet will make a welcome re-appearance here. Since its inception this most estimable organization has appeared here periodically and always with conspicuous success. Wherever and whenever it has played its success has been complete and overwhelming.

Quite apart from their undeniable musicianship, the members of the Hart House Quartet are highly popular with many friends here. From the time Boris Hambourg, the cellist of the quartet first came through here as a soloist and for the first time the four came together, until the present they have been welcomed with open arms.

At a social function they are merry companions and they like nothing better than to enjoy a good story or joke. They like going for walks and many merry quips and jests are passed this way.

Two of the quartet at least visited Europe this year. Geza de Kresz, the first violin, spent the summer at Salzburg, where he taught violin at a summer master school. Mr Hambourg visited his brother, Mark, one of the greatest of pianists and together they visited Italy, Germany and other countries. In Italy, Mr. Hambourg had the pleasure of calling upon G. Francesco Malipiero and played one of his compositions from manuscript.

Members of the St. Joachim's Choral Society, whose literary and musical evening will be given in the Separate school hall on October 25 under the patronage of His Honor Lieut. Gov. W. L. Walsh and His Grace Archbishop H. J. O'Leary, are as follows:

Mesdames A. Hervieux, J. H. Tremblay, L. Belhumeur, G. Baril, L. Blais, A. Pepin-Brissette, S. Joncas, L. Normandeau, G. Pepin-Lambert, R. Bouchard and L Picard.

Members of the double quartet from St. Joseph church's choral under the leadership of Reverend Leo Green: Soprano, Mrs. J. Herbert Conroy and Mrs W. F. Kenealey; contralto, Mrs. Woodward and Miss Jean Doberty; tenors, Albert Knowler and Gordon Thumuth; bases, B. Cartmel and Mr Meikle.

Soloists, Mrs. J. H. Tremblay, Miss Berengere Mercier, Miss C. Barry, Mrs. Jacques Sylvester and Mr. Auguste Morin; violinist, Miss Muriel Kupenenko; accompanist, Mrs. T. B. Pepin-Olsen.

Interpreters of the one act play, "Bon Sang Ne Ment Pas" are, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Hervieux, Mrs. J. H. Tremblay and Miss Gabrielle Hervieux.

Among the many fine features of "One Night of Love" which has just finished a two-weeks run at the Rialto, were the scenes from "Carmen" and "Madam Butterfly," the former supposedly in Vienna and the latter at the Metropolitan. The "Met" reproduction of "Butterfly" was excellent—the highlight of the picture. The orchestral playing of the fugue with which the opera opens, with its stirring development, was splendid while in Butterfly's entrance song and the gem "One Fine Day," Grace Moore rose to her greatest heights.

Speaking of pictures, it is understood "Blossom Time" has been definitely booked for a date toward the end of the month at one of the local houses. With Richard Tauber the mighty—both physically and vocally—German tenor portraying the leading role of Schubert, the production should reach a new peak in its line. When Tauber sings favorite ballads in Vienna, the maidens shower the stage with flowers, while hard-boiled men become only ordinary mortals. Singing Schubert's immortal melodies, he should meet with the unqualified approval of Edmontonians.

W. J. Hendra is busy rehearsing both the Edmonton Male Chorus and the admirable women's chorus which he conducted in its initial concert last spring. He states that the latter chorus is preparing Brahms's Liebeslieder Waltzes" which are of unusual beauty and which when produced should meet with great favor.

Leek is the national symbol of Wales. The Welsh wear it in their hats on St. David's Day.

OPERA STARTS ARGUMENT IN OLD COUNTRY

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 13—Lovers of light opera on the American side of the Atlantic who are now being entertained by the D'Oyly Carte Company will have a special interest in hearing of the revival here of "Merrie England."

It is many years since this delightful work of Basil Hood and Edward German has been presented, except by amateur companies. At the same time the music appears as often in band programmes as that of any of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. The revival of "Merrie England" at the Prince's theatre is proving an unqualified success.

DREW WARM PRAISE

Sir Arthur Sullivan used to name Edward German as his only possible successor in composing in the Savoy tradition. Unfortunately Edward German never encountered a collaborator who could produce a "book" of the kind which made W S. Gilbert's librettos so memorable.

Sullivan worshippers are indignant when critics so eminent as Sir Landon Ronald are bold enough to declare that in orchestration, and even in fluency of melody, German has proved himself the superior of Sullivan. The present revival of "Merrie England" brings a renewal of the discussion upon the respective merits of these two masters of light opera.

DIFFICULT TASK

According to a writer in the Manchester Guardian "German has been compared with Sullivan—apparently for no better reason than that he was invited to undertake the impossible task of carrying on the inimitable Savoy manner. Sullivan's music was inspired by two or three main sources, the Chapel Royal, the ballad of his period, and his own incomparable Irish wit

"German is more operatic, despite his occasional overindulgence in his formula of the country dance; German's vocal melody is not as syllabic as Sullivan's: it takes a wider curve; the rhythm is not so square and the harmony is richer. He has not Sullivan's genius for parody; he sincerely emulates but never makes a burlesque of his models, for, of course, like any artist who is not crude, he at moments allows us to feel the influences that have given him his musical culture."

Scorpions are believed to be the first of the earth's creatures to live on dry land. They are now residents of desert areas.

CHURCHES ARE PLANNING TO AID CHILDREN

Series of Leadership Training Classes will be Held Soon

A golden opportunity lies ahead of beginners, primary and junior Sunday school teachers, and superintendents as well as any others interested in religious work among children. The Edmonton Children's Work Board (interdenominational) has completed plans for leadership training classes to be held in First Presbyterian Sunday school rooms beginning October 23, at 7:45 p.m. and continuing the following four Tuesday evenings.

The courses to be presented are "Materials and Methods for Beginners and Primaries," "Principles of Teaching," and "Worship and the Devotional Life of the Child"—the last mainly for superintendents or other leaders of the various phases of children's work.

The personale of the leadership is as follows: Miss G. Bird of the Metropolitan Sunday school; Mrs. Chester Gainer of Strathcona Baptist, and S. E. Wade of All Saints Anglican. These courses are selected from the Standard Leadership Curriculum of the Religious Education Council of Canada and attendance at such qualifies one to write for a leadership training credit.

Albert Luebke, of Milwaukee, is a puzzle fan and has earned a total of $5,000 in various contests. He has earned the title of Wisconsin's most consistent and successful contest fan.

What's What

I'm to be married at the end of October. Having four bridesmaids and a maid of honor, how many ushers are required? Is it necessary to rehearse the wedding before the actual ceremony? I've been told that is not right, as it makes it a marriage, after the clergyman says—"I pronounce you man and wife." Is that true? If there is a rehearsal, is there any entertainment afterward? (MISS) S. S

Answer—There should be four ushers to equal the number of bridesmaids in the processional and recessional. (The maid of honor walks alone) It is customary to hold a church rehearsal on the eve of a formal wedding. The bride does not take part, but sits with her mother where she can observe every detail. Another girl takes her place as the substitute bride. Since the clergyman never pronounces the actual words at a rehearsal, there is no legal complication. The bride's parents invite the participants to a supper afterward. At this entertainment (which, because of the eventful morrow, is not prolonged to a late hour) the bride-elect may present tokens to the maid of honor and bridesmaids just as the groom had given little gifts to his best man and ushers at his bachelor dinner a night or two before the wedding rehearsal.

When invited out to dinner and there are four or five forks at each place, which one should be used first? JIM.

Crackers Lend 'Selves To Variety Of Uses

By MARY E. DAGUE

I know women vain of their mixing prowess who refuse to serve crackers or other accessories with their salads because they feel that the perfect salad needs no accompaniment. For myself, I think they are wrong, and especially do I think so after a survey of this year's additions to the already thickly-populated biscuit and wafer field.

Sister Mary

Cheese crackers may be fixed for toasting before the meal is served. Then while the table is being cleared for the salad, slip the crackers into a very hot oven or under the broiling flame. It will take only one or two minutes for the cheese to melt. Work four tablespoons grated cheese and two tablespoons butter to a smooth paste and spread on small, unsweetened crackers. Sprinkle lightly with paprika and toast.

CHEESE IN OTHER GUISES

There are times when an even more elaborate salad accompaniment is wanted, and again cheese is to the fore. Cheese cups, cheese balls, cheese sticks and fingers or triangles of crisp toast are delectable morsels that can all be made in the home kitchen.

When cheese does form a main ingredient in the salad, tiny brown bread sandwiches, crisp toast and bread sticks are suitable if something more than plain or toasted crackers is wanted.

Delicious cheese biscuits are made of a baking powder biscuit dough to which grated cheese has been added. Use one-half cup grated cheese to two cups flour in the regular baking powder biscuit rule. Try these biscuits with a one-inch round cutter. Serve warm.

Cheese straws are especially inviting with a fruit or vegetable salad.

CHEESE STRAWS

One cup stale bread crumbs, ¼ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup grated cheese, flour.

Combine crumbs, milk, salt and cheese and mix thoroughly. Sift over flour to make a dough stiff enough to handle. Roll on a slightly floured molding board into a thin sheet. Cut in strips four inches long and ¼ inch wide. Bake fifteen minutes in a moderate oven.

Monday's Menu

LUNCHEON: Clear soup, toasted crackers, open cheese and olive sandwiches, quince brown Betty, milk, tea

Thieves Miss Loot In Perfect Crime

ST. BONIFACE, Man., Oct. 13.—A crime which cost St. Boniface 150,000 lives was still a mystery today. And Dr. L. B. Wilmot mourned the loss of the 150,000. The victims were bees—done to death by midnight prowlers with poisonous gas. But the criminals failed in their principal objective, to secure the honey in the cells.

They apparently planned to return the following night for the loot. But Dr. Wilmot discovered the dead bees and the hives were closely guarded all the next night.

BODY FOUND IN RIVER IDENTIFIED: WAITRESS IN CITY

Edmonton Bulletin
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER IN PUBLIC SERVICE

Police Complete Records; Violet Stoyko, 32 Years

John Antoniuk, Poolroom Operator, Identifies Girl After Pictures Sent Out to Other Cities in Dominion

With positive identification being made Friday afternoon, Detective-Sergeant Bert Petheram closed as a suicide the case of the young woman whose body was recovered Wednesday from the Saskatchewan river where it had lodged on a gravel bar, 100 yards off shore from the Ross flats.

The river victim was Violet Stoyko, 32, single, chambermaid and waitress in local rooming houses and cafes.

John Antoniuk of the Elite poolroom, 97 street, made the identification, first from a picture and finally from a direct examination of the body. He had known her several months ago when she was employed as a maid of all work in the Fairburn block, the ground floor of which is occupied by his poolroom.

PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN

The case hanging fire since the body was found Wednesday with no identification established, detectives were given photographs of the body and told to get busy. Other photos were circularized to western police forces.

In making his rounds Friday afternoon, Detective A. Wilchinski showed the picture of the dead girl to Antoniuk, who, while identifying her, could "not be sure." A trip to the Howard and McBride morgue cinched the case.

After leaving the Fairburn block, Violet Stoyko worked for James Lasky, operator of the Plaza Cafe, 97 street, as a waitress in his South Side property, the Toledo Cafe, on Whyte avenue. She held the job four days and for the past three months, as far as police have learned, she has held no other employment. At the time of her death she was living in a shack near the Royal Alexandra hospital.

MONEY WORRIES

While police have established no motive for her apparent suicide, they are inclined to believe that lack of finances may have had something to do with the tragedy. When the body was recovered it was only partially clad, the girl wearing no shoes and a blouse-like dress.

Medical men fixed the time of her plunge into the river at midnight Tuesday.

Friday's identification cuts in half the list of unknowns whose lives have ended in violence. The body of a man, bearing a gunshot wound in the head, recovered from the river 18 months ago, is still unidentified.

Titled Lady Involved In Big Scandal

LADY MILFORD-HAVEN

Sensational testimony by Maria Caillot, former Vanderbilt maid, concerning Lady Milford-Haven, above, titled Englishwoman, and Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt resulted in an order for private hearings by Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew in New York City. The public and press was barred from the courtroom where Mrs. Vanderbilt sought to regain custody of her 10-year-old daughter, Gloria, heiress, as witnesses alleged neglect of the child who now is in care of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, her aunt.

CASES STILL ON CRIMINAL DOCKET WAIT

11 From September List Set Over for November Court Sessions

The balance of the criminal cases which were scheduled to be heard in rotation after the end of the Maloney trial, were all set over until the November sessions of criminal court, following an application to this effect by E. B. Cogswell, K.C., to Mr. Justice Boyle on Friday evening.

A total of 11 cases remained to be heard, including charges of theft, forgery, false pretences and perjury, but there will not be time to conclude all these cases within the short time left before the opening of the November sessions, on the first Monday in November.

A number of other cases originally on the September docket were set over until November docket, so that the new session will be a heavy one with the overflow from the previous session alone, regardless of new cases coming up.

The present sittings have already lasted three weeks and will go on into next week.

According to estimates, France's birth rate is decreasing at the rate of 30,000 annually.

Gleaned From Today's News

Edmonton school trustees will hold a regular school board meeting on Tuesday, October 16, at 8 p.m., in the board's office in the Civic block.

Word was received Saturday morning by J. R. Sibbald, Boulanger apartments, of the death of his father, John Sibbald, at Grey Point, B.C.

Making a regular inspection trip C. H. Warby, superintendent of dining car service for the Canadian National Railway, arrived in Edmonton Saturday morning. He will leave for Winnipeg this evening.

Eighteen cases of communicable diseases were reported to the city health department this week as compared to 17 for last week, according to a report received Saturday from Dr. R. B. Jenkins, medical officer of health. Classification of the diseases follows, figures for this week and last week being given in that order: Scarlet fever 2, 2; chickenpox 9, 6; measles 3, 2, mumps 2, 2; whooping cough 1, 5, tuberculosis (pulmonary) 1, 0.

Seven new members were initiated into the All Saints' Flying Aces Tuxis Square at the last meeting, held at the home of Hamish MacGregor, bringing the total membership up to 17. The new members are Bert Foster, David Forster, Buster Harris, M. Carlson, Phil Dempsey, Wilfred Collier and Dan Tidsbury. Next meeting will be held at All Saints' Parish hall, Wednesday.

TWO ARE HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Two persons, a man and a child, sustained slight injuries in street accidents Friday afternoon, reports at city police traffic headquarters disclosed.

Raymond McConnell of Darwell, Alberta, reported that at 4:05 p.m. while driving near the intersection of 118 avenue and 94 street he had struck and knocked down a child who ran into the street. McConnell did not get the name or address of the accident victim, who suffered cuts and bruises.

Albrick Buysse of 10162 98 street, was struck, while crossing the intersection of 100 street and 104 avenue at 4:45 p.m. Friday, by truck license 4-134, the name or address of the driver of which he did not obtain, and when reporting the matter to police, Buysse complained of injuries which did not appear to be serious.

BUSH PARTRIDGE HUNTING SEASON CLOSES MONDAY

The native partridge — bush partridge, or ruffed grouse—shooting season closes Monday, after being open for two weeks, and disappointing bags were reported by hunters.

Prairie chicken, which are still open for another two weeks north of the Red Deer-Kerrobert-Coronation line, are also reported not so plentiful this year, and hunters were puzzled to account for the scarcity of these two species, for they were reported plentiful in all districts at the end of the shooting season last year.

The ruffed grouse may have been thinned by an epidemic which attacks them at recurring periods, in the same way as snow-shoe rabbits, but many hunters believe that the wet spring had an unfavorable effect on late hatches of both species.

Blue grouse, spruce partridge—of foolhens—and ptarmigan also go on the closed list, Monday.

NEW GAS RATE NOW IN FORCE

Application of Northwestern Utilities Limited for ratification of the gas company's new optional combination rate for commercial and industrial consumers was granted by the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners at a hearing, Saturday morning.

The city was represented by the commissioners and City Solicitor Thomas Garside. The application was granted without prejudice to the city, which reserves the right to make any future application it deems fit in this connection.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

That the old "not responsible" sign in restaurants doesn't mean a thing was the ruling of Judge W. A. Macdonald, of Calgary, in giving judgment of $21.50 against a restaurant in which a customer lost a coat which he had handed to a headwaiter.

Do you think a restaurant should be held responsible for lost coats or other articles? The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter asked today.

Below are the replies:

JACK LEWERS, board marker: "There is no responsibility when a customer hangs up his own coat on a hook. But if he gives it to an employe, the restaurant should assume responsibility for its safekeeping."

• • •

NIGHT MANAGER of a city restaurant: "A restaurant cannot be responsible for all coats and hats, as any person is liable to walk out with another man's hat. Besides, our position is clearly stated on the menu. If a man gives me his coat in my hand and I say I will look after it, then I am assuming responsibility."

• • •

ED. McINTYRE, Vegreville: "Unless there is a stated or written agreement, neither restaurant or waiter should be held responsible."

• • •

E. W. ALYWIN, stockman: "If a restaurant does not run a check room, it should not be responsible. In taking a man's coat a waiter would just be extending a courtesy and should not be blamed if the coat is stolen."

Plan Armistice Day Observance

Active plans are under way for the paying of homage to the million dead of the Empire in the Great War, according to meetings called of various ex-service and militia organizations to draw up programmes for Armistice Day observance.

All ex-servicemen's organizations are invited to be present at a meeting scheduled for 8:30 p.m., Monday, in the Prince of Wales' armories, while officers commanding militia units here will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in Colonel Watson's office at the same armories.

The Canadian Legion branch here will follow its regular annual observance by a memorial service at headquarters centering on 11 a.m. of that day, which is a Sunday this year.

Eastern Mining Men Arrive For Duck Hunt Here

The lure of the Edmonton district as a hunter's paradise has recalled Joe Errington and a party of Toronto sportsmen to its fields, but considerable doubt exists as to whether it is only the speedy duck and elusive partridge that has brought the mining magnate and his party to the city.

It is rumored he is more than interested in the recent strike at Lake Athabaska, and also in finds in Northern Alberta.

Seen Saturday morning at the Macdonald hotel Mr. Errington stated he was [illegible] hunting trip, and that so far he did not have much success.

John Michaels is attempting to remedy the situation Saturday, taking the party for a shoot in sections of the district which has never failed to provide a good bag.

Accompanying Mr. Errington are F. F. Dalley and W. H. Marsh, who are both interested in mining ventures in Eastern Canada.

TURKEY CROP IS LIGHTER

You may have a little more difficulty getting your Christmas turkey this year than you did last year.

Department of agriculture officials on Saturday issued the information that the turkey crop this year was estimated at from 10 to 15 per cent lighter than last year and reports from turkey raisers indicate that this reduction in volume is due to the low price levels that have prevailed in the last two years. Over the entire province the quality is reported as average.

Egg prices have advanced 25 per cent over last year while the total egg production is about six per cent lower than last year, due to further reduction in the size of the smaller farm flocks. Specialized poultry producers have increased their holdings owing to the more favorable market situation and a large percentage of the specialized producers are marketing their eggs direct to the retailer.

WOMAN ESCAPES AS UNUSED WELL SHAFT CAVES IN

Fighting upwards against falling dirt that was caving under her feet to the bottom of a 45-foot deep abandoned well, Mrs. J. H. McGarvey of 10616 83 avenue, managed to save herself from a plunge into the old shaft when its covering caved in as she walked across it, early Friday night.

Men from the city engineer's department were busy Saturday morning filling up the yawning pit.

Mrs. McGarvey did not know of the old well when she started walking across a lot directly east of 10637 84 avenue. A thin covering over the old shaft collapsed as she stepped into it, and she started sliding down into the deep hole.

WINTER NEAR IN NORTHLAND

Rushing out the last passengers from the far north before winter cold clamps down on northern lakes and waterways, Walter Gilbert, Canadian Airways pilot, landed his Junkers freighter at Cooking lake air base on Friday evening with four passengers from the northland.

Pilot Gilbert said that the conditions in the north country for the last two weeks had been fine, but that the weather appeared to be setting in for a change, and it is believed that winter is imminent in the northland.

The passengers were Miss Swain, Fort Smith teacher; R. Cooper, of Saskatoon, who has been working at the White Eagle mines at Camsell river and is going home for medical attention; Emil Dajenais, out for a holiday after more than two years in the north, working for the Great Bear Development Company, and Joseph Grenon, Camsell river miner.

REGINA, Oct. 13—Thrown from the wagon which she was driving into Earl Grey when her horse bolted, Mrs. Fredricka Wirth, 64-year-old Fairy Hill farm woman, died this afternoon 14 miles north of Regina as she was being rushed to a city hospital.

OTTAWA'S BAN ON ROD RIDING IS TOO SEVERE

32 Harvesters Trying to Get Home With Stake Are Sent to Jail

A problem fast becoming a national issue and perplexing local courts and law enforcement, subject to dictation from Ottawa, was graphically brought to the fore Saturday morning when 32 hard-working harvesters, homesteaders and farm laborers who have rustled all summer to stake themselves off the winter breadlines, came before Magistrate Col. P. C. H. Primrose in police court and pleaded guilty to breaches of the Railway act.

The penalty was $4 fines for each man with the alternative of 10 days in jail for those who had under $5 and 30 days for those with more.

MEN NOT DRIFTERS

These men were not drifters, bums and tramps that rod ride in the summer, but workers who had made a little money and were trying to get back home with the least expense, saving their stakes for winter food and clothing. They were taken off Canadian National and Pacific freight trains around Edmonton Friday night by Canadian Mounted Police.

Total assets of the 32 accused, the majority of whom were English-speaking, was $390.06. Some were on their way home, others seeking further employment to swell their meagre rolls.

One man an ex-army officer, a married man with a family in British Columbia, had worked in the harvest fields and saved $60.75. He was trying to get back to his family with his stake intact.

"I can't pay $4," he told a city policeman. "I need every cent. My family needs the money. The fine would buy a week's groceries."

Another, single and a homesteader, carried $4.10 on him when Mounted Police frisked him.

Still another homesteader who in the past few months has gathered in a $56 grub stake for winter was equally reluctant to part with any portion of his hard-earned money.

REGRET EXPRESSED

Reluctant to shoulder the responsibility they pointed out that they had carried out orders, issued from headquarters in the east.

Officers of the city police court and the department of the Attorney-General were helpless to do anything in the matter.

"The sooner some one raises a fuss and brings the matter to a head the better it will be for everyone," stated one official whose experience with court work has been wide. "With one or two exceptions these men are surprisingly good fellows. And the way they take what we are forced to give them is remarkable. When they are trying to help themselves the government should find some way to give them a hand to get back home."

City police on station duty, mingled in the crowd as it waited for the Black Maria for transportation back to the R.C.M.P. barracks.

"You'd be surprised the number of married men with families and small farms there were in that crowd," declared one uniformed officer, whose duties brought him in contact with each man.

SHIP 26 CARS OF VEGETABLES

Since the appeal for vegetables to assist settlers in dried out areas was launched, 26 cars have been shipped, according to O. S. Longman of the department of agriculture, in charge of this branch of the work.

Of the total so far shipped, 13 cars have come from the Peace River territory and five more cars are known to be loading there.

In all, applications have been received for 63 cars.

The urban districts have not as yet responded to the appeal, but widely separated areas, mostly in the northern half of the province, have contributed liberally.

St. Catharines Prize Shooters

OTTAWA, Oct. 13—The prize list of the Canadian Artillery Association in the annual contests held in 1934 show the 10th Field Battery of St. Catharines, Ont., carrying off the bulk of the honors. The St. Catharines gunners won the prize for general efficiency, battery gun practise, best shooting (Ontario), battery tactics and gun-laying.

W. Day, Capt., for O.C. "B" squadron, 19th Alberta Dragoons.

The regular monthly meeting of the Sergeants' mess, 19th Alberta Dragoons, will be held in Victoria armouries on Monday, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m.—F. Eustace, secretary.

DEVELOPMENT OF TAR SANDS PROGRESSING

Experiments May Make Britain's Oil Supply Independent of Others

Complete independence of the British Empire for oil may result if experiments with the Fort McMurray tar sands, now being conducted in Toronto, are successful, according to information reaching the lands and mines department.

There has been set up at Toronto a pilot plant for the separation of the sands, and within the next two or three weeks there will be joined with it a new type of refining plant, designed by the Smith Engineering Company of Los Angeles.

HOPE FOR SOLUTION.

Those who have seen the preliminary tests on the separation pronounce it to be a [illegible] and there is every reason to hope that the combination plant will be the solution of the problem of the development of the vast McMurray resources.

There are enormous beds of bituminous sands around Fort McMurray, which have only waited for the discovery of a simple process for the separation of the hydrocarbons from the sands to become the basis of the largest oil fields in the world.

For many years much engineering skill and money have been spent in an endeavor to perfect a simple, efficient process and only recently there has been evolved the process now under experiment at Toronto.

Police Court

Stalking into the Henry Cafe, 96 street, Friday night and announcing himself as a "tough guy" Charles Burston hammered Adolph Metal who was eating in a booth, on the face, cutting his mouth.

Meek and mild he tip-toed to the prisoners' box Saturday morning and pleaded guilty to assault. The penalty was $5 or ten days.

He had no excuse to offer and admitted he did not know Metal.

WEST FARMERS WILL REALIZE BETTER PRICE

F. W. Ross, Bank of Nova Scotia Official, Notes Improvement

"Western Canadian farmers, despite losses from crop failure, frost and bad harvest weather, will realize a substantially greater amount from the 1934 crop than they did last year," stated F. W. Ross, western superintendent, Bank of Nova Scotia, who arrived in Edmonton Saturday morning in the course of an inspection trip which has extended to the Pacific coast.

While not pinning himself to figures, Mr. Ross stated that it was estimated by persons competent to judge that the 1934 crop would net to the farmers of the west $50,000,000 more than last year's.

IMPROVEMENT NOTED

Conditions throughout the west had materially improved over last year, and even in the dried out areas in Saskatchewan and Manitoba farmers are looking forward with hope to next season's crop. While the farmers in these territories have never lost hope recent rains and [illegible] have increased their optimism considerably and they are hopeful that the drought periods of the past four years are past.

In British Columbia conditions are advancing steadily with heavy lumber exports reported and a [illegible] in the lumber output being maintained, stated Mr. Ross. The fishery industry has enjoyed a most successful year with higher prices prevailing, he said, while the mining industry is steadily expanding production in that province.

World conditions are also showing improvement, concluded Mr. Ross, but the most hopeful sign on the industrial and financial horizon is that wheat surpluses which have kept prices at a low level, will have practically all disappeared this year.

32 Rod Riders Are Taken From Trains

East and west bound Canadian National freight trains were stripped of rod riders when an R.C.M.P. squad kept an all-night vigil at Carvel.

In custody of Corporal Baker and Constable Johns, 32 drifters were haled before Magistrate Col. P. C. H. Primrose in police court Saturday morning to plead to charges of breaches of the Railway Act.

Friday night's "catch" was the biggest of the fall season, 22 being taken off the frieghts at Carvel in one bunch last weekend.

$50,000 Grant To Alberta 'U' Goes To Research

Carnegie Funds To Further New Knowledge Hunt

Announcement Made At Intallation of New President of University of Manitoba, Friday.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13.—Uses to which the $50,000 grant of Carnegie Corporation of New York to each of the four western Canada universities will be put was announced here last night at the installation of Sidney E. Smith, new president of the University of Manitoba and formerly on the staff of Dalhousie University.

The grants to the Universities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia were made in November of last year because of financial difficulties which they had encountered in the past three years. The uses to which the donations will be put were announced by Mr. Smith when acknowledging the welcome to Winnipeg.

The University of Manitoba will use the money for the development and maintenance of library facilities for junior students. The University of Saskatchewan will use it in taking over Regina College as a junior college and continuing it as part of the university system.

The University of Alberta will devote the money to encouragement of research, and the University of British Columbia will devote it to assistance of adult education and the encouragement of graduate study and research.

John W. Dafoe, editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press, was introduced formally as the university's new chancellor, succeeding D. C. Coleman, senior vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who recently went to Montreal to live.

HOME FAILED IN ITS WORK

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—Minister of Welfare David A. Croll Friday made public a report of Judge James Parker who inquired into management of the York County Children's Aid Society accusing the society of having "dismally failed in its function."

The report said the society "all too frequently was negligent and inefficient in discharging its function."

Note Discovered In Drifting Can Tells Of Motorboat Wreck

KINCARDINE, Ont., Oct. 13.—Authorities today investigated discovery of an oil can drifting along the Lake Huron shore and containing a note telling of the foundering of a 22-foot motor launch with two men aboard.

The note said: "Our boat was a motor launch, 22 feet. Our rudder was lost in a gale on July 20, 1934. The people on board were Ed. Rogers, Detroit, Mac Rogers of 9303 Jefferson Ave., Detroit. Our boat is sinking. Send love to our people there, also to Moon Jarvis of the same address. Boat name the Black XXX." The last word was not decipherable.

No word of such a craft missing had been received here.

Noted Food Scientist To Lecture

DR. STANFORD KINGSLEY CLAUNCH,

internationally known food scientist, psychologist and health educator, of San Francisco, will open a series of five public lectures in the Masonic Temple, 10318 100 avenue, beginning at 2:30 Sunday afternoon and extending through Sunday night to and including Wednesday night Oct. 17, at 8 p.m.

These discourses will cover the general topic of "Scientific Living." They propose to bring to the individual a workable philosophy of life featuring health knowledge as the greatest educational need of the present time. Dr. Claunch believes that present conditions are due not so much to economic distress as to the lack of knowledge of the fundamental values of life. Lack of knowledge, he says, is the cause of all human problems and its acquisition is the only possible solution thereof.

Dr. Claunch has been in the educational field more than 20 years and has lectured in practically every English-speaking country. He is known as an editor, author, literary critic, scientist and philosopher. He will be assisted during the program by Florence M. Holbrook. The lectures are free and the public are invited.

GRAIN EXPORT IS AWAITED

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Oct. 13—With [illegible] bushels of grain lying in elevators at West Saint John, officials said last night they were ready for the exporting season. No more grain would be brought into the port until that already here begins moving out, they said.

A camera and X-ray combination is now inserted into the stomach of a patient suffering from stomach ulcers to determine the location of the sores.

TRIO KILLED ON CROSSING NEAR SARNIA

Auto Collides With Train Backing Up—Another May Die

SARNIA, Ont., Oct. 13.—Three persons were killed, one probably fatally injured and a fifth slightly injured in a level crossing smash here last night. An automobile driven by Arthur Holder, market clerk of Sarnia, collided with a Canadian National Railways freight train backing up over a crossing on South Vidal street.

The dead: Mrs. Jessie Holder, 92, Sarnia, Ada Holder, about 25, and Marguerite Holder, 21, of Long Beach, N.B.

Arthur Holder, 41, was probably fatally injured. Also hurt was Mrs. Jenny Holder of Sarnia.

Holder apparently failed to see the train. His car was hit squarely and dragged 30 yards down the track. Mrs. Holder's body was thrown out of the car and found on the track, beneath the train. The others were imprisoned in the car, tightly jammed in the wheels of a tank car.

Mrs. Holder was the mother of the driver of the car. The two girls who died in the crash were his cousins.

LUMBER FIRMS GIVE MATERIAL FOR TOY SHOP

Given considerable impetus by the donation of materials from the Fraser Lumber Company a few days after its inception, the Edmonton Firemens annual toy shop was given a further boost when four more lumber companies in the city came to bat with further supplies Saturday.

Lumber for the manufacture of hand sleighs has been donated to the firemen by the Muttart Lumber Company, Hayward's, the Burger Company, and Armitage & McBain. That Chief Dutton and the lads are appreciative of the good will offerings is to put the matter in a mild manner.

With 10,000 toys as the objective this season, the smoke-eaters have a long way to go and any little boost that Mr. and Mrs. Citizen can give the toy shop is just so much more joy and happiness for some poor kid's Christmas Day.

All the toys from the workshop are distributed Christmas Eve in department trucks to the homes of under privileged children. The firemen themselves chip in to buy the candies and nuts that go to garnish each parcel.

While merchants and business men aid the project with donations of raw material for the manufacture of new toys, citizens may help by offering the firemen any old and broken playthings that may be laying around home.

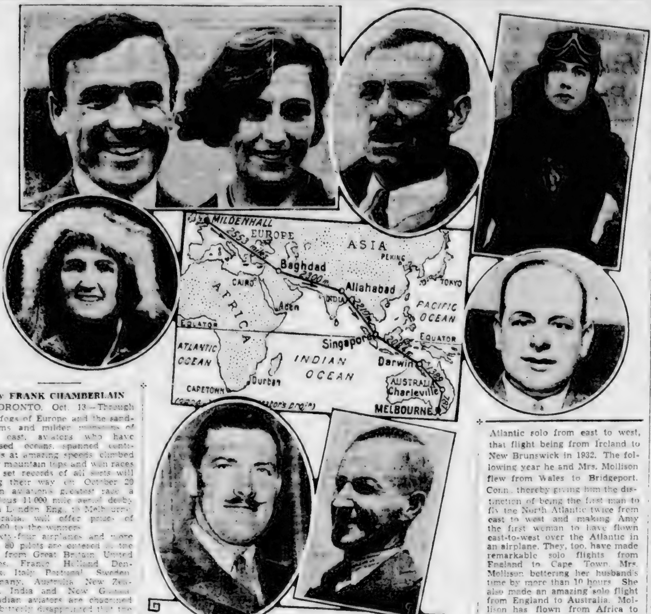
A phone call to 24183 will bring a fire department truck to pick up anything citizens have to donate.

Danger Of War Is Over-stated

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—The danger of the immediate situation for war in Europe frequently was over-emphasized in his opinion on this continent, Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canada's permanent representative on the League of Nations at Geneva, stated on his arrival here Friday.

Eighty World Famous Fliers To Risk Lives For 11,000 Mile England To Australia Flight

Sixty-four Planes to Race for Prize of $75,000, Running Gamut All Dangers Flying



One of the greatest air spectacles in the history of aviation will take place October 20th, when some 60 planes will take off from England for a race to Melbourne, Australia, and a prize of $75,000. Some of the famous fliers who will compete, and the route to be taken, are shown in the above layout. Upper left, Capt. James A. and Mrs. Mollison; centre, Col. J. C. Fitzmaurice, Britain; upper right, Mrs. Jessie Keith-Miller, Britain. Centre row, left, Ruth Nichols, noted U.S. aviatrix; centre, map of route showing five stopping places; right, Charles W. A. Scott, Britain. Lower left, Col. Roscoe Turner, famous U.S. speedster, and right, Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australia's ace, who was forced to abandon his plans to race.

By FRANK CHAMBERLAIN

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—Through the fogs of Europe and the sandstorms and milder monsoons of the east, aviators who have crossed oceans, spanned continents at amazing speeds, climbed over mountain tops and won races and set records of all sorts will wing their way on October 20 when aviation's greatest race, a perilous 11,000 mile aerial derby from London, Eng., to Melbourne, Australia, will offer prizes of $75,000 to the winners.

Sixty-four airplanes and more than 80 pilots are entered in the race from Great Britain, United States, France, Holland, Denmark, Italy, Portugal, Sweden, Germany, Australia, New Zealand, India and New Guinea.

Canadian aviators are chagrined and bitterly disappointed that the Dominion will not be represented in the air derby, according to Capt. Earl Hand of the Toronto Flying club. Inability to find sponsors who would guarantee the cost of entering a machine—some $30,000 or $40,000—was given by Captain Hand as the reason for Canada's failure to compete.

The race, a combination of speed and handicap events, is to start early in the morning of October 20 from Mildenhall, the Royal Air Force aerodrome in Suffolk, and is to culminate centenary celebrations which have been under way in Melbourne and Victoria. A candy merchant, Sir MacPherson Robertson of Australia, is the sponsor of the contest which, according to air authorities, is bound to present thrilling hazards and risk the lives of many contestants.

Given an average speed of 200 miles an hour, an airplane might reach the winning post in three days, and still have allowed its pilot 12 hours on the ground in the course of the journey. The two limiting factors will be the power of endurance in hard-driven engines and the ability of the pilots to do without sleep and still remain efficient. The contestants may fly day and night if they care to—they may even arrange to refuel while in the air.

FIVE STOPPING POINTS

Five stopping points have been arranged to break the journey—these averaging some 2,000 miles apart. They are, in order, Bagdad, Allahabad, Singapore, Darwin and Charleville. In addition to these points there are optional landing places along the route, arranged principally for the airplanes flying under handicaps based on their wing areas, pay load and horsepower.

Some of the world-known fliers who have entered in the flight include Col. Roscoe Turner, Clyde Pangborn, Wiley Post, Capt. Harry Lyon, Mrs. Louis Thaden, Ruth Nichols and Laura Ingalls. Of course, it wouldn't be an air meet without the Mollisons, so well known following their ill-fated attempts to fly to Bagdad from Wasaga Beach. There are numerous women fliers in the race.

Aviation circles were disappointed when it was announced last week that Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith had withdrawn from the race. Sir Charles is known for his round-the-world flight in the "Southern Cross" in 1928. He has made several flights between England and Australia, and once made the trip in 7 days 4 hours and 7 minutes. The record for the London to Australia flight is held by Lieut. Charles T. P. Ulm, who in 1933 flew the distance in 6 days 17 hours and 56 minutes.

FAMOUS BRITONS COMPETE

Britain's entries in the race include G. E. Lowdell, A. I. T. Naish, C. G. Davies, William Courtnay, D. E. Stodard, H. L. Brook, T. Campbell Black and S. Jackson. Even better known than these are the Mollisons, Col. J. C. Fitzmaurice and Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller. Col. Fitzmaurice, former chief of the flying service of the Irish Free State, flew with Capt. Hermann Koehl and Baron von Huenefeld from Ireland to Greeley Island, in 1928.

The Mollisons are a remarkable pair of fliers. Jim Mollison was the first aviator to fly the Atlantic solo from east to west, that flight being from Ireland to New Brunswick in 1932. The following year he and Mrs. Mollison flew from Wales to Bridgeport, Conn., thereby giving him the distinction of being the first man to fly the North Atlantic twice from east to west and making Amy the first woman to have flown east-to-west over the Atlantic in an airplane. They, too, have made remarkable solo flights from England to Cape Town, Mrs. Mollison bettering her husband's time by more than 10 hours. She also made an amazing solo flight from England to Australia. Mollison has flown from Africa to Brazil.

It won't be Mrs. Keith-Miller's first trip to Australia. She has done it before and has made numerous other long-distance flights. Charles W. A. Scott has made the trip before, too.

NINE TRY FOR SPEED

Nine of the airplanes entered in the race are in the speed event alone—for which the first prize is $50,000 and a gold cup; second prize $7,500, and third prize $2,500. Twenty-seven of the airplanes will contest the handicap prize alone, $10,000 for the winner and $5,000 for the runner-up.

Dust storms, sudden tropical typhoons, the far eastern monsoon, long desert and forest sections all provide perils for the aviators. Sir Alan J. Cobham will testify to that. He flew 25,000 miles from England to Australia and return and had to overcome almost every kind of barrier, both natural and human. An Arab bullet killed his mechanic, Sergeant Elliott, near Basra. Monsoons held him in Siam for five days.

The twelve airplanes from the United States will represent nine different makes. There are six French entries representing five different firms. New aircraft are being entered by the De Havilland and Airspeed firms in England. Wiley Post is named by many as the most likely of the winners, but all agree that anything might happen in such a flight.

It will be a world spectacle, marking another advance in man's effort to annihilate distance.

NEWSPAPERS IN BELGRADE WORRY ITALY

By JOHN LLOYD

ROME, Oct. 13.—Reports published here of widespread disorders in Yugoslavia with some anti-foreign feeling showing itself, visibly preoccupied Rome last night as Italian warships fired salute's off Italy's southern tip to honor Yugoslavia's assassinated King Alexander.

Assertions Belgrade newspapers have been printing erroneous reports of Alexander's assassination which cast suspicion on foreign countries caused particular uneasiness here.

Nevertheless Benito Mussolini's government sent the cruiser Giussano and destroyers to pay tribute to Alexander as his funeral ship passed off Italy's shores, and made plans to be represented at his funeral.

Some influential circles expressed the fear Yugoslav suspicion might be deliberately trained on outside countries in order to steer the people's attention away from internal differences.

At the same time the authoritative Giornale D'Italia in an extra edition last night said the Belgrade government's foreign policy for the moment apparently had not been changed. La Sera of Milan also called attention to this fact, but asked "What will happen tomorrow?"

U.S. RELIEF STILL HIGH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The United States relief administration figured Friday that 4,000,000 families—within 700,000 of the all-time peak recorded last April—were dependend on relief payments during August.

Honduras, with a population of more than 700,000, is almost entirely an agricultural country. Little manufacturing is done in the country and mining is done by only one company.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Not all moral questions can be answered with absolute scientific accuracy, but no decision as to what is morally right is possible without science. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1.—In her scholarly book, "History of Marriage and the Family," by Dr. Willystine Goodsell, gives the following much-needed advice: "A grave difficulty in the way of happy marital relationships is often found in the demand that marriage shall be an intensified courtship. Wives are much more likely to make this mistake than husbands. The woman has enjoyed her courtship immensely; she has liked being the centre of attention and eagerly pursued for favors. Yet, if she cannot face reality, if she cannot turn her back upon romantic glamor and accept a new relationship, intimate, deep and tender, but involving responsibilities and challenging self-control, she reveals herself as emotionally immature. She is holding on to an adolescent relationship instead of growing into a new one demanding greater maturity of feeling and understanding of the demands that life makes upon adults."

2.—It is the common impression that they do, but F. H. Finch, of the University of Minnesota, made a careful study of this among the young men, graduates of the University High School and could find no significant differences in the scholarship records of the athletes and non-athletes of equal mental ability.

3.—Emerson said: "It is probably easier for great men to do great things than for little men to do little things." We common folks feel that if we were President and every decision affected the whole world it would worry us to death. It probably would. But greater executives make these gigantic decisions as easily as we decide on buying a pair of pants, which, come to think of it, I must decide mighty soon and I can assure you it is a big, worrisome problem.

U.S. COMPANY IS MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The Aluminum Company of America was flatly termed a monopoly by the United States justice department Friday in the government's amended counter-claim against the company for more than $1,500,000 which came to a hearing in the United States court of claims.

The case grew out of the Aluminum's suit to collect approximately $600,000 from the government for aluminum furnished during and since the Great War. Payment has been held up by Comptroller General J. R. McCarl pending settlement of the government's counter-claim for reimbursement on alleged overcharges by the company.

Safeguards On Trusts Urged By Senate Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Without specific legislative recommendations, the U.S. Senate Banking Committee Friday wound up its stock market investigation by urging greater safeguards around investment trusts, holding companies and bank management.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, chairman of the committee, said the investigation begun almost 18 months ago, already had resulted in legislation for the control of stock markets, the guarantee of bank deposits and separation of investment and commercial banking. Further legislation, he added, might be necessary.

NELSON, B.C., Oct. 13.—The ban on public gatherings in Nelson, in force for the past two weeks, has been lifted, effective today. The ban resulted from the appearance of three cases of infantile paralysis and two cases of diphtheria.

A BEDTIME STORY

Story by HAL COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

"This frosting cupcakes is real fun, but there are many to be done, and I am getting rather tired," said Dotty. "I must rest.

"Who'll lend a hand, a little while?"

"I will," said Duncy, with a smile. "Give me that bowl of frosting, and I'll do my very best."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Coppy. "This should be a funny sight. Just wait and see. I'll bet that Duncy spills the frosting all around the place.

"And look! His tongue is hanging out. He'll eat the frosting, I've no doubt. Instead of on the cupcakes, it will be smeared on his face."

• • •

However, Duncy fooled the crowd, and soon said, "I should be allowed to lick this bowl, because I didn't spill a single drop.

"Each cupcake, now, is quite all right, and really quite a pretty sight." A cake then said, "Okay, son, lick me until you want to stop."

"Hey, give us all some," Dotty said. "We share with you, each time we're fed." Then Duncy answered, "Gather 'round, and we will dive right in."

What followed was a funny scene. They licked until the bowl was clean. "Gee, you must have been hungry," cried a cupcake, with a grin.

"And now we must be packed away. In big cake boxes we will stay until we're taken into town. Who'll pack us in real tight?"

"I will," said Coppy. "Twill be fun." Then, to a baker he cried, "Run and get the boxes, so this work all can be done by night."

The boxes shortly were brought out and then the bunch heard Coppy shout, "Form in a line, you cupcakes, so there won't be much delay."

MADAM RESOURCEFUL - - - By Rafael Sabatini

The Triumphs of a Love - Embarrassed Queen, Who Became Catherine, Empress Of All Russia

A SHADOW detached itself from the deeper shadows about a little doorway of the Palace of Aranienbaum and glided among the pines that rendered fragrant the tepid Summer night.

"Who goes there?"

"The Grand Duke's tailor."

Six tall Holsteiners closed about the shadow. It was wrapped in a long Venetian cloak and covered by a wide hat. From this black chrysalis there emerged presently, in the light of General Brockdorff's quarters, a young gentleman in blue satin and silver, whose golden hair was elegantly clubbed.

The General considered him with startled eyes, and waved away the soldiers.

"Monsieur Poniatowski! What are you doing here?"

"I was taking the air."

"At Aranienbaum! At two o'clock in the morning! Twenty versts from St. Petersburg! You will explain yourself to the Grand Duke, if you please."

In a vast gloomy room, where a table sparkling with silver and glass and flowers made an island of light, a man and a woman were at supper. There were no servants present.

"In the name of hell . . ." He broke off. "Brockdorff! What the devil do you want? And who's this bantam?"

He rose unsteadily. He was short and slight, and below powdered hair displayed an apelike face, deficient in brow and chin, and deeply scarred by smallpox. A star of diamonds gleamed on the breast of his yellow coat. His gold-embroidered waistcoat was unbuttoned. Prominent, malicious, red-rimmed eyes glared at the intruders.

Brockdorff explained and drew his companion forward to the light.

"Monsieur Poniatowski, is it?" The Grand Duke's speech was thick. "Why, so it is. And what are you doing here, sir?"

Poniatoski answered him as he answered the General. "I was taking the air, Highness."

The woman, who had remained seated, her elbows on the table, laughed. She was a short, lumpy girl, whose flat, coarse face, like the Grand Duke's, was pockmarked. Although the niece of the Vice-Chancellor Vorontsoff, the splendor of her gown and jewels merely gave her the air of a dressed-up peasant.

"By God, you are insolent to answer me so," growled his Highness. "Taking the air, you fool! That won't serve. Search him, Brockdorff."

Poniatowski stiffened. "Highness! I am an accredited ambassador."

"Accredited to cut my throat, belike. Search him, devil take you!"

Poniatowski submitted. He was weaponless. "You see, Highness."

* * *

HE obeyed her beckoning finger, for the empire over him of this, his latest mistress, was already firmly established. She took him playfully by the ear and drew it down to the level of her lips. She whispered into it at length. Knowing her malice, Poniatowski watched in dread. In deeper dread he heard the man's explosion of sneering laughter and the exclamation: "Catherine!"

Then with arms akimbo and feet planted wide, the Grand Duke was confronting him again and laughing into his face.

"Aren't you a great fool not to take me into your confidence? Thousand devils, man! Did you think I play the jealous husband? Do you think that is why I set a guard?"

The Grand Duke purred under the gross flattery. "I am a soldier, my friend, not a trifler. You can go, Brockdorff." He drew Poniatowski forward to the table. The Vorontsoff's coarse, vivid lips smiled a welcome. "Now that we understand each other, now that we're good friends, you shall stay to supper. We'll make you a party. Wait."

He strutted out of the room with a cackle of laughter. With a cackle of laughter he came to the bedside of the Grand Duchess.

"Get up!" he ordered. "You're wanted. Get up!"

It was not the first time that she had been aroused to witness his buffooneries. She knew from experience that if she displayed reluctance she would be cured in obscene barrack-room terms, and even cuffed. She rose at once, a woman of middle height, still beautifully shaped although by now, in this, her twenty-eighth year, inclining to plumpness. Her skin was a dazzling whiteness and her face with its aquiline nose, fine dark eyes and lofty brow, from which the luxuriant chestnut hair was now drawn back, was handsomely attractive.

Whatever her emotions, fear did not touch her until in that island of light about the gleaming table she beheld Poniatowski standing straight and tense.

Peter leered upon her stupefaction.

Then Catherine thought she understood. A cynical bargain was being forced upon her. She was to bend her proud neck to the Vorontsoff, whom hitherto she had refused to tolerate, in exchange for a complacency that made Poniatowski safe.

For her dear lover's sake, for all [illegible] and more like a somnambulist she played her part in that queer supper party; and Poniatowski constrainedly followed her lead, ascribing the oddness of the situation to the eccentricity of his host.

At last, as the daylight was beginning to filter through the curtains, the Grand Duke scrambled to his feet. He was very drunk. Blear-eyed he blinked at the Grand Duchess and the young Pole.

"My children," he hiccoughed, "I don't think you need us. Nor we you."

He reeled out on the arm of his mistress. The door slammed so that the windows rattled. Then there was silence.

* * *

THAT was the last of Poniatowski's secret visits to Oranienbaum, but not the end of his clandestine relations with the Grand Duchess. These, she vowed, could end only with life itself.

She vowed it at a time when he was passionately urging her to fly with him from a life of misery that had endured too long already; and she proved to him by the vow that if she did not yield it was from no lack of love. To a woman in her station the step was unthinkable and the consequences might fall terribly upon him.

"I'll gladly take the chances there, chances which your fears exaggerate, my Catherine. Do you think I can endure the thought of your bearing these infamies until you die?"

"Not happen? If he is what he is whilst awe of the Empress restrains him, what will he become when he is Emperor and holds the whip? And that will happen soon."

"I have provided." Something in her calm smile almost made him afraid. "It is a great secret, Stanislas. I tell you of it so as to quiet your fears. The Chancellor Bestucheff cares no more about a drunken imbecile for his master than I care about him for a husband. There is an understanding between us. Bestucheff will contrive to obtain the signature of the Empress to obtain a decree giving me joint sovereignty with Peter. He will not be quite master then."

Her tone betrayed something of that spirit which had been tempered by suffering as steel is tempered by fire. She was now a very different person from the gentle, awed little German princess of the insignificant house of Zerbst-Anhalt, who had been summoned more than ten years ago to Russia by the Empress Elizabeth.

The prospect of becoming the bride of her Imperial Majesty's nephew and heir, that other German of the House of Holstein, had seemed a dazzling one until she beheld the crapulous degenerate she was doomed to marry.

He hated her for an intelligence which made him recognize her superiority; yet in doubt or difficulty he would fly to her whimpering for advice. Her shrewd wit had led him to hickname her Madame La Ressource—Madam Resourceful.

Life would have been impossible if her fresh young beauty and the grace of a mind she steadily cultivated had not created for her a court within the court. In this she found some compensation for what she was called upon to endure as wife and mother. For the Empress, in her concern for the rearing of the heir to the throne, allowed Catherine the barest access to her son, the Tsarevitch Paul, born in 1754 after nine years of unhappy wedlock.

But the real compensation was not hers until Stanislas Poniatowski made his appearance at St. Petersburg in an ambassadorial capacity. He was twenty-two at the time, a nephew of the Czartoryskis, the most powerful house in Poland. He was handsome, travelled, accomplished, enriched in nature by the Italian and Jewish blood in his veins. The fine correctness of his conduct distinguished him in a court where so much coarseness was discernible under the superficial glitter.

Sir Charles Hanbury Williams entrusted Poniatowski with the task of winning the Grand Duchess to their common pro-Prussian policy, and the relations thus begun assumed presently such a character that all she had endured here in Russia seemed but a little price to pay for the happiness which at last she had found. She had been radiant, gay and sparkling as never before. And if the reason for this was suspected, yet there was no flagrant scandal until now, when the court was agog with the tales of that night scene at Oranienbaum.

"So you see, my dear," she ended wistfully, "deeply though I love you, I must remain to drink the wine that has been poured for me."

"In there taking off her breeches."

EVEN such poor wine as this, however, was to be dashed from the cup before it reached her lips.

Bestucheff, the powerful chancellor, was suddenly arrested on a charge of having been bought by the King of Prussia. He was blamed for the treacherous retreat of Gen. Apraksine when Frederick the Great, beaten to his knees at Gross Jaegersdorff, lay at Russia's mercy.

The event brought dismay to St. Petersburg and panic to the heart of Catherine. At Poniatowski's instigation she had been active in the intrigue and in yet that other intrigue by which Mme. Resourceful meant to safeguard her future. Because letters had passed between her and the fallen chancellor, for days the grim mirage of Siberia loomed before her until Poniatowski, who had contrived to communicate with Bestucheff, brought her a laconic note from him:

"Fear nothing, Madame. I have burnt everything."

The old fox had espied the hunt as it approached, and he had taken his measures. She breathed freely again. The tragedy she had feared was averted.

But a tragedy as black was to overwhelm her. Poniatowski's communications with Bestucheff were discovered. He was given his passports and ordered to leave Russia instantly.

When Catherine received the note informing her of this and exhibiting his desolation, he had already gone.

Finding him ravished from her side at a moment when her need of him was greatest, her spirit broke completely. She called for death as the only anodyne. In life nothing remained. What was ambition, what was power, what was anything the world could offer now? In her bereavement, her widowhood, as she regarded it, she kept her apartments, took to her bed, and gave out that she was ill.

She read again and again the pathetic little note which protested Poniatowski's undying love. She wrote to him from the depths of her poor, broken heart that she would wait for him to the grave and beyond it. Then since she must live for that reunion, she prepared to face life again.

She came forth a rather wistful figure, with a haunting sadness in her dark, magnetic eyes. But in the following Spring those eyes settled on a young officer lately returned from the Prussian campaign, and some of the wistfulness was observed to fade from them.

His name was Gregory Orloff, and the tales of his deeds at Zorndorf, where he had taken three wounds, made him the hero of the hour. For the rest, with the blonde head of an angel on the body of a Hercules, he was certainly a man to hold the eye.

He was one of five brothers, all of them officers in the Guards; all of them tall, powerful fellows; all of them handsome, saving that the beauty of Alexis was marred by a scar; all of them worshipped in their regiments for their physical perfections and their prowess.

To a woman whose ambitions Bestucheff's intriguing had awakened, this command of military influence was just then, when she found herself without support, as much a recommendation as his physical endowments. Whatever the future might hold, nothing would be lost by attaching this young giant to her person.

A hard drinker, a reckless gamester, and reputed of as boundless an audacity in gallantry as in all else, he was of poor intellect and no education. Catherine found him as dull as he was handsome. Thus he offered a very different experience from that which the cultured poetical Stanislas had supplied. And meanwhile for the spiritual companionship she craved, she plunged at about this time into an intimacy with the lively young Princess Dashkoff, little suspecting that these two were to prove the instruments of her destiny.

This destiny, however, did not begin to shape itself until the following year, when the Empress Elizabeth died. And its chief architect, when all is said, was Peter himself. He lost no time. As he strutted behind the hearse, in his tight Prussian gaiters, he disgusted the populace by his imbecile levities. Next, he offended the clergy by decreeing the secularization of Church property and scandalized all orthodox Russians by proposing to return to the Lutheran religion. Lastly this worshipper of Frederick the Great enraged the Guards by putting them into uniforms of Prussian design and subjecting them to an iron Prussian discipline with its dreadful floggings.

* * *

CATHERINE'S estrangement from him had long since become so complete that he had no suspicion that she was again about to become a mother, a fact which only by agonies of tight lacing did she succeed in concealing in public. So well did she contrive that, when she was delivered of a son, not even her intimate Princess Dashkoff suspected the extent of Catherine's relations with Orloff. And yet between the stolid guardsman and the Princess there was already a sort of collaboration.

The Princess labored in court circles for a revolution that should dethrone Peter in favor of the Tsarevitch Paul, now 8 years old, with Catherine as regent. Orloff, laboring similarly with his brothers among the already disaffected Guards, took no account of the Tsarevitch.

Catherine listened to them, pondered and postponed. Thus until June of the year 1762, when at the banquet to celebrate the treaty of peace with Prussia, Peter stung her by an intolerable public insult.

When the Emperor, at the head of the great table, gave the toast to the Imperial family, Catherine alone remained seated. Because his befuddled wits could not realize the propriety of this in a member of that same Imperial family, he coarsely apostrophized her as an imbecile before the four hundred guests who made up that brave company.

"My children," he hiccoughed, "I don't think you need us. Nor we you."

And there was more to follow. When the Emperior rose from the table, he was heard to order Bariatinsky to place the Empress under arrest, and only the firm intervention of Prince George of Holstein averted so scandalous a conclusion to the feast.

Nor was even that the end as she learned later from Orloff when, with the Princess Dashkoff, he sought her in her apartment.

"Will you strike whilst you are free? You have barely escaped tonight. Elizabeth Vorontsoff will see that you don't escape again. She is determined to be Empress."

While Catherine hesitated to believe so much, the stolid Gregory added what was necessary.

"Who is the father of the Tsarevitch?" he asked, much as he might have asked who was her dressmaker.

While the Princess [illegible] horror, Catherine merely laughed.

"I have thought that it might be the Emperor."

Orloff explained himself. "If that is so, then his Imperial Majesty is a liar as well as an idiot. He swore just now to Prince George that before he packs you off to a cloister and sends the Tsarevitch to rot in Loenigsberg he'll have you paraded through the streets with a placard on your breast, 'Mother of the Bastard.'"

She laughed no longer. She was on her feet, white and tense, her breath coming in sobs.

"Is that his mind? And not only myself but my son to feel his cruelty. I have been too patient. We must cut the cable." She flung wide her arms in a gesture of appeal. "I am in your hands, my friend."

The Princess thanked Heaven. The Orloffs had no misgivings, having no imagination, and fortunately the Emperor was not prompt to execute his threat. Banquets and fireworks occupied his next two days, and on the third, the 24th of June, he went off with the Verontsoff to Oranienbaum, ordering Catherine meanwhile to Peterhof.

He might have [illegible] intentions concerning her before her friends could mature their ludicrous conspiracy, if a chance betrayal of their activities had not cut the ground from under their feet.

Gregory [illegible]ter of the Guards. The office supplied an opportunity. He plunged his hands deeply into the regimental cash-box for the means to corrupt the men. Of the officers in the main, he had made sure already.

When discovery overtook them, any but the Orloffs would have decamped at once, accounting themselves lost. Instead, in their rashness, they struck the iron, although it was still cold. The burly Alexis drove away in the dark to Peterhof. Thrusting aside attendants he marched without ceremony into her Majesty's bedroom, and tore apart the curtains of her massive gilded bed.

"[illegible] have to proclaim you at once." That is all that he thought it necessary to say. He was no more loquacious than his brother.

"Proclaimed? At once? But . . ."

He interrupted her. He remembered something. "Passek has betrayed himself. He's been arrested. There is no time to lose. We must go." He displayed no more excitement than if he had been summoning her to breakfast.

SHE dressed hurriedly, and they set out, taking with them her Majesty's waiting woman and her French hairdresser Michel. At three miles from St Petersburg Catherine was met by Gregory and Bariatinsky. She transferred herself to Gregory's carriage and they, between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning, having set out at the bidding of a subaltern, driven by her lover and escorted by her waiting-woman and her hairdresser, Catherine entered St. Petersburg to take possession of the greatest empire in the world.

In the courtyard of the Ismailofski Barracks, the drums beat the assembly. Guardsmen came tumbling out half dressed and half asleep, to be ordered by Gregory to shout "Long Live the Empress!"

Bethinking them of the gold received and of probable vodka to come, they shouted lustily. A priest was found and dragged forth in panic. He did as he was bidden. He raised a cross aloft and administered an oath in terms which proclaimed Catherine sole Empress and autocrat of all the Russias. Smiling, fresh, rosy, sparkling of eye, she proved an intoxication to the men. They pressed about her to kiss her hands, her feet, her dress, and at last set out to bear her to the Church of Our Lady of Kazan.

On the way they were joined by the Sieminofski regiment, by the Horse Guards, and at the last by the fourth regiment of Guards, the Preobrajenski, which momentarily had hesitated.

To the ringing of bells and the cheers of a dazed, uncomprehending populace, Catherine entered the church to receive the oaths of fidelity of her subjects. After that, amid ever growing, bewildered excitement, to the Winter Palace, which had been the scene of so many humiliations, flocked the nobles, the Senate, the Synod, and even the new and masterful Chancellor Panine to do her homage in that rash hour.

In a fever of emotion, the long Summer day [illegible] miracle of this bloodless, crazy revolution sped to its close. In the cool of eventide the ardours also cooled. It was remembered that they had yet to hear from Peter.

The Emperor had received the shock of the news at 3 o'clock. He had bestirred himself. He had commanded manifestoes to be edited. Remembering that he was a soldier, not a trifler, he dressed himself in his Prussian uniform: big boots, spurs, sword and decorations. He would open the campaign by seizing Kronstadt, across the water.

In the dusk he went aboard a galley with his courtly attendance, which included more than a dozen ladies, and set out, as if for a water party. They were gay. Peter was in high spirits by now. He strutted and swaggered in his uniform. He felt heroic.

"The Emperor."

"There is no longer an Emperor. Pass on!"

"Nevertheless, we land, sire," he announced firmly. "They will never dare to fire upon you. At the worst . . ."

But the momentary contact with the actualities of soldiering had extinguished Peter's ardor. He was not to be persuaded. In this, at least, he displayed great firmness. He would go back to Oranienbaum and open negotiations. He got there in time to learn that the four regiments of the Guards were preparing to march upon him and his Holsteiners.

And at daybreak, having cast off the detested Prussian livery lately imposed upon them and resumed the old uniforms of Peter the Great, the Guards set out.

At their head, riding astride, in a uniform borrowed from an officer of the Siemenofski regiment, went the Empress, a crown of oak leaves entwined about her sable cap, her chestnut hair streaming loose in the breeze, her face alight and eager. At her side, similarly accoutred, rode the little Dashkoff.

MILITARY necessity dictated Peter's course. Catherine was approaching Peterhof when an envoy met her, bearing the Emperor's abdication. There was, then, no need to go farther. She dismounted and entered the palace.

To Peterhof later in the day Peter was brought to her. The evil little wretch came now in a slobber of tears to intercede that at least he might not be separated from his mistress. He also begged for his pet monkey and his fiddle. These were accorded him; but Elizabeth Vorontsoff was sent to Moscow and Peter to a house at Ropcha, pending the preparation of quarters for him in the fortress of Schlusselburg.

The strain was over. The revolution so madly undertaken was incredibly accomplished. Catherine could repose at last.

The Princess Dashkoff, coming that evening into the imperial antechamber, found Gregory Orloff stretched upon a divan, as much at his ease as if he were in a tavern. Scandalized, she pursed her full lips.

"Her Imperial Majesty?"

Nor was that all. On a table at Orloff's elbow there was a pile of letters whose appearance proclaimed their official nature. Nonchalantly he was breaking the seals.

"What are you doing?" she cried in horror. "Those are State papers. No one may touch them but the Empress or those she appoints."

"Just so," said the languid Orloff. "She told me to look through them."

It [illegible] to the Princess that which was presently clear to all. [illegible]ations of it followed upon a grim event that supplied the last chapter to the revolution. News of it came one evening later in the fateful week, when Catherine's capable hands had taken a firm grasp of the reins of government.

She was disturbed at her toilet by the entrance of Alexis Orloff, abrupt and unceremonious as on that morning when he had invaded her bedchamber. His disordered clothes were covered with dust, his scarred face glistened with sweat. He went down on one knee.

"I am from Ropcha," he announced. "It is finished, matouchka. He is dead."

"Dead?" Her voice came in an awed whisper. "Dead?" Then abruptly, sharply, she asked: "How did he die?"

"Of a colic," said the laconic Alexis.

Her eyes searched the impassive face. "You are sure?"

"[illegible] Of a colic."

* * *

WHAT tears she had to shed were shed officially next day in public, after the Senate had proclaimed the event. Withholding the news on the night that it reached her, she appeared serene and radiant to the court, the handsome Gregory Orloff towering beside her in a possessiveness not to be mistaken.

"My power shall make you glorious, Gregory. Ask what you will of me."

By contrast with this blonde giant, the courtly Poniatowski had been but a pale ghost of a lover.

And then like a bolt from the blue came a letter from that same Poniatowski. The ardent fidelity of that romantic soul expressed itself lyrically. The man announced himself about to set out for St. Petersburg so that now, with no obstacle between them, they might reap together the reward of their unswerving constancy. In a panic she dispatched a courier to Warsaw with an answer that began: "I cannot tell you what obstacles there are [illegible]."

So much, at least, was true. She could not tell him. Therefore she did not make the attempt.

His frenzy was [illegible]ed. He wrote again, and yet again. He would not be denied. He could not read between the lines of her [illegible].

She complained bitterly of [illegible] to the Dashkoff, who had [illegible].

"Your Majesty exaggerates the danger. [illegible]"

[illegible] But even as she sneered, her countenance [illegible]. There were, indeed, no limits to her power, and [illegible]. Over her [illegible] her word was law. And the throne of that [illegible] stood vacant.

The Dashkoff was [illegible] horror. [illegible] est claim. It is ludicrous, Madame. The nobles [illegible]."

"W[illegible] emy. I'll send instructions today to my ambassador in Warsaw." She laughed in her relief. "So that [illegible]."

Overwhelmed by that staggering gift, which deflected [illegible] its amorous longings, Poniatowski returned thanks from the depths of his [illegible] be an earnest of the [illegible] bore him. He never suspected that Madam Resourceful tossed him a throne as a keepsake merely because she could discern no other means of compelling him to remain in Poland.

Our Old Country Letter - - -

By J. EDWARD NORCROSS

MANCHESTER, Eng., Oct. 8—(By Mail)—This is a county—this County Palatine of Lancaster—of most amazing contrasts.

In the sombre factory towns the depression shows no signs of lifting, indeed rather does it deepen.

THERE are better ways of disposing of surplus milk than [illegible]

That is why a Milk Marketing Board, authorized by legislation very like that passed in British Columbia five or six years ago and declared ultra vires by the courts, [illegible]

It is this marketing board that has made possible a scheme of distribution of milk to school children throughout the country.

By the time these lines appear in print every child attending an elementary school in England will be receiving one-third of a pint of good, sound milk daily.

For this the parents will pay one cent. If they are too poor to pay anything their children will receive the milk free of charge.

• • •

It was brought into operation in many distressed districts by voluntary effort organized by the school teachers who often paid out of their own pockets for the milk of children too poor to bring two cents with them each day—that being the former charge.

It has now been taken over as a function of the state. The price to the children has been cut in two and to enable this to be done a grant is being made from the treasury of $2,500,000 for the first 18,000,000 gallons.

As milk is to be provided for 3,000,000 children this will cover the difference between the cost of the milk and the receipts for it during the next six months, that is to the end of the financial year.

As [illegible] the Milk Marketing Board has arranged to give them milk at a lower rate than hitherto but as there is no government subsidy in this case they will have to pay rather more than the children.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI

AMY'S voice was reproachful. "But a helpless child, Jane, who didn't ask to be born—"

[illegible] I'd never been. I wish I were dead. I've wished it a thousand times—ever since—"

"But Jane, this man. Hasn't he any decent feeling? He ought to be looking out for you. Doesn't he care? Don't you care anything about him?"

"No, I don't. I even loathe thinking about him."

Amy knew Jane was speaking the truth. "But you must have loved him," she persisted. "After all you couldn't have lived with him without caring something about him at first, anyway."

"I loved Howard," said Jane [illegible] "This man was exciting, and he flattered me and made love to me and I met him half-way, if you want to know. Oh, you can look at me, Amy, and be horrified, but I don't see why women shouldn't have affairs like men and think no more about it. There's no reason why not. [illegible]

"I don't know that there is, only I can't think so. It's one of the things that sound all right, but never work out."

"I can see that last pretty plain myself, now. But I did love Howard, Amy, and after I knew he didn't love me [illegible] understand the other man [illegible] crazy about me made me feel better, made me like myself again when I'd been hating myself. I was awful to you about Howard, Amy. But you knew it was because it hit me so hard."

"Yes, I did know, Jane—I'm so sorry."

"There's no use being sorry. We [illegible] that stuff out again. You're going to stay with me, aren't you, Amy? If you only knew how glad I am to see you, and to have somebody I can talk to and [illegible] a little while [illegible] even if [illegible] a few days [illegible]"

• • •

"Yes," said Amy. "I'm going to stay. I'll send Mother a telegram. I'll have to get my bag. It's checked at the station. And I ought to [illegible] my Pullman."

"And have your ticket extended [illegible] the road [illegible] You don't want to go out in the heat [illegible]" Jane had become normal, practical. She sat down at her desk, wrote directions [illegible] addresses [illegible] then rang for [illegible] and started her off. Emma, Kitty's successor, was a [illegible] West Indian, quiet and intelligent.

Amy took off her hat, washed her face and hands and tried to compass the utter strangeness of the situation. This was so difficult that she retreated to trivialities. She found herself telling Jane scraps of Marburg news, Vanny Hough's new car, Louise March's marriage to a man from Chicago, Henry Berwyn's accident in his boat, Edgar Moreland's engagement to a girl who had visited the Pattersons.

"That's funny," said Jane who had been listening with scant interest. "I never thought Edgar would care about any girl but you. The boys all liked you, Amy. You were far and away the most popular girl in town."

"Whatever that may mean. I [illegible] wasn't [illegible] known [illegible]"

"I don't believe anybody really loves more than once," went on Jane. "Do you?"

"I don't know what I believe about love—except—except that it's the only miracle we ever know. Nothing else explains it." She stopped, embarrassed by speaking out a secret thought. They mustn't talk like this. She looked about the apartment. "This is a very queer place, Jane," she continued. "I thought you told me last year that you had grass cloth on the walls."

"Oh, I took that off when I went Spanish. You don't like this?"

"I'm not sure. I never saw anything like it before."

"Oh, mercy, don't think of it. Goodness only knows what it would cost."

"I can afford it," said Jane cockily. "I've made heaps of money. I invested the money my father left in Aunt Rosa's trust and more than doubled it."

For the first time since she had entered the house Amy laughed. "That sounds like the old Jane, indeed it does."

"Bragging, you mean," Jane laughed a little, too. "But Amy, it's true. I have made a lot of money and I'll make a lot more once I get out of this mess. You know I was always clever about money. I'll telephone for a piano. They can bring it in the morning and then you can play as much as you want. There's nothing else to do while we're waiting."

• • •

It was not until late that night after Amy had gone to bed on the Spanish couch and was lying there kept awake by the unaccustomed place and noise, that it occurred to her that Jane had never once asked her to keep her secret. This confidence touched Amy profoundly. "She knows I'll never tell," she thought. "But I'm awfully glad she didn't ask me not to. It makes everything better between us."

It was good to be with Jane again, the grudge wiped out. But Jane! To have done this mad, this awful thing! She hasn't thought, Amy [illegible] got a fierce relentless [illegible] I don't see why she hasn't gone raving mad. I don't believe it seems real to her any more than it does to me."

She wondered about Thorpe, what sort of a man he might be, and she thought with humility and thankfulness of her own marriage and of Howard and their happiness, their content together. She remembered what she had said to Jane—"I only wish this was my child." A child was the only thing that could add to her and to Howard's life.

"I must persuade Jane not to send hers away to be adopted," she thought. "That would be a lot more wicked than just having it." She drifted into sleep intent on Jane's duty to her child.

It was as easy as Jane had said, Amy soon found, to arrange to stay. Mrs. Lowe was willing to look after Amy's house and promptly sent on a supply of clothes, with a letter saying, "Stay as long as you like and have a good time. It will keep you from missing Howard so much. Indeed I don't see why you shouldn't stay until he comes back if you want to, though I don't know to what lengths Jane's hospitality will run. Remember me to her. I know you are glad to be with her again."

Amy handed the letter to Jane to read. "Your mother's a grand person," said Jane. "She never was one of the Marburg whispering gallery. But even she wouldn't be so willing to have you stay if she knew about me. She never liked me much."

"We don't need to play truth every minute," said Amy, "but I'll go on with it to the extent of re[illegible] Jane, that you [illegible] very hard to make your[illegible] You were the one who [illegible] to annoy because you knew it teased."

"I suppose I was. It seems a long time ago in another world, another age. I feel so old, Amy. Old and [illegible] under a bad spell."

"Lie down and I'll play for you." For the piano had come and was a great resource. Amy played or practiced when she did not feel like talking. The days were too hot to go out in. Emma marketed and cooked and Amy and Jane lived quiet and withdrawn in the semi-twilight of the apartment with nothing to do except try to keep cool. Because Amy insisted, Jane bought a few infants' clothes and also consulted a doctor. She knew of no one in particular, so they chose the nearest, a man with an office at the corner. He seemed sensible and capable, but very detached and professional, his interest for the case, not the human being. Jane's unmarried state did not seem to surprise him, but he did raise his voice in protest when she said she would not go to a hospital. Amy listened to the dispute between Doctor Lacey and Jane with mingled anxiety and amusement, for each was obstinacy to the hilt. In the end Jane won out and Doctor Lacey reluctantly said he would attend her in her home. "I'll send you a nurse when it's time for you to have one," he said firmly.

And just as firmly Jane replied: "You can send a nurse when I ask for one, and not before."

"You're running a serious risk," he warned her.

"It's my risk," she said.

IF A motorist were to find himself [illegible] wholly dark car on a [illegible] is exactly what the motorist does not do when he endeavors to pass another car on a curve. The way is entirely blind ahead of him. He does not know what is around that curve. There may be a big truck or a fast flying bus or even [illegible] the hill. That means an accident.

According to figures supplied by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, there were 5,420 accidents last year due to an attempt to pass another car on a curve particularly on a hill. The deaths numbered 140 and the injuries 5,530. There was a truck or a bus or another car just over the brow of the hill.

State police on country roads [illegible] passing on curves on [illegible] of the most frequent [illegible] motor drivers. [illegible] often find these policemen waiting on these hills. Summonses or arrests inevitably result, and in the country it is a sure fine. Of course, there are not enough policemen for every curve on every hill, therefore, many can get away with it except [illegible] dearly than the arrested or fined drivers. They pay for it with the lives of themselves and their families as well as strangers. They pay for it in property damage, and in the economic loss due to the accidents.

No one ever has to pass on a hill—don't do it!

Quints Receive Dishes, Silver From Caribbean

General Rafael L. Trujillo, president of the Dominican Republic, sent for use in the Dafoe hospital a chest of silverware and a set of dishes. The gifts arrived from Dr. E. Ginerbrae, Dominican consul at Montreal.

In a letter to Dr. Dafoe, the consul said the president, learning of the appeal for aid for the hospital, desired to send some token of his regard for the British people.

He was grateful to the British because a British warship was the first to arrive on the scene when Santo Domingo, capital of the Republic, was destroyed by a cyclone in 1930.

Taking advantage of the warm sun, the babes were again placed outside Friday. They all showed increases in weight, with Emilie passing the seven pound mark.

BIG SAVING RELIEF AIM

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—Moving to effect a substantial saving and at the same time exercise control over "wages and working conditions" of employees of companies selling relief merchandise, the Ontario government announced last night through its minister of public welfare, Hon. David Croll, that it would assume, from Oct. 15 to the end of the calendar year, cost of administration of unemployment relief in municipalities receiving 100 per cent.

"We who are responsible for the spending of more than $30,000,000 in the department of public welfare want to know what the money is spent for, where it is spent and by whom," the minister declared.

FEEDING FOR EGG PRODUCTION

By Edmund Johnson, B.S.A.

Outside of comfortable housing and adequate sanitation there is no other factor that contributes more to the maintainance of high egg production and to the health and vigor of fowl than proper feeding.

Within recent years great progress has been made in the field of poultry nutrition. The balancing and trial of different rations must be left to the scientist and the experimentalist but quantity and method of feeding will always be more or less of an art and success will depend to a great extent on the practical skill exercised by the feeder.

HOPPER FEEDING

The most common method in vogue in Alberta at the present time is the hopper feeding of a balanced dry mash mixture kept before the birds at all times and supplemented by the hand feeding of a grain mixture morning and evening. In order to add variety and succulence root crops and cabbage whenever available are also fed. In using this method a wet fattening mash fed at noon may be used as a reserve feed in case the birds should begin to lose weight.

The more reliable feed companies that make a practice of selling balanced mash rations usually keep up with the progress of science and modify their rations from time to time as newer ingredients and formulae prove their worth at our various government experimental stations.

Should the poultryman desire to mix his own feed, formulae are available from the Departments of Agriculture of both the Dominion and Provincial Governments.

Coast Purser Crawford Dies

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13.—One of the best known figures in the British Columbia coastwise fleet passed away here today with the death of John A. Crawford, 40, purser on the C.N.S. Prince George.

Senior purser in the Canadian National steamships service, Jack Crawford joined the Pacific Coast fleet in 1915, and served on every boat. In nearly 20 years of sailing along the Pacific Coast he made countless friends in the ports from Vancouver to Skagway. During the Alaska tourist season his likeable personality won him the friendship of many influential people scattered over the continent and few men ever had a wider circle of acquaintanceships.

Edmonton Is Seat Boys' Parliament

Three Candidates Enter Lists for Premier's Post—Hold "Pep" Rallies

Edmonton will be the seat of the Alberta Boys' Parliament when it holds its next session December 27, 28, 29 and 30 of this year. This was the decision reached by a meeting of the cabinet held last week-end at Kasota Beach, Sylvan Lake.

The destinies of the house are being temporarily led by Gordon Finlay of Carmangay, who has been appointed premier to fill the vacancy left by Don Menzies of [illegible]. However, his [illegible] as premier will be short, as parliamentary elections are to be held throughout the province between November 24 and December 1. Premiership candidates will be George Tuttle and Charles Hart of Edmonton and Cleve Hill of Lethbridge. Matt Davis of Edmonton is alternative candidate in event of one of these dropping out of the race.

Harold Coward of Calgary is chief returning officer and the date set for close of all nominations is November 17. Jack Collett, former speaker of the Boys' Parliament, is chairman of the parliamentary committee and under his leadership [illegible] for a [illegible] parliament are already under way. The general aim this year will be to make parliament intensely practical for leadership training in Tuxis and Trail Rangers groups so that [illegible] carry away from [illegible] knowledge for use in their own local groups.

[illegible] arrangements have been made for the members during their visit here. They will be in residence at St. Stephen's college, where a major part of the program will be carried out. Morning committee meetings will be held in the college.

In order to heighten interest in Boys' Parliament and Tuxis work generally, the cabinet arranged for Tuxis "pep" rallies to take place at various points. The first of these will be held at Red Deer this week-end under the chairmanship of Ronnie Ainsworth. Rev. R. W. Hibbert, provincial boys' work secretary, and Rev. George D. Young will speak. The nominations for parliament in the Red Deer district will probably be made at this meeting, which will be held in the United church, and which will feature a banquet Saturday night.

Cows Go To School

By LILIAN CAMPBELL

Everybody knows about Mary's little lamb that "followed her to school one day" and "made the children laugh and play" because "to see a lamb in school" was against the rules.

But in Cleveland, O., a cow and calf really went to school and it wasn't at all against the rules; even though the children "laughed and played", no one minded, because it was all part of a scheme to teach the poor little city children where the [illegible] comes from.

Professor S. M. Salisbury of the college of agriculture of Ohio State university traveled from school to school with the animals, explaining to the children the value of milk in their diet. More than 5,000 children witnessed the demonstration and shrieked with surprise when the cow was milked for them to see and they were shown how it spurt from her udder. Some of the more venturesome tried to milk her themselves.

The city children were surprised too, when told that a cow only has teeth in the lower jaw. One little girl exclaimed, "That's nothing. My father only has teeth downstairs too."

A Holstein-Fresian cow and calf was used the first part of the week of demonstrations, and Guernsey the latter part.

* * *

But this lofty pose becomes nothing less than stupidly offensive when the individual concerned means that no useful purposes are served in having traditional or historic political parties, organized to represent the two fundamental points of view which at one time or another govern the domestic and external policy of any civilized community. When people speak that way they simply don't know what they're talking about.

[illegible]

When Mr. Joseph Chamberlain was most strongly actuated by the spirit of Liberalism, he declared: "Progress is the law of the world and Liberalism is the expression of this law in politics." Our own federal leader, Mr. King, has never ceased to emphasize the sentiments of Asquith, namely, that Liberal thought is above all else identified with freedom and equality, and that the Liberal attitude, in contrast with the Conservative, is based upon a belief in the supremacy of the general interest over particular interests, in the subordination of purely class interests to those of the whole community. And Mr. Howson, our provincial leader, recently interpreted Liberalism as "the philosophy of the welfare of the people in action."

If you consider there are abuses in the present system; if things at present are just not good enough for you, then your duty is clear. Get into the game itself, fight the good fight and work not without, but within the ranks of existing political parties to bring about that happy and progressive state of affairs which should be the ambition of every normal young citizen of this Dominion.

With the Twentieth Century Club of young ladies resuming its season of regular meetings, the various group conveners are due to lead busy lives this fall and winter. Miss Phyllis Primrose of the membership committee, Mrs. Louis Mohr, Mrs. Stanley Ross of the Entertainment committee, Miss Ethel McKenzie, Miss Mary McLennan of the Sports committee and Miss Edith Hilton of the Study Group are among those entrusted with special responsibility for the success of the various activities undertaken by this vital organization.

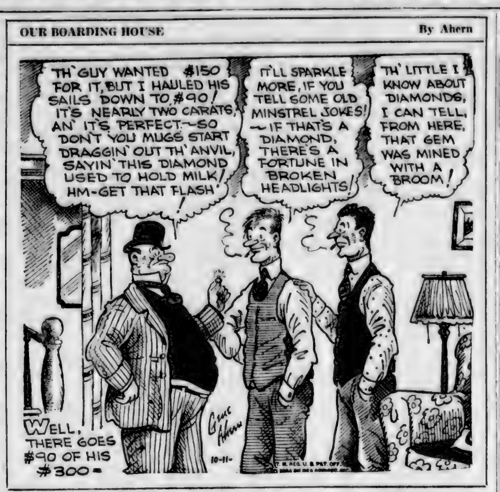
OUR BOARDING HOUSE By Ahern



TH' GUY WANTED $150 FOR IT, BUT I HAULED HIS SAILS DOWN TO $90! IT'S NEARLY TWO CARATS, AN' IT'S PERFECT—SO DON'T YOU MUGS START DRAGGIN' OUT TH' ANVIL, SAYIN' THIS DIAMOND USED TO HOLD MILK! HM-GET THAT FLASH!
IT'LL SPARKLE MORE, IF YOU TELL SOME OLD MINSTREL JOKES! —IF THAT'S A DIAMOND, THERE'S A FORTUNE IN BROKEN HEADLIGHTS!
TH' LITTLE I KNOW ABOUT DIAMONDS, I CAN TELL, FROM HERE, THAT GEM WAS MINED WITH A BROOM!

SPAIN REBELS BEING CRUSHED

MADRID, Oct. 13.—With government forces steadily crushing rebel resistance in the northern territory, the Spanish government today focused its principal efforts on wholesale courtmartialling of leaders in the revolutionary general strike.

Artillery Commander Perez Farras and Cavalry Captain Frederic Escofet were sentenced to death yesterday by a court-martial sitting in Montjuich fortress at Barcelona. These officers of the Catalan guard went over to the short-lived secessionist revolt.

Another military court, on board the cruiser Uruguay, the same day condemned 17 civilians to life imprisonment for their armed attack on the civil guard last Sunday.

Military authorities in Madrid today forbade all telephone communication with foreign countries. The reason for the order could not be determined.

Finds Poor Beggar Is Rich; Frees Him!

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Magistrate Abrello in Yorkville court suspended sentence on a legless beggar whom a probation report showed to be possessed of a $9,000 house in the Bronx, a wife; three roomers each of whom paid $32 a month rent, a son earning $16 a week and an automobile. The accused, Michael Bertero, forty-three, who admitted wheeling through crowded subways seeking alms, said he gained all his worldly goods working as a mechanic before he lost his legs.

Mother-In-Law's Kisses Sanctioned

VIENNA, Oct. 13.—One may kiss his mother-in-law as often as he likes, the Austrian supreme court decided. Johnan Meyer, sixty, Vienna business man, accused his wife, Marie, fifty-three, of adultery, naming their thirty-two-year-old son-in-law as co-respondent. Witnesses declared Frau Meyer kissed her son-in-law several times a day. She declared they were tender motherly kisses. The court ruled against Meyer.

Religion Stops His Jury Duty

LEIGHTON, Pa., Oct. 13.—Religious views were advanced by Howard Deppe of Leighton, in justification of his refusal to serve as a juror for the October term of court.

Deppe, in returning his notification card to the sheriff, wrote in part:

"Any man who has anything to do with the law in the present days defiles himself."

Indigestion Kills Man At Picnic

SAN JOSE, Oct. 13.—A sudden attack of acute indigestion cost the life of Ralph Donner, twenty-eight, of Oakland, while he was playing baseball.

Donner collapsed on the diamond at Mission San Jose picnic grounds, where he was attending a party for salesmen.

The fire department was called and an inhalator used three hours in an effort to restore life.

Boy With Heart On Wrong Side Freed

CHICAGO, Oct. 13. — Kenneth Rowley, seventeen, of Buffalo, N.Y., whose heart is on his right side has been released to custody of his father, wealthy steel company official, Judge Joseph H. McGarry of the boys' court revealed. The boy was arrested at A Century of Progress August 10 on charges of carrying concealed weapons and sentenced to a year in jail.

BABE RUTH TAKES FIRST STEP IN BOSSING SQUAD

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Babe Ruth, hoping to land with some major league team as a manager next year, was to set out today on a journey which will carry him around the world before he again sets a foot in New York next February.

The Babe will head a team of major leaguers leaving Vancouver Oct. 18 for a series of games in Japan. Following the series, together with his family and Vernon Gomez and his wife, Ruth plans a tour of Europe.

NATIONAL LEAGUE HOCKEY STARS START HEAVY DRILL

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—While the big trek to nine soon-to-be-opened Major League hockey camps get under way, the amateur laddies start hoping they look like big leaguers and some of the big leaguers hope the same thing, there was the odd heartbreak in the day's pre-training news.

Old Frank Carson and big Happy Emms, for instance, are being disposed of by the Detroit Red Wings, National League champions. Jack Adams asked waivers on these stand-bys yesterday.

D'ATS PANS by BILL LEWIS

Earl Mack's American League all-stars have come and gone . . . . In their appearances here, they left an impression upon Edmonton fans that will not be forgotten for a long while, as they put up two fine exhibitions of the diamond sport . . . . Those who were fortunate enough to meet them were more than impressed with the fine group of athletes the son of Connie Mack brought out here . . . . Every one of them was likeable and anxious to please and they took the trouble to explain the game to any fans or players wanting to get straightened out on various points.

The fans liked the clean-cut group of stars and, likewise, the players appreciated not only the city but also the followers of the sport here . . . . The tourists proved the finest group of sportsmen yet brought to the city on a trip of this kind and their visit will be remembered for a long time to come.

One point that was most noticeable about this team was that most of the players are stars who will be heard from for a good many years . . . . Roger Cramer, Pinky Higgins, Bruce Campbell, Charlie Moss and others are youngsters who will go a long way in major-league baseball . . . . The team left for Calgary last night, where they will play a game today.

Earl Whitehill and Rube Walberg, inseparable companions on these tours, plan on returning here next fall for plenty of shooting . . . . They are big-game hunters only and want to have enough time to get out and bag a grizzly apiece . . . . Incidentally, Whitehill is reputed to have the finest collection of hunting trophies of any baseball star and he is just lacking a grizzly to round it off . . . . During their visit here, these two found a boon companion in Olie Hanson, Edmonton policemen and baseball enthusiast . . . . He will likely accompany them on their shooting trip next year.

Earl Mack, on leaving last night, stated that he would probably be back with a club in a couple of years . . . . Unfortunately, the crowds at the two games here were most disappointing but it could not be helped.

Al Schact, as popular as ever, gave his performances both days in his customary pleasing manner and kept everyone, including the players, in high good humor.

University of Alberta's football squad has it's chance to take a strangle-hold on the provincial race today when they oppose Lethbridge Bulldogs here . . . . It is the first time in history that the southern city has been represented here by a gridiron squad and, as Varsity beat them a week ago, student supporters are looking forward to another victory.

Major League All-Stars Are in Attendance at Shasta Cafe

With Rube Walberg, Al Schact, Dick Porter and Pinky Higgins in attendance the Edmonton Athletic Club's Junior Baseball Club was banqueted at the Shasta Cafe last night, ending their playing activities for the season's campaign.

The starry quartet spoke a few words to the boys, while Schact and Walberg proved most interesting entertainment for all in attendance.

Ken Duggan, president of the Edmonton Athletic Club was in attendance, thanking Coach Stan Moher who in turn expressed his appreciation for the wonderful sportsmanship and fighting spirit shown by all players on the team.

VARSITY GRID LOOPS TO START

Queen of Tennis To Take Lessons

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—A tennis queen may yet have something to learn, or so thinks Miss Helen Hull Jacobs, three crowned champion of U.S. amateur tennis. Miss Jacobs is sailing from Quebec on Saturday in the Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of Britain, and according to despatches received yesterday she is going to spend a considerable period in England taking lessons from Daniel Mascall, famed coach of the English Davis Cup holding team. Also sailing in the Empress of Britain on Saturday and reported to be travelling with Miss Jacobs is Miss Henrietta Bingham, daughter of Robert Wortham, United States ambassador to the court of St. James.

Orillia Terriers Accept Invitation To Play Coast Team

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 13.—In defiance of an edict by the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association forbidding them to make the trip on pain of suspension, the Orillia Terriers, Canada's lacrosse champions, left Orillia early today enroute to Vancouver.

They accepted an invitation issued by St. Helen's Club at the coast city to play an exhibition series there on the heels of their three-game-in-a-row victory over New Westminster Salmonbellies for the Mann cup, symbolic of the Canadian lacrosse title.

Officials of the club said 13 players, three officials and a trainer would leave at midnight tonight for the coast. The C.A.L.A. threatened to suspend the club if the trip was made, and to take from it the Mann cup, symbolic of the Dominion's lacrosse title.

The newly-crowned champions received an offer this week to play an exhibition series with the St. Helen's club.

President Fred Waghorne, Jr., of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association, granted permission for the trip and R. J. Miller, secretary of the club, said the Terriers could abide by their approval.

GRANTED PERMISSION

Miller said Waghorne had granted written permission. "Permission of the O.A.L.A. is good enough for us," he said.

St. Helen's first offered all expenses and a 50-50 split on all games of the proposed best-three-out-of-five series. Later the offer was changed to a guarantee of $4,000.

The C.A.L.A. met last night to consider the Orillia situation, and on motion of Andy Paul, vice-president, decided to suspend the club if the trip was made. Official word to that effect was received today by the Terriers.

President Len Pratt, who will make the trip with the team, said he thought the C.A.L.A. was late in taking action. All arrangements for the journey, including buying of tickets and reservations, had been made before the association's message banning it was received.

Officials of the Terriers maintained the claim of President Dan McKenzie of the C.A.L.A. that Terriers had their chance to go to the coast in the beginning of the season to play the Mann cup games there was not correct. Pratt insisted the first heard of this offer was when the first game of the Mann cup series was played at Barrie last week. Refusal to have the games played in the west was made without consulting the Terriers, he said.

New N.H.L. Team Has First Drill

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—St. Louis Eagles, as they may be known in the coming campaign although no definite decision has been reached last night became the first National Hockey League team to don skates this season, as they inaugurated their training sessions with a light workout here.

VARSITY GRIDDERS AFTER THIRD STRAIGHT TRIUMPH

Meet Lethbridge Bulldogs At Stadium Field This Afternoon

Coach Alan Wilson's University of Alberta gridmen will be seeking their third consecutive victory of the current senior provincial football season when they play Lethbridge Bulldogs at Varsity stadium Saturday afternoon. The game will commence at 4:00 p.m.

Both teams were feted at an athletic pep rally on the University campus Friday evening. The rally was the occasion for expressions of confidence by Coaches Wilson and Stott of Varsity and Lethbridge respectively. The southern team, introduced to the rally audience features sensational kicking by St. Bloomfield, late of Regina Roughriders.

A win for the college men today will place them in the enviable position of having triumphed in their first three senior league appearances. They will play their final scheduled league game against Calgary, October 20.

THE LINE-UPS

Lethbridge: Snap, McKillop, Mills; inside, Falers, Mathews, Salt, Lee; middle, Currie, Hendrick, Niven; end, Boychuk, Onyfrychuk, Mcelgunns, Hamilton; half-back, Bloomfield, Peters, Brodie, Donaldson; Tedesco, Kearns; quarter, Symonds.

He Goes Berserk

Billy Spendlove, powerful mat artist headlined on Mike Cutcher's all-middleweight wrestling card at the Memorial Hall last night, caused a thrilling finish when he and "Bad Boy" Cummings staged a wild free-for-all fight with fists. It took four persons to hold the powerful Spendlove and break up the wild fistic battle.

Hearts Clash With Scots In Scheduled Game Of First Division

After a lengthy lay-off owing to poor playing conditions, competition in the first division soccer league will get underway when Celtics clash with Hearts in a scheduled game of the first division at Diamond Park this afternoon. The game will start at 3:00 o'clock.

Both teams will be out to take full pointage from this game in order to draw within striking distance of the league leading Radials eleven and a fairly strong contest is expected.

Hearts have strengthened their line-up considerably during the past few weeks and they are expected to give the Scots a stiff battle in today's game.

Brooklyn Runner Wins Marathon

PORTCHESTER N.Y., Oct. 13.—Taking over the lead at the two-thirds mark, Pat Dengis of Brooklyn yesterday won the annual Columbus Day marathon from New York to Portchester. Dengis, who finished fourth in the 1933 race, covered the regulation marathon distance in two hours, 31 minutes, 30 seconds.

Toronto's two entrants finished eighth and ninth, the veteran Percy Wyer covering the long jaunt in 2:47:03, and his team-mate of the Monarch Athletic Club, J. Shaw, crossing the line in 2:48:29.

Second place was captured by Mel Porter of New York, whose time was 2:35:38.

Better Hockey For This Season In International

FORT ERIE, Ont., Oct. 13.—Mickey Roach, new manager of the Buffalo Bisons of the International Hockey League, last night told the Fort Erie chamber of commerce, fans of the International loop would be given a more aggressive brand of hockey to watch this season.

"Certain changes have been made in the playing tactics of the league which are going to make the game more popular," he said. "Formerly defensive play predominated. The fans like action and a more aggressive type of play is planned this season."

Roach said he had heard from Tont Savage, of Calgary, now on the way to join Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League at their Saint John, N.B., training camp. Savage phoned Roach from Toronto saying he would like to come here, Roach said. The matter of transfer was being considered by Manager Newsy Lalonde, of Canadiens, he added.

HAMAS ON SPOT IN GOTHAM CITY

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 13—Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, and Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight, between them put Steve Hamas on the spot yesterday.

If Hamas, who won a so-called synthetic decision over Art Lasky last week, wants a shot at Max Baer's heavyweight title, he first must fight and beat Schmeling.

Johnson and Jacobs, old enemies, met today, buried the hatchet and announced after the love feast that Schmeling is under contract to meet either Hamas or Lasky in a heavyweight duel in February. The bout may be staged in Miami.

Referee Suffers Knockout As Spendlove-Cummings Go Cafard In Headline Event

Capacity Crowd is Well Pleased With Performance—Tarzan and Martin Real Growling Thrill

By JACK DEAKIN

A free-for-all riot, staged by wrestlers who had gone berserk as a result of frayed tempers and in which referee Maurice DeBlieck suffered a knockout blow delivered by "Bad Boy" Bob Cummings, ended a thrilling all middleweight wrestling program promoted by Mike Cutcher at the Memorial Hall last night. Before a capacity crowd, the lighter boys of the grappling game presented their third crowd pleasing performance which ended only when police and spectators stepped into the ring to part Billy Spendlove and Bob Cummings in their wild fistic battle.

It was a battle much similar to those Edmontonians have heard over the radio, but seen for the first time when the grapplers forgot all rules of the game and tore at each other in a frenzy of rage. No chairs were available for either contestant, but they used their fists, their feet and strength in an effort to battle each other into submission and only after four spectators and the threat of a policeman's "billy" had stopped them did they quieten down and leave the ring at peace with the world.

WILDLY EXCITED CROWD HAS CHEERS

The fistic battle was the tip-off for a wild outburst from the crowd which had held its pent-up emotions fairly well in check throughout the card, but at the finish it was a wildly excited, mad minded crowd that shook the Memorial Hall with its cheers of approval as it gazed upon the vengeance-seeking battlers, who ended their main event go in a temporary state of mind that bordered upon insanity.

It is still undecided whether Cummings or Spendlove will be awarded the match, and that question will be decided following the special meeting of the Boxing Commission members, who will endeavour to untangle the complicated situation sometime today.

OFFICIAL KAYO

A terrific blow which packed all of Cummings' power started the bitter fistic battle when the "bad boy's" punch landed squarely upon the jaw of Referee DeBlieck, sending the official to the mat, completely knocked out.

Spendlove then tossed his opponent onto the mat in the middle of the ring and, bridging himself, Cummings rolled Spendlove over, pinning him to the mat, and had Spendlove down when the referee gained his feet and in a dazed manner raised Cummings' hand in triumph. Only a few seconds later, before the grapplers had left the ring, Announcer Jack Horler received the judge's decision and named Spendlove the winner. This caused Cummings to protest vigorously and in the course of his protests Spendlove battered the verbose Cummings with a stiff right hook and that punch led to many more, and in an effort to stop the battle Maurice DeBlieck was again floored—the victim of a second knockout blow.

Cummings withdrew from the battle to his corner, but it took four men, including Pat Meehan, amateur heavyweight champion of Canada, to hold the powerful Spendlove. His increased efforts to break away from these four men, in an effort to batter Cummings, provided further action for the crowd to cheer, and they enjoyed the battle immensely—a fact shown by their deafening roar of applause.

After a few minutes of struggling Spendlove was led out of the ring into the dressing rooms, where he suppressed and checked his violent temper.

The blows to the official proved damaging for a doctor was necessary, but it was unknown the extent of his injuries. They are not considered dangerous, however.

Young Tarzan, of California, and Karl Martin, of Austria, following the opening preliminary bout in which Emil Van Velzen threw John Karavellos, was possibly the best bout of the evening. Both grapplers put up a colorful and clever exhibition in their five-round special event and they were greeted with five great rounds of cheers.

TARZAN POPULAR

Tarzan has steadily risen to high heights of popularity among local fans, and he had them really cheering before the fight began. Tarzan has the distinction of having the best built body in middleweight wrestling ranks and that is an honor he is well worthy of. Martin also performed well, holding Tarzan to a draw when he took the second fall in the fifth round with a leg strangle hold. Tarzan won the first fall with a body slam.

Hec Trudeau, making his initial appearance here, paved his way to popularity with a colorful performance in the semi-windup. Trudeau showed speed and class a-plenty in his battle against the clever Des Anderson, of Seattle.

Trudeau was unfortunate in losing the go to Anderson, beaten out of the first fall after he had pinned his foe to the mat. The referee awarded the fall to Anderson owing to rough tactics he used after Anderson had been pinned to the mat for the required time limit.

ANDERSON WINS

Trudeau took the second fall to even the count in the fourth round with an aeroplane spin and body slam, while Anderson took the deciding fall with a body press after knocking Trudeau groggy with a series of flying tackles.

In the main event Cummings took the first fall in the second round with a rolling scissors, while Spendlove bested Cummings in the fourth round with the dreaded Boston crab, making it all even.

It was in the sixth round that the rioting broke out owing to the referee and judge's decision, ending the bout immediately.

Great Gridiron Upset by Nevada

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The United States football picture already scrambled by early season upsets, became more askew yesterday when Tom Kashill, centreman for University of Nevada kicked the Great St. Mary's Gaels into defeat out in San Francisco today.

It was the most stunning gridiron upset in the Pacific section in years. The final score was 9-7.

WAIVERS ASKED ON CARSON, EMMS, STATES HOCKEY BOSS

Detroit Red Wing Manager Preparing for Training Camp

DETROIT, Oct. 13.—Waivers have been asked on Frank Carson and Leighton "Hap" Emms, Frank Adams, manager and coach of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, announced yesterday, as his team gathered for its training session here. Adams also announced the purchase of Orville Houston and Norman Walker of the Tulsa club of the American Association League.

Carson and Emms, forwards on the Wings' second-string line last year, have played together since they broke into professional hockey. They played with Windsor, Montreal Maroons and New York Americans before coming to Detroit from the latter club in exchange for Tommy Filmore and Bert McInenly.

Current rumors say Carson will manage Windsor Bulldogs of the International Hockey League. Carson is in the insurance business in Windsor and is believed anxious to accept the leadership of the Bulldogs. Emms is a native of Barrie, Ont.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ALL-STARS WIN TWO STRAIGHT

Baseball's Greats Present Brilliant Contest For Fans

Tourists Triumph by 20-2 in Exhibition Against Edmonton Team

Laying down a terrific bombardment on local pitchers, Earl Mack's American League All-Stars defeated a team of Edmonton amateurs in the second game of their exhibition series at Renfrew Park Friday by a score of 20-2.

The famous visitors, winding up their two-day visit here, had no mercy on the five pitchers sent to the hillock by Webb King and piled up the biggest score they have recorded since starting on their 1934 barnstorming trip.

They started off with three runs in the second inning and, in the succeeding five frames, added 17 more to complete their total.

Although they were supposed to use a battery composed of Earl Whitehill and Luke Sewell, the locals were afraid to take a chance on losing their amateur standing and, as a result, the five moundsmen Webb King had were pounded unmercifully.

WALBERG STARTS WELL

Rube Walberg, southpaw star of Boston Red Sox, started on the slab for the visitors and was in great form, striking out five of the first six men to face him. He was followed by Earl Whitehill and, in the eighth, Heinie Manush, outfield star, worked the inning. Al Schact again obliged by pitching the ninth frame.

Scotty Lee, Herman Loblick, Lefty Anderson, Chief Jimmy Rattlesnake and Buck Eaton were all thrown into the fray for the local picked squad.

Nothing the locals could do was enough to stop the avalanche of base-hits and runs scored by the major-leaguers.

CRAMER IS STAR

Only distance hitting of the game was produced by Pete McCready, of the Edmontonians, and Bruce Campbell, of the visitors, who pounded out three-baggers.

There was much brilliant fielding shown by the tourists, with the infield showing to particular advantage.

HI-School HI-Lights ON SPORT

By CHARLES TODD

It has finally been settled just who is the top football squad in the senior circuit when Garneau lambasted Victoria 29 to nil. By far the largest turn-out of fans this season, witnessed the thrilling battle. The cheering section from Garneau was plenty strong despite the fact that the students had to make a journey across the river as the battle was staged on the Victoria Campus.

Here is a tribute to Coach Innes and his gladiators. They are the finest smooth working machine to play under high school colors since this writer has been following sporting activities. Harold Sutton is the only real triple threat man to play in a school circuit. His punting, ball totting and forward pass heaving was beyond reproach. This Sutton boy is going to do big things in junior provincial football in a few years.

Nothing but a miracle can prevent Victoria and Garneau from meeting in the city finals as they have only one more game each to play and they are against soft teams. The red shirts take on Separate and Garneau meets Technical. Both Separate and Technical are in the basement and may even default their encounters to avoid unnecessary punishment.

Solar Boy Is Favorite In Cesarewitch Race at Newmarket

NEWMARKET, Eng., Oct. 13.—With Sir Frederick Eley's four-year-old Solar Boy, a lukewarm favorite, 32 horses were named Friday night probable starters in the Cesarewitch Handicap to be run over the two and a quarter mile route here next Wednesday. P. Johnston's Loosestrife carries top weight of 128 pounds in the renewal of the famous handicap.

The probables are as follows, name of jockey in brackets: Loosestrife, 128 (Gordon Richards); Cotoncaster, 127 (Nichol); Negro, 119 (Ray); Soliman's Feast, 115 (Beary); Rio De Paris, 113 (Clifford Richards); Whiteplains, 111 (E. Smith); Hands Off, 111 (Lane); San Espoir, 111 (Owry); Enfield, 108; Daiazcomba, 107 (Johnstone); Dona Sol, 107 (Steve Donoghue); Spring Morning, 106 (Dines); Saint Reynard, 105; Savonette, 104; Lady Clodagh, 103 (Barber); Bunkawai, 102; Polly Stephens, 102 (Fox); Frivolite II, 101; Mandritsara, 101 (Robertson); Solar Boy, 101; Labour Member, 99; Dusty, 99; Penny A-A Liner, 96 (Richardson); Venery, 96 (Lynch); Quartz, 95 (Ryan); Indiarubber, 93; Short Run, 93; Watertight, 92 (Foster); Lenin, 91; Rising Sun, 91 (Middleton); Jack Tar, 91 (Sharpe); Shining Cloud, 91 (D. Smith).

The probable odds Friday night were as follows: Solar Boy, 100 to 9; Enfield and Hands Off 100 to 8; Spring Morning 100 to 7; Cotoncaster 15 to 11; Dona Sol 100 to 6; Rio De Paris 17 to 1; Polly Stephens 18 to 1; Lady Vlodagh, Negro and Savonette 25 to 1; Watertight, Shining Cloud, Jack Tar, Frivolite II, Whiteplains and Indiarubber 33 to 1; Venery 40 to 1; Loosestrife 50 to 1; and Dusty 66 to 1.

Stettler Loop Squad Triumphs

STETTLER, Oct. 13—Botha high school girls' basketball team beat Stettler high school "B" team here yesterday, 12-10. The game was fast and hotly contested but there was a notable absence of fouls. Despite the pressure the girls played good clean basketball.

Mr. Mair, principal of Botha school, is delighted with the showing of his teams, the Botha boys' team defeating Gadsby high school recently by a score of 13-8. Despite a lack of material and substitutes the Botha teams are showing the results of good coaching and expect to make a good showing in Stettler on the 20th when there is a district basketball tournament.

Number Seven Kept To Honor Morenz

MONTREAL, Oct. 13—The number seven, famed alike by ancient soothsayers and frequenters of modern dice parlors, may not again appear on the breast of a member of the Canadiens Hockey club for years.

Coincident with the departure yesterday of Howie Morenz for Chicago where he will play this year with the Black Hawks, Leo Dandurand one of Canadiens owners, announced the number would be kept as a sort of memento of the Stratford streak. It will not be used by a Canadien player while Howie remains in the game.

CRICKET BOARD MAY BE FORMED

TORONTO, Oct. 13—Plans to create a Dominion advisory board for cricket are nearing a final stage, R. W. Sharp, secretary of the Ontario Cricket Association, said last night.

The movement was begun more than a year ago with formation of the Ontario Association. In order to link Eastern and Western Canada cricket bodies, proposals were submitted to the various provincial governing bodies that two representatives from each section of Canada should be appointed to form a Dominion board. Functions of the board would be to co-ordinate established league activities with the idea of improving cricket standards and stimulating contacts within the Dominion and from teams elsewhere in the British Empire.

ITALIAN TRACK STARS BEATEN BY AMERICANS

Invaders Lose Eight To Six in Columbus Day Celebration

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A team of 30 Italian track and field stars Friday bowed to a pickup United States squad six events to eight in an international track meet at Yankee Stadium, climaxing New York's celebration of Columbus Day.

Chilly winds made all the times slow, the major disappointment being Luigi Becalli's failure to do better than four minutes two seconds in his effort to lower Bill Bonthron's world record of 4:48 8 for 1500 metres. The stocky little visitor, Olympic champion at the distance, had little opposition and won easily by 15 yards from Joe McCluskey, New York's former distance star.

It was McCluskey who furnished the feature of the meet as he came back from his pace-making efforts in the 1500 metres to outsprint Umberto Cerati, Italy's distance champion, and win the 5,000 metres by half a stride. His time of 8:57.9, although 39 seconds over the world record, was good for the conditions.

Other United States victories were scored by Ed. Siegel, in the 100 metre dash, Charles Pessoni, in the 110 metre high hurdles, Bill Ray in the 800-metre run, George Spitz in the high jump, Kermit King in the broad jump, Dan Taylor in the shotput and the 400-metre relay team.

Mardio Rebaglino, European intercollegiate champion, won the 400-metre run for the visitors, Giorgio Oberweger the discus, Folco Guglielmi the hop-step-jump, Umberto Ridi the 400-metre hurdles, and Becalli anchored the winning Italian medley team, running the 800-metre leg.

SEPARATE LEADS BANTAM LEAGUE

Scoring a 2-0 triumph over Garneau, Separate retained their first place position in the Bantam high school football league yesterday by virtue of their slight margin of victory, and are now tied with Victoria for leading laurels.

Separate Bantams have presented a great brand of football in their drive to head the league and they are now strong favorites to cop the league title. They have a serious threat in the Victoria squad and a series of great games are expected between these two teams in the near future for first place.

J. Lambert with two kicks to the deadline scored all of the winners' points in the game played at the South Side Athletic grounds.

Both Separate and Victoria have two triumphs in the league.

Twins Not Alike In Foot Tricks

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Judging by the experience of Johnny and Jimmy, twins who are growing up in a scientific playroom here, the right age to take up roller skating is about seven months.

Johnny was a good roller skater about the time he was celebrating his first birthday. Jimmy confined himself to more natural courses concerning roller skates, such as biting them, until he was 22 months old. Then he tried to use the skates for getting around, but his efforts cost him a great series of ingenious spills, and two months of application brought little progress.

What scientific observers want to know is whether the highly trained Johnny has any real advantage over Jimmy, who just grew up like Topsy while his little brother was learning a series of astounding feats. Johnny seems no brighter at solving problems the pair are made to work out in their play, and when they started even at riding the tricycle, Jimmy learned to pedal like a champion of the six-day meets while his precocious little brother was still crying for his skates.

Cattle Are Sent For Winter Feed

ERSKINE, Oct. 13.—John McArthur, of the Hackett district, passed through Erskine with a carload of 40 cattle, which he was shipping to Penhold to be wintered. The Hackett district was the centre of the July hail storm which did so much damage over a wide area. One farmer, with 200 acres of wheat on summer fallow, threshed only 100 bushels.

Placing decoys in the grain fields, Erskine hunters have bagged more than 30 geese. Chicken, partridges and grouse are also plentiful.

Wedding 76 Years Ago Held Illegal

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13—A supreme court jury today decided that a marriage performed seventy-six years ago in Michigan was illegal.

And, therefore, two aged uncles of Mrs. Nettie E. Barton, who died last December, were denied a share in her $11,000 estate. The uncles, Erastas McGrew, eighty-four, and Charles McGrew, eighty, based their claim to kinship on an entry in a century-old family Bible showing the marriage of Mrs. Barton's half brother. But the jury decided that the union recorded was technically invalid. The estate will go to a group of Mrs. Barton's cousins who were contesting the claim of the uncles.

Give Fine Performance

STROME WINS

BAWLF, Oct. 13.—Bawlf lost the cup at the recent Strome track meet, Strome being the winner. Bawlf had successfully won the cup at the two previous yearly meets but came third in this year's sports.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. MacLeod and Mrs. Keely had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Golter, of New York City, who arrived via airplane.

No Mickie Mouse In Animal Cracker

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Use of the name "Mickie Mouse" as a trade mark for animal cracker packages was under the ban of a federal court injunction today. The restraining writ was issued upon application of Walter E. Disney, cartoonist, who charged that use of the name by the United States Biscuit Company of America and two subsidiaries violated his copyright on "Mickie Mouse," the cartoon character he created.

YORKERS PLAY GIBBONS NINE HERE SUNDAY

To Decide Big Five League Title at Boyle Street Diamond

Big Five Baseball champions will be declared Sunday afternoon when the York Hotel nine meet Gibbons in the final encounter of their two out of three series for the league title at Boyle street, starting at 3:00.

Still smarting under the defeat handed to them in the second game of the series by the country nine, the hotelmen will be out to avenge this setback when they lock horns and are confident of turning in a triumph.

Despite the confidence of the York club, the Gibbons squad feel that they are capable of administering another setback to their opponents and will be out to do so on Sunday.

Oscar "Ironman" Blais will likely twirl for the visitors with Joe McDonnell receiving. Tony Coughlin is expected to handle the hurling assignment for the Hotelmen with John Henning catching.

Wychwood Abbot Is Race Favorite

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Wychwood Abbot remained favorite for the Cambridgeshire, to be run October 31, in last night's betting call-over at 100 to 9. Caymanas and Solfatara were 20 to 1, Mary Tuder, Spend a Penny and Highlander 25 to 1, Commander Third 28 to 1, Poker 40 to 1 and Potiphar 50 to 1.

Scona Curlers To Meet Monday

Kinsmen Gridders Get Biggest Test In Battle Sunday

Will Play Strengthened Edmonton Athletic Club Aggregation

Coach Catsy Mills' Kingsmen gridders will be given their biggest test of the season at Renfrew park Sunday afternoon commencing at 3 o'clock when they will march up against a bolstered E.A.C. twelve in an exhibition tussle which promises to produce plenty of gridiron entertainment.

A week ago the purple and gold machine captured the city title and won the right to represent Edmonton in the provincial playoffs of the Canadian Junior Football championship playdowns, when they turned back the E.A.C. gridiron aspirants in two straight games.

Still smarting under these defeats the E.A.C.'s are out to score revenge and as their squad will be considerably stronger than it was in the championship series, due to the addition of a wealth of new material, they are confident that they will do so.

ARE CONFIDENT

However, the Kinsmen are of the opinion that they will be quite capable of turning in a win despite the additions to their opponent's roster and although they expect a stiffer opposition are certain of scoring a victory.

The Kinsmen will base their attack on a new set of plays which they have been practicing all week and reports come from their training headquarters that these plays are the smoothest ever to be presented on a junior gridiron.

It has been claimed that the Kinsmen are one of the strongest junior football machines ever developed in the city and they possess one of the greatest arrays of junior material ever assembled in one club.

BORDEN IS STAR

Borden has had years of experience in the grid game although he has not quite reached his 20th birthday as he starred on the high school grids for several seasons before his entry into the junior league. He is known as one of the best ball carriers in the city, and once given the ball is generally good for a gain of at least five yards. Bob is also a deadly tackler besides being one of the hardest men on his team. He is also shifty and is hard to tackle when he gallops down the field.

Stanley Smitten learnt all of his football in the junior league which he has been a member for three seasons. Last year he was a star with the Kinsmen but his performances this season rates him twice as dangerous. He is probably one of the best broken field runners in the city and can sprint like a deer. He should be a big help to his mates Sunday. Marin Graham, is also a veteran of junior circles, he likewise is a star performer and can play in any position on the team.

In Roy Gerlitz, the Kinsmen have a real punter who can match strides with the best of them and he has been a big reason for his team's success. Ernie Stevens, is undoubtedly the best junior quarter in the city. Sly as a fox, Ernie is a student of the game and his field generalship has been a main factor in his mates' triumphs.

Ted Heath, who plays end for the club is also a star and one of the smartest in the city. Other outstanding performers with the club are Bob Gillies, Harry Rob[illegible], Mayer Flett, Jack George and [illegible]lie Devaney, the last two being newcomers to the club but their display has been remarkable.

ARE REAL CLUB

In all they are a real club, but they will encounter a much stronger machine this week end than that which they played last week as the additions to the E.A.C. are all well known grid performers.

Most notable are former members of the Kinsmen original team, who have passed the junior age limit. Russ Rennie, brilliant young end and probably one of the finest in Edmonton, who teamed with Heath is a real star in himself and should prove to be a big help to the E.A.C.'s.

Doug Elliott, Doug. Foster, Don. McGreevey, Cliff. Seddon, Reg. Rault, Archie McKeever are other notables among the newcomers and all of these lads are seasoned members of the gridiron and their experience along with the fight of the young E.A.C. machine should prove a big obstacle for the Kinsmen to hurdle.

The young E.A.C. club have some real junior football players on their team and they should show results with the additions. Rusty Wynn, Bill Conn, Jim Moore, Pete. Elock and Duke Brunson make up the backfield and all of these are real artists of the grid.

Buchanan Rovers To Be Banqueted

Monday evening has been chosen as the night to fete the Buchanan Rovers, winners of the City Midget Soccer title and Morrish Cup. The fete will take the form of a supper to be held in the Buchanan United church at seven o'clock.

The following boys will be honored: Horavsky, Hayes, Spronie, Shychoski, Harris, Ashbaugh, McAra, Darling, Ainslie, Jones and Pizzuto.

WHEAT PRICES DRIFT LOWER ON SATURDAY

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13—In a quiet week-end market lacking any bullish developments, wheat futures prices drifted lower on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. At the close, values were off ⅜ to ¾ cent, October at 79⅜, December 80-80⅛ and May 84¾ cents.

Affected by weakness at Liverpool and Chicago, local values traded at levels under the previous close for most of the short session.

Only moderate sales of Canadian wheat for export were reported. With 2,750,000 bushels of new-crop wheat delivered to country elevators Friday, hedging pressure in the market was quite heavy.

EDMONTON STOCKYARDS, Oct. 13—Report from yards for week ending Oct. 13:—

Receipts—	Cattle	Calves	Hogs	Sheep
Saturday	234	25	250	21

Market during this past week was fairly active and trading brisk on all offerings of good butcher cattle. This kind moved readily at fully steady to firm values. Common and in-between kinds, however, were inclined to be slow movers in spots, but were selling at about steady and unchanged values. The following were the ruling prices:

The general run of good fed calves $3 to $3.50, odd especially choice bringing a little more; plain to medium, $1.50 to $2.50. The general run of good butcher steers, $2.50 to $3, odd choice up to $3.25; mediums, $1.75 to $2.25; common to medium, $1 to $1.50. Good butcher cows, $1.25 to $1.50, common to medium, 75c to $1.25; canners and cutters, 50c to 75c, and bulls, 75c to $1.25. Good to choice butcher heifers, $2.25 to $2.75; common to medium, $1 to $2. There was fair action noticeable on the stocker market, and any offerings of good stockers were quite readily moved at fully steady values. Useful kinds of stockers generally $1.50 to $1.75; really good, up to $2; other kinds from 75c to $1.25.

No material change noticeable on the calf market. All sales being made at steady values. Good to choice light calves $3 to $3.50, common to medium $1.50 to $2.50.

Hogs during this past week were firmer. Today, Friday, trucked-in sold at $6.80 for the bacons. Selects bringing a premium of 50c per cwt., and butchers discounted 50c per cwt. Cuts remain the same.

Any offerings of good lambs were readily sold at fully steady prices. Good to choice, $4 to $4.50; other kinds, $3.50 down; yearlings, $2 to $3, and ewes, $1 to $2.

AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 13—Receipts: 8,000 hogs. Better graded, $5.85.

Cattle, 1,500. Steers $10.25, heifers $8.50, cows $4.50.

Dam Reaches High

STOCKS YIELD TO WEEK-END PROFIT TAKING

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The inflationary balloon appeared to have been at least partially deflated today and stocks and staples yielded some of their recent gains under speculative week-end profit taking. Equity trading, however, dwindled appreciably on the decline, transfers in the brief session approximating only 385,000 shares. The close was easy.

PRICES SHADED ON MINE MART

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—Following several days of advancing prices profit-taking had an innings in the closing session of the week on the mining board and prices were shaded moderately. The silvers changed hands in heavy volume, all at the expense of quotations. Base metals continued in slow motion and business was also small in most of the senior golds.

Lake Shore, Hollinger, Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves weakened 10 to 25 cents each while Bralorne and Pioneer held steady to strong. Secondary golds were trimmed 3 to 10 cents each.

Buffalo-Ankerite advanced 20 cents and San Antonio remained unchanged. Noranda weakened 50 cents.

In the penny group recessions of 1 to 3 cents were registered for Bobjo, Lamaque Contact and Maple Leaf. The oils were again off.

JERSEY CATTLE EN ROUTE HERE FOR DISPOSAL

Twenty-two Heifers and Bulls From B.C. to be Auctioned

The Mayfield Jersey Farm at Langley Prairie, in the Fraser Valley of British Columbia, is consigning twenty-odd head of registered Jersey heifers, and one or two bulls, to Edmonton to be sold by auction on Saturday, October 27. The cattle will reach Edmonton the first of that week and will be on exhibition during the week at the exhibition grounds, in order that interested breeders and dairymen can inspect them.

QUALITY NOTED

These cattle represent the very best blood lines in British Columbia, and they are only being sold in order to make room immediately. There is not a cull in the lot, and in all cases they are either from dams with very high records, or from young cows now on test. The Mayfield herd is noted throughout British Columbia for the high quality of the individuals which comprise it.

BIG PRODUCERS

Jerseys are rapidly gaining in popularity in Edmonton district, as they are very hardy and thrifty. They are not only economical producers of cream and milk, but they give a high quality product for which there is an ever-increasing demand.

No reserves have been placed on these cattle and buyers will get them at their own valuation. They are from an accredited herd, which has been free from abortion and consistently blood-tested for years.

Driver Escapes With Scratches As Car Topples

BASHAW, Oct. 13 — Receiving slight scratches and a shaking up M. Scott narrowly escaped injury when his car overturned and rolled over three times before it landed in a ditch, Thursday. A tub full of dishes in the back seat was shattered.

DeMille Issues New Leading Lady Rules

After unsuccessfully scouring the country for a new leading lady for his next spectacle, "The Crusades," Cecil B. DeMille today issued his requirements for the role of Berengeria, wife of King Richard the Lion-Hearted, the principal female character in the picture.

"She must act like Helen Hayes," the director announced. "She must have the vivacity of Miriam Hopkins, the wistfulness of Helen Mack, the charm of Marian Davies. And as for looks, she must be a combination of all four of these actresses."

Eye Is Injured On Wire Fence

RIMBEY, Oct. 19.—Theodore Odenbach, 24-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Odenbach, prominent farmers of Rimbey, received serious injuries to his eye while attempting to crawl through a barbed wire fence. Some months ago he had his other eye removed as the result of an accident.

Broomhall

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Southern hemisphere shipments were again large this week. Argentine shipped 4,200,000 compared with 4,446,000 the previous week and 1,259,000 last year, making a total so far this year of 145,432,000 against 132,568,000 last year during the same period.

Australia cleared 2,790,000 compared with 1,711,000 last week and 800,000 last year. So far this season this country has exported 83,434,000 compared with 144,391,000 last year.

Supplies in these two countries have been diminishing at a good rate during recent weeks and it now appears that the carryover at the end of the present season will only be moderate.

Prices at Liverpool reacted yesterday and closed 1½ to 1⅝ lower owing to better weather in Australia and a quiet demand for actual wheat.

DECADES OF PROGRESS
1874-1884
When the C.P.R. went through

The history of Canada's development as a nation extending from sea to sea began with the construction of the C.P.R. Men of vision—Macdonald, Tupper, Stephen, Smith, Van Horne and their associates—inspired by heroic faith, built a railway across 3,000 miles of wilderness, opened the prairie West to settlement and connected British Columbia to her sister provinces by bands of steel. In November, 1885, Donald A. Smith (Lord Strathcona) drove the last spike.

In 1874, however, only two small isolated western sections of the road had been built. Capital for business and construction was lacking. Many banking projects arose to supply the need, and one of these was the Imperial Bank of Canada.

The organization of this bank was completed by Henry S. Howland in 1874 and the Head Office was opened in Toronto early the following year. Branches in St. Catharines, Ingersoll and Port Colborne came through purchase of the Niagara District Bank, and branches at St. Thomas, Woodstock and Fergus were soon added. In 1881 the bank preceded the C.P.R. into Winnipeg, and opened an office in Brandon the year following.

A severe depression fell upon the country in 1883, but all branches of the Imperial Bank were maintained and the statement for 1884 shows dividends of 8% paid on capital of $1,500,000. Assets amounted to $6,500,000.

No. 1 of a series of advertisements illustrating the development of Canada with the progress of this bank since its foundation in 1874.

J. E. APPLEBY HEADS BODY OF TEACHERS

C. A. Ronning, M.L.A., Tells Convention Schools Mould Society

CAMROSE, Oct. 13—J. E. Appleby was elected president of the Camrose inspectorate of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance, at the recent annual convention, attended by close to 200 teachers of the inspectorate.

Fred Gardiner, with pupils of his rural school, demonstrated some practical lessons of a country school, presenting a comprehensive demonstration and covering lessons in practically all grades.

The principal address was given by C. A. Ronning, M.L.A., principal of the Camrose Lutheran College, on "The Telic Function of Education.

"Telic" is a new word of Greek origin, from "telas", meaning purpose, and a Telic society is a purposive society, Mr. Ronning said.

MUST STEER WORLD

"That which goes into the school program today comes out in the society of tomorrow," he said. "H. G. Wells in "The Open Conspiracy," says the educators of today can cause the leaders of tomorrow to be poured into any mold. The teachers should accept the responsibility of steering the world of tomorrow."

Various subjects in our high schools might well be replaced by those of greater social significance, said Mr. Ronning, who believes students spend too much effort in simply trying to pass examinations, mostly in subjects having little value to those not entering the professions. He added that more than 90 per cent of our students do not take professional courses.

WRONG BASIS

The number of passes made by a teacher is no criterion on which to base the value of the teacher and both teacher and school must be freed of the exacting requirements of today, he felt.

Besides the president, officers elected at the convention were: Hon. Perren Baker, honorary president; Miss Agnes Kvittem, Rosalind, vice-president; Ivan B. Mallett, Daysland, secretary-treasurer, and a committee of six members.

Bennett Fined On Negligence Count

STETTLER, Oct. 13.—C. V. Bennett, Calgary barrister, was found guilty by Mr. Justice Ewing of "negligence in doing or omitting to do an act which caused grevious bodily injury," Thursday, and fined $25.

The charge arose out of a collision between Mr. Bennett's car and a horse and buggy driven by Mrs. Agnes Beattie on the Big Valley road, south of Stettler, August 4, in which Mrs. Beattie was hurt.

W. J. McClung, prosecuted and McKinley Cameron, K.C., Calgary, appeared for the defence. Bennett was acquitted on a charge of wanton and furious driving.

Rimbey May Get Calgary Power

RIMBEY, Oct. 13—C. C. Planche, engineer of the Calgary Power Co., was in Rimbey meeting the village council in connection with the extension of the company's lines to include Rimbey and Bentley.

Mr. Planche called in at Bentley on his way back to Calgary and consulted with Thorp Bros., present franchise holders of power service in Bentley.

Secretary Saunders of Rimbey village council was instructed to forward a plan of the town, together with an estimated number of possible power users in the district.

Following the receipt of this the power company will be in a position to decide whether the time is ripe for the proposed extension.

Horses Purchased For Newfoundland

CLIVE, Oct. 13—A representative of the Goodyear Lumber company of Deer Lake, Newfoundland, has been busy in this district purchasing a carload of horses for shipment to Deer Lake to be used for work in the lumber woods. The average price paid is about $120 a team.

Special Services

BAWLF, Oct. 13—Principal F. S. McCall, D.D., of Alberta College, Edmonton, will conduct special anniversary services, assisted by the choir, at the United Church, Sunday, Oct. 21.

And When You Say That, Smile!

Herbert Marshall, English film actor, didn't remember that "The Virginian" once said, "When you say that, smile!" When Marshall said "that" or something that sounded like it to John Monk Saunders, writer, shown in top photo with his wife, Fay Wray, Marshall looked as he does in the centre square. He should have smiled as he does in the circle, for Saunders' fist crashed on Marshall's jaw, the Englishman went down, and Gloria Swanson, right below, often seen with Marshall these days, was a horrified observer. It all happened at Director Ernest Lubitsch's Hollywood party for a group of film notables.

Bear Lake Mineral Activity Benefits City of Edmonton

Machinery and Material Valued at $750,000 Purchased in City — Other Supplies Total $600,000.

"How much benefit have the Great Bear Lake mining activities been to Edmonton?"

The answer received by officials at the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce to this vital question was one that speaks for itself: "Machinery and material up to the value of $750,000 have been purchased in Edmonton and other supplies to the value of $600,000."

With reports so optimistic as this officials feel that Edmonton's future does indeed look rosy.

With the Great Bear Lake area barely scratched and with the assurances of ever-increasing activities Edmonton in her position as the supply, labor, and mining headquarters of this vast area has every reason to look forward to an era of prosperity such as she has never before known, state officials.

OTHER AREAS

Nor is Edmonton only in touch with the northern part of this province for planes leave Edmonton constantly for other sections, Northern British Columbia, the Northwest Territories and the Arctic.

Miners and prospectors of Great Bear Lake have obtained their supplies from Edmonton in the past and will continue to do so in the future.

In the course of only one month during this year over $150,000 worth of ore concentrates arrived in Edmonton from the northern districts.

With facts as concrete as these and with mineral values travelling ever upwards, Edmonton has every reason to look forward to the future—and—to feel good!

Pioneer Relics Found In Brush

FORT ST. JAMES, B.C., Oct 13.—Relics of the days when pioneer settlers penetrated into the wild brush country of northern British Columbia 75 years ago, a number of cradles, now primitive grain-cutting implements, have been found in one of the Hudson's Bay Company's old log warehouses here.

The cradles, a form of scythe with a row of teeth projecting above and parallel to the scythe blade to lay the swathes of grain in straight rows as they were cut, are believed to have been brought into the warehouse shortly after it was erected about 1872.

Once in great demand, the cradles have lain unused and rusting for more than 40 years.

Gasoline Thieves Busy at Bashaw

BASHAW, Oct. 13.—Raiding several filling stations in Bashaw, thieves have stolen large quantities of gasoline during the last few days. More than 100 gallons was stolen from the Imperial Oil tanks and 10 or 15 gallons from the Bashaw Garage and Service Station. No arrests have yet been made by Const. Marks, who is investigating.

YIELDS GOOD IN BAWLF DISTRICT; THRESHERS BUSY

BAWLF, Oct. 13.—Threshing resumed last week for the fourth time this season, is rapidly progressing, aided by ideal, warm weather, without heavy dew or morning frosts. Heavy winds last week blew all the leaves off the trees, and when the wind was most severe, a few threshing machines were forced to suspend work.

Despite the drought, there are some heavy yields, the highest reported being 32 bushels of wheat to the acre. Grain in stook before the August frost is grading No. 1 to 3, but later grain, mostly Marquis, grades No. 2 to 6, with an average of 4 and 5.

ELEVATORS ARE BUSY

RIMBEY, Oct. 13.—Elevators are busy receiving grain although the amounts handled will be less this year than last. A. McNevin, U.G.G. agent at Forshee, stated Tuesday that to date he had handled 12,000 bushels at an average grade of No. 3, and that the average yield per acre was about 12 bushels. Several large fields between Rimbey and Bentley grew 25 bushels to the acre. Ronald Wetzel was threshing a hundred acre field on Thursday which ran close to 30 bushels by machine measure, and Walter Miles threshed a 30 bushel crop.

YIELD IS LOW

CLIVE, Oct. 13.—Threshing will be finished in a few days if present fine weather continues. Grain is in fair condition although it suffered slightly from the long wet spell. Yields are low, ranging from four to 20 bushels an acre. Deliveries to elevators are light, but roads are good.

GRADING HIGH

BASHAW, Oct. 13.—Wheat and oats in this district are grading high with only an odd load of wheat being tough. Most wheat runs No. 1, 2 and 3 northern, and wheat yields run 28 and 30 bushels an acre, with oats 35 and 40. Many farmers are feeding cut grain to the cattle, due to shortage of pasturage.

YIELD IS FAIR

REDWATER, Oct. 13.—Recent fine weather has aided threshers, who have practically completed the fall run. The yield is fairly good and wheat cut before the first frost grades No. 2, while damaged wheat is running No. 5 and 6. Barley and oats were most affected by the frost and snow.

GRADES ONE NORTHERN

ERSKINE, Oct. 13.—Some good yields have been reported in wheat crops in this district, the highest being on the farm of Jock McGladrie, nine miles northeast of town, with 60 acres of Marquis yielding 22 bushels an acre. S. E. Clark, six miles north, has an 18-bushel crop of Garnet on 140 acres. Both graded No. 1.

THRESHING RUSHED

THREE HILLS, Oct. 13.—Ideal weather of the past week has caused harvesting and threshing to be rushed. The grain is in splendid condition. A high temperature mark of 85 degrees was recorded this week.

GRADES ARE GOOD

QUANTITY HAULED

CLYDE, Oct. 13.—With threshing speeded by recent hot weather, a large quantity of grain is being hauled to local elevators.

WEATHER AIDS THRESHERS

ARDROSSAN, Oct. 13.—Threshing is rapidly progressing in this district, aided by fine weather, and should be completed within a few days.

New High School For Rimbey Area

RIMBEY, Oct. 13.—With an attendance of 19 pupils the second rural high school to be established in the Rimbey district is showing good results. Classes are held in a house near Froshee siding and grades nine and ten are taught by E. Crommie. Tuition fees paid by the parents, school districts and government grant make up the instructor's salary. Pupils obtain high school tuition, at the same time being enabled to reside at home.

OLD TIMER DIES

At The Strand

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE BULLETIN

By E. V. SHEPARD

FAMOUS BRIDGE TEACHER

CAN SOUTH GO GAME?

The contract is 4-spades. The opening lead is a low spade. Can South go game against the best subsequent defence? Six players in a duplicate game went down a trick. Five players went game against opening leads other than a spade.

♣ A Q

Have South take 4 rounds of trumps, picking up East's Q and forcing West to make 2 discards. Dummy will discard a club on the fourth spade led. What East does need not be recorded. Note what West discards. Of course West must keep at least 2 clubs, or South will gain a trick by picking up West's K, thus losing no tricks in that suit. West's most natural first discard is his lowest heart. It will be natural for West to keep 3 hearts, to provide safe exit, if hearts are led. Try letting West's second discard be a diamond or a club.

If West discards a diamond, South must keep his 4 cards of that suit. If West holds his 4 diamonds, South must let go one of his diamonds at the first opportunity. Suppose West lets go a diamond. Lead the ace of hearts followed by a low heart. West will win his first trick. What will he lead back? A diamond lead will give the declarer 5-odd. He will lose only a single diamond trick, aside from the heart already lost. His Q of clubs will be discarded on dummy's good Q of hearts. As a diamond or club lead will be fatal, have West lead his last remaining heart. Discard South's Q of clubs. Lay down the ace of diamonds, giving West 2 tricks in that suit. The remaining tricks belong to South, giving him game.

Have West's second discard a club instead of a diamond, as his best defence. Lead the ace and a low heart as before. If West declines to win the heart trick dummy's Q will win. South can ruff dummy's last heart dropping also West's K. Give West 3 diamond tricks or 2 diamond tricks and a club trick, according to the way West plays, but South will in either event go game.

As West cannot gain by failing to win with his K of hearts, have him win with his K. His best return lead is a heart. Win with dummy's Q. As West has kept only 2 clubs, discard one of South's diamonds. Win with the ace of clubs. Give West his second trick, with his Q of clubs. Having only 4 diamonds left, West must lead that suit. Whichever card he leads South must win 2 diamond tricks and give West a single and third trick in diamonds. South could have gone game, even against an opening spade lead, but it would have been more difficult than against any other lead.

Some of the Advantages of a Deposit Account

When you have a D. A., if shopping in person, you simply say, "Charge to my D. A." Give your number, and your purchases are delivered as paid.

Goods advertised "No C.O.D. Orders" may be ordered over the telephone and charged to your D. A.

At the end of each month you receive an itemized account of your D. A. purchases, deposits, withdrawals, credit for goods returned, and your balance.

Deposits or withdrawals may be made any time during business hours.

The Deposit Account Department is operated solely as a shopping convenience for our patrons, and this service is open to all EATON Customers.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

The LEOPARD IS CONSIDERED BY MANY HUNTERS TO BE MORE DANGEROUS THAN THE LION AND TIGER.
HE SPENDS MOST OF HIS TIME IN TREES, BEING AN EXPERT CLIMBER! EVEN MONKEYS LIVE IN FEAR OF HIM.
LEOPARDS, UNLIKE MOST OTHER WILD ANIMALS, DO NOT SHUN THE HAUNTS OF MAN! THEY THRIVE IN THE WELL-SETTLED REGIONS OF ASIA AND AFRICA, PREYING ON THE LIVE STOCK AND DOGS OF THE SETTLERS. OCCASIONALLY A LEOPARD BECOMES A MAN-EATER.

AFRICAN NATIVES DIP THEIR SPEARS IN THE BLOOD OF THE LEOPARD AFTER A SUCCESSFUL HUNT, IN ORDER TO ACQUIRE SOME OF THE ANIMAL'S SKILL, CUNNING AND FEARLESSNESS.
AFTER EATING ITS FILL OF AN ANTELOPE DINNER, THE LEOPARD DRAGS THE CARCASS UP A TREE, TO KEEP IT AWAY FROM THIEVING HYENAS.
BLACK LEOPARDS BELONG TO THE SAME RACE AS THE SPOTTED VARIETY. A BLACK SPECIMEN MAY HAVE NORMAL-COLORED PARENTS. THE BLACKS ARE MORE FEROCIOUS THAN THEIR ORDINARY RELATIVES.

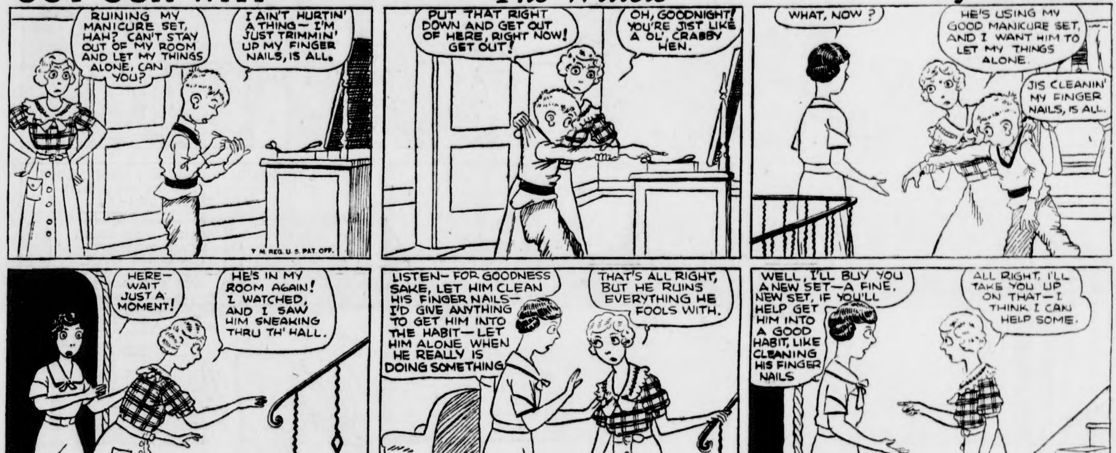
OUT OUR WAY

The Willets

By Williams



RUINING MY MANICURE SET, HAH? CAN'T STAY OUT OF MY ROOM AND LET MY THINGS ALONE, CAN YOU?
I AIN'T HURTIN' A THING— I'M JUST TRIMMIN' UP MY FINGER NAILS, IS ALL.
T M REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
PUT THAT RIGHT DOWN AND GET OUT OF HERE, RIGHT NOW! GET OUT!
OH, GOODNIGHT! YOU'RE JIST LIKE A OL', CRABBY HEN.
WHAT, NOW ?
HE'S USING MY GOOD MANICURE SET, AND I WANT HIM TO LET MY THINGS ALONE.
JIS CLEANIN' MY FINGER NAILS, IS ALL.
HERE— WAIT JUST A MOMENT!
HE'S IN MY ROOM AGAIN! I WATCHED, AND I SAW HIM SNEAKING THRU TH' HALL.
LISTEN— FOR GOODNESS SAKE, LET HIM CLEAN HIS FINGER NAILS— I'D GIVE ANYTHING TO GET HIM INTO THE HABIT— LET HIM ALONE WHEN HE REALLY IS DOING SOMETHING THAT'S ALL RIGHT, BUT HE RUINS EVERYTHING HE FOOLS WITH.
WELL, I'LL BUY YOU A NEW SET—A FINE, NEW SET, IF YOU'LL HELP GET HIM INTO A GOOD HABIT, LIKE CLEANING HIS FINGER NAILS
ALL RIGHT, I'LL TAKE YOU UP ON THAT—I THINK I CAN HELP SOME.
NOW, YOU GET OUT OF MY ROOM AND LET MY MANICURE SET ALONE—DO YOU HEAR ME?
PUT THEM RIGHT DOWN, I TELL YOU, AND GET OUT OF HERE.
AWRIGHT— JIST A SECOND.
GO ON— YOU'VE GOT NO BUSINESS IN MY— UH — ?
WAIT A MINUTE, CAN'TCHA?
I THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING TO ENCOURAGE HIM INTO A GOOD HABIT.
I AM—THAT'S THE ONLY WAY I CAN GET HIM TO DO ANYTHING.
TALK SENSE
WHY, YES— IF YOU TELL HIM NOT TO USE THEM, HE WILL— BUT, IF YOU TELL HIM TO USE THEM, HE WON'T TOUCH THEM.
THAT'S FINE! YOU'RE VERY BRIGHT, BUT WHY DIDN'T YOU USE THAT SYSTEM WHEN YOU WERE FIRST HAULING AND RASSLING HIM OUT OF THERE?

Little Orphan Annie — By Harold Gray

AN EDMONTON BULLETIN DAILY FEATURE

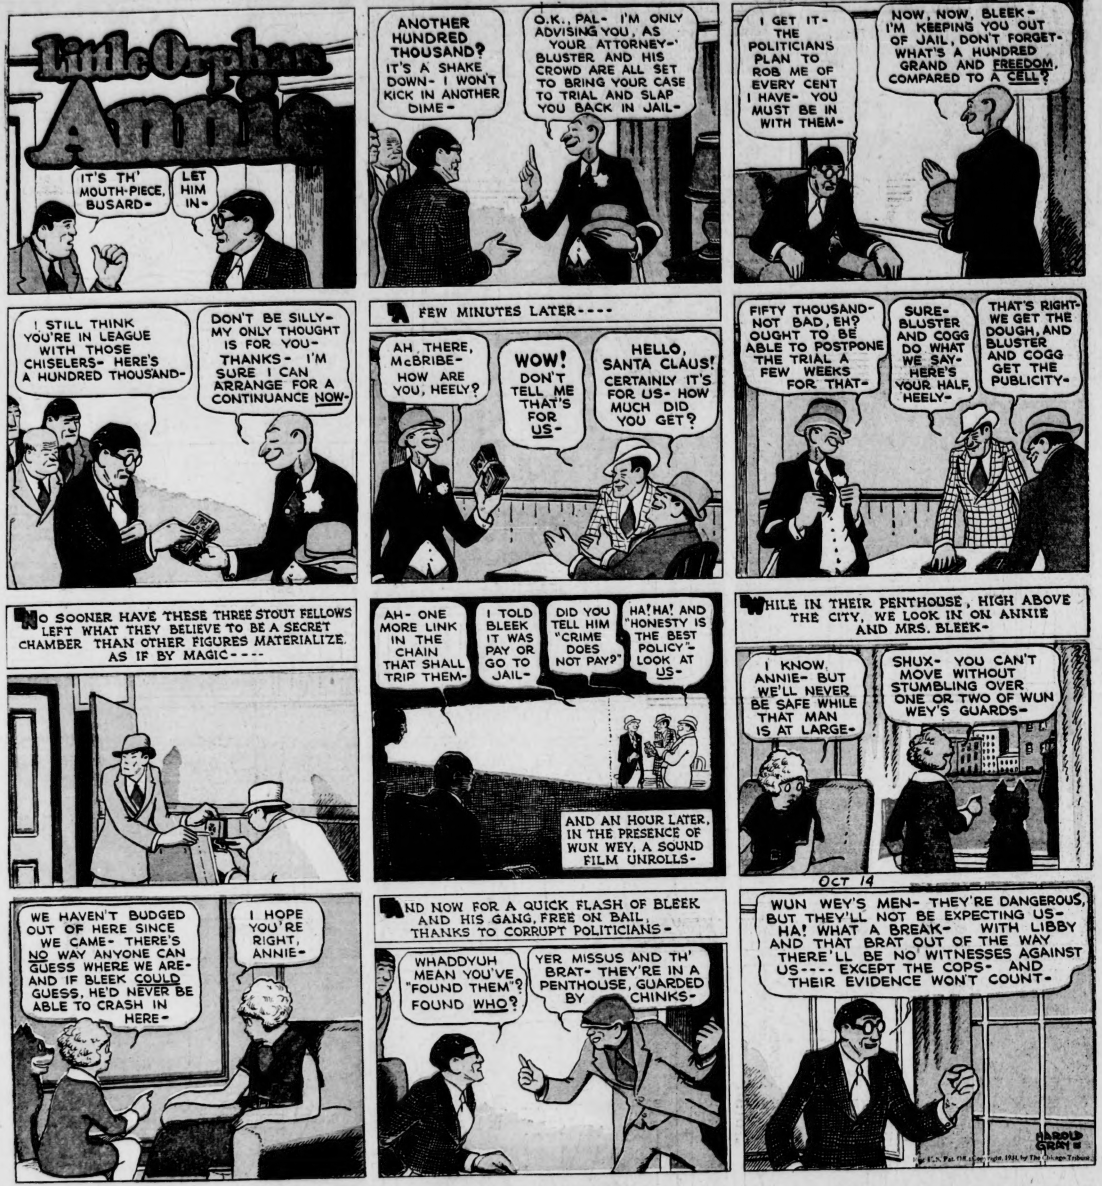
ALBERTA'S GREATEST SATURDAY COMIC PAGES

EDMONTON, ALBERTA, OCTOBER 13, 1934



Little Orphan Annie
IT'S TH' MOUTH-PIECE, BUSARD-
LET HIM IN-
ANOTHER HUNDRED THOUSAND? IT'S A SHAKE DOWN- I WON'T KICK IN ANOTHER DIME-
O.K., PAL- I'M ONLY ADVISING YOU, AS YOUR ATTORNEY- BLUSTER AND HIS CROWD ARE ALL SET TO BRING YOUR CASE TO TRIAL AND SLAP YOU BACK IN JAIL-
I GET IT- THE POLITICIANS PLAN TO ROB ME OF EVERY CENT I HAVE- YOU MUST BE IN WITH THEM-
NOW, NOW, BLEEK- I'M KEEPING YOU OUT OF JAIL, DON'T FORGET- WHAT'S A HUNDRED GRAND AND FREEDOM, COMPARED TO A CELL?
I STILL THINK YOU'RE IN LEAGUE WITH THOSE CHISELERS- HERE'S A HUNDRED THOUSAND-
DON'T BE SILLY- MY ONLY THOUGHT IS FOR YOU- THANKS- I'M SURE I CAN ARRANGE FOR A CONTINUANCE NOW-
A FEW MINUTES LATER----
AH, THERE, McBRIBE- HOW ARE YOU, HEELY?
WOW! DON'T TELL ME THAT'S FOR US-
HELLO, SANTA CLAUS! CERTAINLY IT'S FOR US- HOW MUCH DID YOU GET?
FIFTY THOUSAND- NOT BAD, EH? OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO POSTPONE THE TRIAL A FEW WEEKS FOR THAT-SURE- BLUSTER AND COGG DO WHAT WE SAY- HERE'S YOUR HALF, HEELY-
THAT'S RIGHT- WE GET THE DOUGH, AND BLUSTER AND COGG GET THE PUBLICITY-
AH- ONE MORE LINK IN THE CHAIN THAT SHALL TRIP THEM-
I TOLD BLEEK IT WAS PAY OR GO TO JAIL-
DID YOU TELL HIM "CRIME DOES NOT PAY?"
HA! HA! AND "HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY"- LOOK AT US-
I KNOW, ANNIE- BUT WE'LL NEVER BE SAFE WHILE THAT MAN IS AT LARGE-SHUX- YOU CAN'T MOVE WITHOUT STUMBLING OVER ONE OR TWO OF WUN WEY'S GUARDS-
OCT 14
WE HAVEN'T BUDGED OUT OF HERE SINCE WE CAME- THERE'S NO WAY ANYONE CAN GUESS WHERE WE ARE- AND IF BLEEK COULD GUESS, HE'D NEVER BE ABLE TO CRASH IN HERE-
I HOPE YOU'RE RIGHT, ANNIE-
WHADDYUH MEAN YOU'VE "FOUND THEM"? FOUND WHO?
YER MISSUS AND TH' BRAT- THEY'RE IN A PENTHOUSE, GUARDED BY CHINKS-
WUN WEY'S MEN- THEY'RE DANGEROUS, BUT THEY'LL NOT BE EXPECTING US- HA! WHAT A BREAK- WITH LIBBY AND THAT BRAT OUT OF THE WAY THERE'LL BE NO WITNESSES AGAINST US---- EXCEPT THE COPS- AND THEIR EVIDENCE WON'T COUNT-

TCH-TCH- AWFUL- AND DID YOU HEAR? THEY SAY SHE S-SP-SP-SP---
THEY SAY SHE OUGHT TO BE RUN OUT OF TOWN-
THEY SAY EVERYBODY KNOWS IT-
WHO SAYS?
WHY, ER-ER- EVERYBODY SAYS SO, I GUESS-
YEAH? IF YOU CAN'T TELL WHO SAID IT, AND MAKE 'EM PROVE IT, YOU'RE MALICIOUS OLD GOSSIPS-
YOU RUIN A BODY'S GOOD NAME WITHOUT GIVIN' HER A CHANCE TO DEFEND HERSELF- YOU TAKE WHAT'S EVERYTHING TO HER AND NOTHING TO YOU-
